SAMPLES OF BIBLIOGRAPHY AND NOTES

Bibliographies as well as footnotes/endnotes must follow the Chicago Manual of Style format (see also Kate L. Turabian, A Manual for Writers of Term Papers, Theses and Dissertations). Below you will find an example style guide.

1. Bibliography

Bibliographies are alphabetized by the author’s last name.

NOTE: citations for books do not include page numbers. Page numbers are necessary for journal articles.
2. Endnotes and Footnotes

To indicate a note in your text, include a superscript number after the final punctuation mark in a sentence. Number the notes consecutively both in your text and on your endnotes/footnotes. When you initially cite a source, you must include the complete citation; however, subsequent references to that same source may be abbreviated. All notes MUST include page numbers.
