Preface

This Handbook is a summary of policies and practices pertaining to faculty members at Reed College. It has been prepared by the Office of the Dean of the Faculty. It is composed exclusively of authoritative documents or document excerpts, including sections of the Faculty Constitution, By-Laws, and Rules of Procedures, individual items of faculty legislation, established policy statements from administrative offices, and the like. It contains no editorial material other than the selection and organization of the documents themselves.

Although we have tried to make the Faculty Handbook as complete as possible, many policies that govern faculty activities are not included. Among these are policies directed not to the faculty per se but to all members of the Reed community. Moreover, since the meaning of certain excerpts might depend on their larger contexts, it may be useful to consult the original sources wherever serious questions arise.

At several points, the Handbook refers to Oregon state law. Faculty members wishing to consult the statutes themselves may obtain copies from the Reed College Office of Human Resources.

I. A. MISSION STATEMENT

(Source: Approved by the Reed College Board of Trustees on June 22, 2008)
The Mission of Reed College

Reed College is an institution of higher education in the liberal arts devoted to the intrinsic value of intellectual pursuit and governed by the highest standards of scholarly practice, critical thought, and creativity. Its undergraduate program of study, leading to the degree of Bachelor of Arts, is demanding and intense and balances breadth of knowledge across the curriculum with depth of knowledge in a particular field of study. The goal of the Reed education is that students learn and demonstrate rigor and independence in their habits of thought, inquiry and expression.

The Reed Education

1. The Reed education balances broad study in the various areas of human knowledge and a structured, in-depth study in an academic discipline through degree requirements established by the faculty.
2. The educational program's pedagogies are characterized by close interaction of students and faculty in an atmosphere of shared intellectual and scholarly concern and active learning. Small conference and laboratory classes are the norm, providing students the opportunity to demonstrate intellectual initiative and creative engagement.
3. College-wide distribution requirements provide a foundation for all students in the assumptions, basic theoretical frameworks, techniques, and current literature of a range of academic disciplines, both humanistic and scientific.
4. The program in a student's major area of study is an intensive examination of the objects, literature, theoretical concerns, and research models characteristic of an academic discipline. Among the requirements for the major are successful performance on a junior qualifying examination, completion of a yearlong senior thesis based on original research or artistic expression, and a successful oral defense of the thesis before an interdisciplinary faculty board.
5. The Reed education is distinguished by a yearlong interdisciplinary Humanities course, required for every first-year student. The College further encourages interdisciplinary study through upper-division Humanities courses, as well as established interdisciplinary majors representing areas of research and scholarship that span traditional disciplines.
6. To ensure the highest quality education for its students, the College supports and encourages scholarly research by the faculty and the application of such scholarship throughout the teaching program.

Operating Principles of Reed College

1. The educational mission of the College requires the freest exchange and most open discussion of ideas. The use of censorship or intimidation is intolerable in such a community.
2. All members of the College community, including students, faculty, and staff, are governed by an honor principle, which emphasizes personal responsibility and mutual respect in the conduct of one's affairs.
3. Because the College fosters and defends academic freedom, it avoids taking positions on political issues that do not directly affect the fulfillment of its educational mission.
4. The College has no religious affiliation and maintains neutrality regarding religions and religious practices.
5. Any post-baccalaureate educational program that the College chooses to offer must be consistent with and supportive of the College's central educational mission.
6. Reed is by design a small college that values opportunities for in-depth and sustained academic exploration and the development of close professional relationships among students, faculty, and staff.
7. The activities of the staff are essential to the well-being of the institution, and, in areas related to the educational program, the staff supports and advances the pursuit of the College's academic goals.
8. Students are not divided by academic ability or promise, and there are neither "honors" degrees nor other such programs.
9. Each student works with a faculty advisor, who helps plan a course of study that is consistent with the student's academic goals and that meets the distribution and major requirements. Faculty advisors also provide evaluation and advice related to the student's performance.
10. Instructors provide students with frequent and substantive evaluation of their performance in order to promote student intellectual growth. Although grades are recorded for all classes, they are not routinely reported to students.
11. The affairs of the College are conducted under constitutional government that accords primary governing responsibility to faculty, students, and staff within their appropriate spheres, and encourages collaboration and cooperation among all constituents in the development of policies of general concern. Matters concerning the curriculum are ultimately decided by the faculty.
12. Reed is a residential college that provides on-campus housing in small residential communities for a majority of its students in order to sustain vibrant social and intellectual exchange outside of the classroom and laboratory.
13. The College believes that pursuit of its academic goals is advanced by actively seeking a student body, a faculty, and a staff that reflect a diversity of social, racial, and ethnic backgrounds.
14. The College seeks to attract and enroll students solely on the basis of their suitability for the academic program, and, to the degree possible, without regard to financial need or other disadvantages unconnected with academic performance or ability.
15. In service of its educational mission, the College provides a broad array of counseling and health-related programs, cultural events, extracurricular and community service activities, and recreational sports to support the academic growth and physical and emotional health of its students.

I. B. NON-DISCRIMINATION AND EQUAL OPPORTUNITY

EMPLOYMENT

(Source: Revised July 2015, Office of the President)

Reed does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, age, marital status, veteran status, genetic information, physical or mental disability, family relationship, or on the basis of any other category protected by law. Reed does not consider any of the above attributes in administration of its employment policies, educational policies, admissions policies, scholarship and loan program, and athletic and other school-administered programs. In its policies and actions, Reed will comply with its obligations under state and federal law including Title VI and Title VII of the 1964 Civil Rights Act, Title IX of the 1972 Education Amendments, Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 (ADA), the Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act (USERRA), Oregon Revised Statutes, and any other applicable law. Inquiries on the application of Title VI, Title IX, the ADA, and Section 504, may be made to Mike Brody, Vice President for Student Services, Reed College, or to the Office for Civil Rights.

The college maintains a strict policy that prohibits harassment in any form prohibited by law. The selection of new faculty members, and subsequent evaluations, are based upon individual merit and not upon race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, national origin, requesting or taking leave protected by law, age, disability, marital status, family relationship, gender identity, association with anyone in a protected class, application for workers compensation benefits, opposition to safety/health hazards, expunged juvenile record, service in uniformed service, genetic history, aiding in a civil or criminal proceeding, good faith reporting of information that the employee believes is evidence of a violation of a state or federal law, or any other unlawful basis, nor upon political beliefs.

I. C. ACADEMIC FREEDOM AND RESPONSIBILITY

(Source: Faculty Constitution, Article V)

Section 1. Each Faculty member has individual freedom of inquiry and expression in research, in publication, and in the teaching of his or her subjects and courses. Academic freedom and responsibility are here defined as the liberty and obligation to study, to investigate, and to discuss facts and ideas concerning all branches and fields of learning. No limitations on such freedom shall be imposed other than those required by generally accepted standards of responsible scholarship and research.

Section 2. When a Faculty member speaks, writes, or acts as a citizen, he or she shall be free from institutional censorship or discipline, and he or she should undertake to avoid any implication that he or she is speaking on behalf of the institution.

Section 3. No individual shall be excluded from initial appointments to academic rank, from continuation of appointments, or from academic tenure, nor shall any individual have his or her appointment terminated before the end of his or her stated term or have his or her academic tenure terminated because of his or her views or associations.

I. D. DISSENT

(Source: Minutes of the Faculty, January 27, 1986)

"The faculty affirms that it has not changed its policy as expressed in the following statement:

'Reed College considers the right of free speech, and therefore, that of dissent, to be fundamental to its life as an academic community. The exercise of the right of dissent is not something to be grudgingly tolerated, but actively encouraged. The boundaries of dissent stop at the point where the exercising of it, and the decisions accompanying the exercise, are denied to others. Accordingly, protests or demonstrations shall not be discouraged so long as neither force nor the threat of force is used, and so long as the orderly processes of the College are not deliberately obstructed. Physical obstruction, the threat and use of force in the interest of dissent, are things which cannot be tolerated in an academic community, and those engaging in it must be regarded as having violated conditions fundamental to the preservation of its integrity and of its very life.

Further, at this College, such acts, striking at the heart of the Community by denying it the functions for which it is organized, constitute a violation of the Honor Principle. Accordingly, persons proved by the Judicial processes of the Community to have engaged in such acts will be considered to have committed honor violations."

I. E. HONOR PRINCIPLE

(Source: 2011-12 Reed College Catalog)

Since the college's founding, members of the Reed community have described the honor principle as one of the most important and distinctive features of the college. Its origins can be traced to the first class of Reed students, who "voted to relieve the faculty of the burden of enforcing honesty in ... tests, and agreed to make it a 'point of honor' not to cheat in examinations." In 1973 the faculty adopted a more explicit statement about the honor principle that reconfirmed the community's responsibility for "maintaining standards of honesty and mutual trust in their academic and social lives.... The honor principle also demands the respectful concern of each person for the other, and exercise of conscionable judgment in all actions toward individuals and their property." This statement continues, "Although the colleges does not call upon its members to sign a pledge of honor, it does recognize the necessity for tacit agreement of all its members to support the honor principle by governing their own conduct in accordance with its spirit, [and] by respecting regulations which the community has established."

The preamble to the current community constitution applies to all students, faculty members, and staff members. It states, "We declare our commitment to responsible and honorable conduct in academic and community affairs, and we reaffirm one another's rights to freedom of inquiry and expression in coursework, scholarship, and the day-to-day life of the Reed community. Since such freedom requires an atmosphere of trust and mutual confidence, we further declare that dishonesty, intimidation, harassment, exploitation, and the use or threat of force are incompatible with the preservation of this freedom."

An honor council composed of equal numbers of students and members of the faculty and staff is responsible for educating members of the Reed community about the meaning and importance of the Honor Principle. Members of the various subcommittees of the honor council provide advice to those seeking resolution of grievances. The mediation subcommittee of the honor council oversees the process of formal mediation, including the provision of neutral third-party mediators. The community rights subcommittee may bring honor cases on behalf of the community when the community’s rights have been violated. A student judicial board has primary responsibility for adjudicating formal complaints against students.

II. A. THE FACULTY

(Source: Faculty Constitution, Article I, Section 1, amended at the March 11, 2013 meeting of the faculty)

The Faculty of Reed College shall consist of academic members and administrative members as follows:

A. Academic members shall include:

Each member of the teaching or research staff who hold academic rank, including those on visiting appointments and those on sabbatical and leave but excluding emeritus faculty. "Academic rank" means the rank of Assistant Professor, Associate Professor, or Professor.

B. Administrative members shall include:

1. The President, Dean of the Faculty, Vice-Presidents, Librarian, Registrar, Chief Information Officer, Dean for Institutional Diversity and Dean of Admission.
2. Each member appointed to the faculty with the title of Assistant Director, Associate Director or Director, including those on "Acting" or "Visiting" appointments.
3. Administrative officers appointed to membership in the Faculty by the President with the approval of the Committee on Advancement and Tenure for one-year terms that shall not be extended except after discussion with the Faculty.

II. B. CONDITIONS OF APPOINTMENT

(Source: Rules of Procedure, B)

Section B-1. The precise terms and conditions of every appointment or reappointment shall be stated in writing and be in possession of both the Faculty member and the College before the appointment is consummated. There are three types of appointment contracts, tenure track, tenured and visiting (as described in Article IV, Section 4 of the Faculty Constitution).

Section B-5. [Except for matters covered by Section B-3 above] the College shall notify all Faculty members not later than May 15 of each year concerning their status for the next academic year, including rank and (unless unavoidable budgetary conditions forbid) prospective salary.

Section B-6. Objections to any decision affecting employment status pursuant to Article 6, Section 5 of the Faculty Constitution must be presented to the Committee on Advancement and Tenure within thirty days of the date of notification of the action. If the matter is not satisfactorily resolved within two weeks, an appeal to the Appeals and Review Committee may be initiated by written statement of intent.
II. C. TENURE

(Source: Faculty Constitution and Rules of Procedure)

Faculty Constitution: Article IV

Section 3. An academic member of the Faculty on regular appointment shall be notified whether or not he or she has been granted tenure at the end of his or her probationary period. The normal probationary period shall be six years of appointment (either tenure track or visiting) at Reed College at the rank of Assistant Professor of higher. The probationary period must include at least eight semesters of full-time teaching at Reed that have been completed prior to the semester in which CAT tenure evaluation occurs. If at least eight semesters of full-time teaching at Reed have not been completed prior to the semester in which the tenure evaluation is scheduled to occur, the probationary period will be extended—hence the tenure evaluation delayed—so as to permit the completion of the required number of semesters.

A. For faculty who, prior to joining the Reed faculty, have held a full-time teaching appointment at a college or university that awards a baccalaureate or higher degree, the normal probationary period may be reduced by one year, and the full-time teaching requirement reduced by two semesters for each year of prior full-time teaching, except that in no case will a tenure evaluation occur until the faculty member has completed at least four semesters of full-time teaching at Reed.

B. For faculty who have not held a previous full-time teaching appointment at a college or university that awards a baccalaureate or higher degree but who have held, at such a college or university, either one or more previous full-time full-year post-doctoral research appointments or one or more previous full-time full-year appointments involving a combination of teaching and post-doctoral research, the normal probationary period may be reduced by one year and the full-time teaching requirement reduced by two semesters.

C. For faculty who have held a previous full-time teaching appointment at a college or university that awards a baccalaureate or higher degree and have also held either one or more previous full-time full-year post-doctoral research appointments or one or more previous full-time full-year appointments involving a combination of teaching and post-doctoral research, the normal probationary period may be reduced by one year for each year of such full-time appointment, except that in no case will a tenure evaluation occur until the faculty member has completed (1) at least four semesters of full-time teaching at Reed if the previous experience includes two or more years of full-time teaching or (2) at least six semesters of full-time teaching at Reed if the previous experience includes one year of full-time teaching.

D. The decision as to whether or not to reduce the probationary period and the full-time teaching requirements in accordance with Sections A, B or C must be communicated by the faculty member to the Dean of the Faculty no later than during the semester immediately following the faculty member's first full evaluation (which itself normally occurs in the Fall semester of the second year of the faculty member’s appointment).

E. The normal probationary period of six years may be extended by one year for each parental leave that a faculty member requests and receives in accordance with college policy. In such cases, the decision as to whether or not to extend the probationary period must be communicated by the faculty member to the Dean of the Faculty as part of the formal leave request.

Rules of Procedure

Section B-4. Once a Faculty member has acquired academic tenure, the presumption of both the Faculty and the College is for continuation of service from year to year in the absence of written notice to the contrary. The College will provide annually a statement of the salary established for the ensuing year and, as occasion requires, written notice of promotions and of other specific changes of terms, such as approval of leaves.

Section B-7. Normally, academic tenure will apply only to full-time academic members of the Faculty, but it may occasionally be desirable to accord it to personnel having additional employment outside the College. A Faculty member having academic tenure who reduces his or her employment at the College to a continuing part-time basis shall not necessarily lose his or her status of academic tenure as a result. All special cases involving part-time employment shall be accepted or rejected on their individual merits.

Section B-8. An individual on academic tenure will retain such status during official leaves of absence.

II. D. TERMINATION

(Source: Rules of Procedure and Faculty Constitution)

Rules of Procedure, I:

Section I-1

1. The existence and extent of a bona fide financial exigency shall first be discussed with the Faculty and all means of meeting the exigency shall be analyzed.
2. Only after consultation with the Committee on Academic Policy and Planning, the President or the Board of Trustees may carry out the termination.
3. The person terminated may, after receiving notice of termination, request a written statement from the President giving the reasons for his or her being selected for termination and may appeal the decision to the Appeals and Review Committee. In event of appeal, the person terminated may make such written or oral presentation as he or she desires and may present witnesses and other evidence in his or her behalf. He or she may be accompanied by an academic advisor or legal counsel of his or her own choosing or both.
4. The Board of Trustees shall fix the financial arrangements with respect to termination. In the case of tenured Faculty, the individual shall receive 12 months’ salary from the date of termination at his or her prevailing rate; however, the College and the individual shall use reasonable efforts to obtain another position for the individual and, if another position is obtained, the termination pay shall cease when pay from the new position begins.

Rules of Procedure, B:

Section B-2. Notice that a tenure track appointment for a fixed term will not be renewed or extended shall be given to the Faculty member in writing as soon as such decision is made and, unless delay is caused by a bona fide emergency situation, shall also be in accordance with the following schedule:

1. If the individual has been a member of the Faculty for less than two years, as early as possible before the beginning of the Christmas recess of the last year of his or her appointment.
2. If the individual has been a member of the Faculty for two or more years, at least 12 months prior to the date of termination of his or her appointment.

Faculty Constitution, Article VI:

Section I. Termination of the appointment of any academic Faculty member on academic tenure, or of any other academic Faculty member prior to the end of the term for which he or she was appointed, shall be only on the basis of:

1. Academic cause, which means service falling significantly below the standard which the College may reasonably expect of a person holding the academic rank attained, as such standard is defined according to the criteria set forth in Article III-2.
2. Physical or mental disability of such a nature as to produce academic cause as defined in paragraph A.
3. Personal conduct in flagrant conflict with the purposes of teaching and scholarship.

Section II. The President and the Board of Trustees recognize the necessity for judgment by an academic Faculty member's colleagues prior to a decision on termination of appointment. Proceedings to terminate an appointment shall be governed by the Faculty Rules of Procedure.

II. E. RESIGNATION

(Source: Rules of Procedure, D)

Section D-1. A Faculty member who contemplates resigning or is seriously negotiating other employment shall not delay informing the College of his or her intentions longer than is necessary to protect his or her rights and convenience in seeking employment.

Section D-2. A Faculty member who concludes a binding agreement to accept employment elsewhere is obligated to notify the College immediately.

Section D-3. Except in emergency situations, a Faculty member is under obligation not to submit a resignation less than six weeks before the end of spring semester to take effect at the end of the academic year. If such a resignation is submitted, the College may refuse to accept the resignation and the Faculty member is obligated to conform to the College’s decision.

II. F. RETIREMENT

(Source: Rules of Procedure, E)

Section E-1. Faculty members whose appointment began prior to September 1, 2001, and who retire both after ten or more years as a member of the Faculty and at the age of fifty-five years or above attain, upon retirement, the title “emeritus” or “emerita” and become eligible for retiree benefits, as specified in written college policies concerning such benefits. Faculty members whose appointment began on or after September 1, 2001, and who retire both after twenty or more years as a member of the Faculty and at the age of fifty-five years or above attain, upon retirement, the title “emeritus” or “emerita” and become eligible for retiree benefits, as specified in written college policies concerning such benefits.

Section E-2. Emeritus members of the Faculty shall retain all normal faculty library privileges. Emeritus members of the Faculty shall retain e-mail accounts as long as they wish, and the College will make reasonable efforts to supply emeritus faculty with technical computing support and, where appropriate and necessary, with equipment, according to policies published in the Faculty Handbook. Where possible and desirable, according to mutual agreement among affected persons and departments, emeritus faculty may retain certain laboratory facilities and research privileges. Emeritus faculty may be principal investigators for research projects, and consonant with the efficient allocation of staff resources, are entitled to assistance in applying for external grants. In accordance with policies established by the Dean of the Faculty and published in the Faculty Handbook, emeritus faculty may be assigned office space and may receive secretarial support.

II. G. VISITING FACULTY

(Source: Faculty Constitution IV, Article 4)

Section 4. A temporary academic faculty appointment, such as for sabbatical or leave replacements or for positions that are not funded beyond a fixed term, shall be designated as “visiting.”

1. Appointments for visiting faculty members shall not be extended beyond full-time service for five years.
2. Faculty members on visiting appointments shall not be considered for tenure. Should a decision be made to change the visiting appointment to a regular appointment, provisions of [Section 3 and subsections A-D above] become applicable.

(Source: Approved by CAT, October 6, 2015)

Recognizing that the College must balance the best interests of its students with its commitment to filling long-term needs with tenure-track positions, CAT re-affirms these principles, and clarifies that the five years shall be counted cumulatively over a faculty member’s career and do not have to be consecutive. Moreover, the appointments need not be in the same department.

II. H. FACULTY EVALUATION

(Source: Resolution of the Faculty, April 11, 1994 and amended by the Faculty, April 12, 2010 and December 3, 2012)

Section II. H.1. Schedule for Evaluation: Non-tenured, continuing members of the faculty will normally be evaluated by the Committee on Advancement and Tenure every two years in the Fall semester. For those faculty members on a tenure-track appointment, the tenure evaluation date will be set in accordance with the procedures described in the Faculty Constitution, Article IV, Section 3. Tenured members of the faculty will be evaluated by the Committee on Advancement and Tenure every four years in the Spring semester. For faculty members who have just received tenure, the first post-tenure evaluation will occur two years following the tenure decision.

Section II. H.2. Evaluation Actions: For non-tenured, continuing members of the faculty the evaluation will result in either reappointment or nonrenewal of appointment. A single increase in rank normally accompanies reappointment. In the case of nonrenewal for a tenure-track appointment, a fixed-term appointment of one year will normally be granted.

For tenured members of the faculty the evaluation will result in either a single increase in rank, a double increase in rank awarded over consecutive years, or a hold at rank.

If the evaluation results in a single or a double increase in rank, an automatic single increase in rank will be given at the third year of the four-year evaluation cycle. If the evaluation results in the faculty member being held at rank, an automatic single increase in rank will still be given at the third year of the four-year evaluation cycle. However, if at the subsequent evaluation the faculty member is once again held at rank, then she or he will also be held at rank at the third year of that four-year evaluation cycle. In this instance the faculty member or the Committee on Advancement and Tenure will have the option of requesting an additional evaluation at that third year. This evaluation could result in an increase in rank.

As outlined in the Faculty Handbook II.J, rank 63 is the normal top rank of the salary scale. There are two additional ranks in the scale, 64 and 65, but promotion into each of these ranks “should be limited to faculty members whose performance over the years has been unusually distinguished and whose recent performance has continued to be outstanding. Even in such cases, it is understood that advancement into these ranks should generally occur more slowly than normal merit increases.” Once a faculty member has reached rank 63 there will be no automatic rank increase given at the middle year of the four-year evaluation cycle.

Section II. H.3. Criteria and Standards for Evaluation: Decisions about the performance of individual members of the Faculty are by necessity matters of judgment, as they are based on standards of performance that cannot be measured precisely. They result from the deliberations of the Committee on Advancement and Tenure and the President, conducted according to criteria and procedures approved by the Faculty (see below). Every faculty member is expected to submit a self-evaluation at each review, assessing his/her own performance. In the absence of a self-evaluation, the Committee on Advancement and Tenure will proceed with an evaluation based on the written materials in the file; however, the faculty member will not be eligible for an increase in rank. The Dean of the Faculty discusses the results of the evaluation with the faculty member in a timely manner and conveys any suggestions, comments, or requirements decided upon by the Committee on Advancement and Tenure.

With each successive evaluation leading to the tenure decision, evidence of excellence and potential for continued development must be consistently or increasingly strong. Evidence for a positive tenure decision must be clear and convincing. Performance which may be described as good but not exceptional is not enough for a positive tenure decision. The granting of tenure requires a compelling affirmative case; it reflects outstanding achievement and the promise of continuing distinction throughout the candidate's academic career.

The criteria for appointment and evaluation of faculty are stated in Article IV of the Faculty Constitution:

Section 1. The mission of Reed College is to provide a serious and systematic program of undergraduate education in the liberal arts and sciences. Academic faculty at all ranks are appointed initially on the basis of their potential for outstanding contribution to this goal, based on the criteria of Article IV, Section 2. Academic faculty are evaluated for advancement (continuation of appointment, promotion in rank and salary, or granting of academic tenure) on the basis of demonstrated achievement and promise of continuing contribution to this goal, based on the criteria of Article IV, Section 2.

Section 2. The criteria for academic Faculty appointment and advancement are listed below, in rank order of importance. Demonstrated achievement in both teaching and scholarship as defined below is expected of all Reed faculty. Community service is a secondary consideration; high levels of achievement on this criterion alone are not sufficient for advancement. However, unsatisfactory community service can be sufficient for denial of advancement. All of the criteria below require performance conducted in a professional manner.

1. Effectiveness of teaching, including, as appropriate, conference leadership, lecturing, laboratory teaching, studio teaching, curriculum development, thesis advising and general academic advising.
2. Scholarship, defined as knowledge and understanding of, and active engagement with, the materials of one's discipline and, where appropriate, of related disciplines.
3. Service to the Reed community (and to external communities where relevant) through department and committee work, or through activity that fosters and enhances the quality of the intellectual community.

Candidates who have not completed the terminal degree in their field at the time of the tenure decision shall not normally be eligible for tenure.

Letters from colleagues provide important evidence regarding all of the above criteria. These letters are most useful when they contain evidence based on first hand knowledge of and experience with the candidate's work and when specific examples are provided. Indirect evidence may be useful when the sources of the information are indicated. Every faculty member is expected to participate conscientiously in the evaluation of his/her colleagues.
Effectiveness of teaching is judged by the Committee on Advancement and Tenure also on the basis of:

1. Syllabi, curriculum proposals and other materials relating to teaching, provided by the Faculty member whose work is being evaluated. When appropriate—and always at the time of the tenure review—such materials will be submitted by the Committee on Advancement and Tenure for external peer review and evaluation.
2. Systematic surveys of student judgments of their experiences with individual members of the faculty for every course taught for credit including conferences, lectures, seminars and labs, using instruments approved by the Faculty and administered by the Dean of the Faculty.
3. Systematic surveys, requested by the Dean of the Faculty, of all thesis advisees.
4. Letters received by the Office of the Dean of the Faculty from individual students.

Reed is an intellectual community, in which the primary purpose of scholarship is the enrichment of the curriculum and the stimulation of the intellectual life of the community at large. One important indicator of scholarship is written material or, where appropriate, performance or exhibit that has been subjected to peer review. This includes both substantive contributions to the field and pedagogical works, such as textbooks. However, publication is only one form of scholarship, and superior scholarship can manifest itself in various ways. Externally reviewed publications, performances or exhibits are neither necessary nor sufficient for demonstrating scholarly excellence. In the absence of externally reviewed materials, however, there must be some other compelling evidence of superior scholarship. When appropriate—and always at the time of the tenure review—external peer review and evaluation of scholarship will be solicited by the Committee on Advancement and Tenure.

Reed is a self-governing intellectual community, and every Faculty member is expected to contribute in some way to its enrichment. The most familiar forms of community service are participation in departmental and divisional work and participation on standing and special committees. The President and the Committee on Academic Policy and Planning are responsible for appointments to committees and for assuring that every member of the Faculty has sufficient opportunity to serve. The quality of contribution is judged on the basis of testimonials by colleagues and committee members and any written materials that contributed to the work of the department, division, or committee. Other forms of community service include participation in professional organizations and performance, exhibit, lectures or the organization of these and similar activities. Lectures, performance and exhibition are understood to be important components of scholarship as well.

II. I. RECONSIDERATION

(Source: Minutes of the Faculty, April 11, 2005; amended by the faculty on October 23, 2015)

A faculty member may ask the Committee on Advancement and Tenure to reconsider any decision affecting his or her employment status, pursuant to Article VII, Section 5 of the Faculty Constitution. Seeking a reconsideration is a two-step process. First, the faculty member must submit a request for reconsideration, in writing, within thirty days of the notification of the decision. Second, the faculty member must provide the Committee with a written statement indicating why he or she believes the original decision to have been in error. In preparing his or her statement the faculty member shall have the right to a copy of the file upon which the decision was based, along with a copy of the report to the President required by Article VII, Section 2 of the Faculty Constitution, with the following exceptions: letters in the file from faculty members and from external evaluators as well as qualitative (open-ended) course evaluation sheets and letters from both current and former students will be edited to remove identifying information (including name, title, institutional affiliation, and relationship to the candidate) contained either at the top of the evaluation form or letter or within and below the signature block of the evaluation form or letter. If the faculty member chooses to look at the file, all faculty members, external evaluators, and students who have contributed letters or open-ended course evaluation sheets to the file will be notified of this fact to the extent possible. The faculty member's written statement should be submitted either within thirty days after he or she has requested reconsideration or, in cases where the faculty member has also asked to have a copy of the file upon which the decision was made, within thirty days after having received that copy, whichever comes later. The statement may include requests for CAT to seek additional information, including new letters of evaluation from Reed faculty who may not have written letters for the original file or clarifying letters from Reed faculty who did write letters for the original file. The statement may also direct CAT's attention to, but should not include or be accompanied by, documents or other additional material not already contained in the original file.

On the basis of the faculty member's written statement, the Committee will decide whether it will reconsider the case. Reconsideration will occur only when there is, in CAT's view, a reason to believe that the original decision was significantly based on misconstrued, incomplete or faulty evidence. If the Committee chooses not to reconsider, it will indicate as much to the faculty member in writing. If it chooses to reconsider, it will describe in writing to the faculty member the form that the reconsideration will take.

Reconsideration shall involve a review of the original file, and may also involve requests by CAT for additional information from the faculty member and for amplifying letters of evaluation from faculty who already have letters in the file. Further, reconsideration may include, in the rare case, requests by CAT for letters of evaluation from faculty who did not write letters for the original file or a solicitation by CAT of letters of evaluation from all faculty members. However, no unsolicited materials will be accepted, and no new student letters or quantitative evaluations will be solicited or accepted. Once the reconsideration has been completed, the Committee will make a recommendation to the President. In all cases, the Committee will make every effort to ensure that the faculty member is informed of its decisions in a timely manner. Normally, a decision will be reached within 30 days after CAT has received all newly solicited material.

At any time during the process, the faculty member may initiate an appeal to the Appeals and Review Committee by written statement of intent. An appeal must be presented to the Appeals and Review Committee within 180 calendar days from the notification of the original decision. In the event of an appeal, the Committee on Advancement and Tenure shall submit a written statement on the case to the Appeals and Review Committee. The Appeals and Review Committee will decide if the procedures followed in the case by the Committee on Advancement and Tenure were fair and adequate and if the decision is supported by substantial evidence. The Appeals and Review Committee will complete its review as expeditiously as possible.
but no later than two weeks following the first regularly scheduled Trustee meeting of the following semester. If an appeal is filed with the Appeals and Review Committee after commencement, the next semester shall be construed as the spring semester of

*In cases where a junior faculty member is at rank 48 or above, he or she shall carry the title of Assistant Professor unless he or she has completed six or more years of full-time service in a teaching position at a college or university that awards a baccalaureate or higher degree. The title of Associate Professor shall be conferred once the faculty member begins a tenured appointment, or has completed six such years of full-time service in a teaching position, whichever is sooner. These prescriptions do not affect the faculty member’s rank. Approved by CAT 08/21/2015.

The policy is being grandfathered in. It will apply to faculty who begin working at Reed in 2016 and beyond, but does not apply retroactively to faculty already working here (or already offered a contract).

CAT voted unanimously to eliminate ranks 52A and 52B and to replace both with 52. All ranked at 52 will be labeled “associate” professors. Approved 08/18/2017.

II. J. 2 RANKS 64 AND 65

(Source: Minutes of the Committee on Advancement and Tenure, September 29, 1998, revised by the faculty on January 30, 2006)

It is CAT’s view that the normal top rank of the salary scale is step 63. CAT also recognizes, however, that in certain cases it may be appropriate to advance a very senior faculty member to step 64 and, perhaps eventually, to step 65. Such cases should be limited to faculty members whose performance over the years has been unusually distinguished and whose recent performance has continued to be outstanding. Even in such cases, it is understood that advancement into these ranks should generally occur more slowly than normal merit increases.

II. J. 3. SALARY TO TEACH A SINGLE COURSE

(Source: CAPP minutes, November 14, 2011; CAT minutes, January 29, 2013)

A person hired to teach a single course shall be paid 0.2 of their rank as determined by the CAT. This will only apply to appointments made to staff regular faculty lines or over-enrollment lines. All other appointments to teach a single course, including emeritus appointments, shall be paid 0.11 of their rank at the time of retirement or as determined by the CAT.

III. B. FACULTY ACTIVITIES

(Source: Rules of Procedure, A)

Section A-1. In principle, the College encourages Faculty research and participation in professional, educational, and public activities beyond the classroom, and it is the responsibility of the Faculty member to determine that such activities do not interfere with the fulfillment of his or her other obligations to the College.

Section A-2. The Faculty member is obligated to keep the College informed of major outside commitments to teaching, lecture programs, consulting activities, and other employment and to discuss in advance with the Dean of the Faculty any such commitments which involve the use of College facilities or significant amounts of Faculty time.

Section A-3. No formal application shall be finally submitted for a research grant or other grant that is to be administered by the College except after approval by the President.

III. C. ABSENCES BY FACULTY

(Source: Rules of Procedure, A)

Section A-1. In principle, the College encourages Faculty research and participation in professional, educational, and public activities beyond the classroom, and it is the responsibility of the Faculty member to determine that such activities do not interfere with the fulfillment of his or her other obligations to the College.

Section A-2. The Faculty member is obligated to keep the College informed of major outside commitments to teaching, lecture programs, consulting activities, and other employment and to discuss in advance any with the Dean of the Faculty such commitments which involve the use of College facilities or significant amounts of Faculty time.

III. D. COURSE LOADS

(Source: CAPP minutes, April 10, 2000, April 26, 2004 and December 8, 2014)

The normal course load for Reed College faculty is five semester courses per year or the equivalent. Generally, any semester course that carries one Reed unit of credit is considered a single semester course. Each semester of Humanities 110 is understood to count as 1.5 courses. CAPP is also broadly concerned to encourage conference or laboratory teaching, except where other kinds of teaching are more appropriate. For this reason, a single course in one semester that is taught in two separate conferences because of large enrollments may count as two courses. Variations from the five-course model may be possible, but need to be approved by CAPP in light of the best interests of the academic program. CAPP understands, further, that the good health of the academic program or considerations of equivalency may require that departments currently having six-course loads maintain such loads for the foreseeable future.

Departments may request that course loads for first-year tenure-track faculty be reduced by one course. Any such request must be accompanied by a statement from the department regarding curricular implications. Faculty who wish to come up for tenure after four semesters of full-time teaching may not take a course reduction. In cases where reduced course loads have been approved for first-year tenure-track faculty, each such faculty member will be expected to assume a normal load of committee assignments, as determined by CAPP.

For faculty who are teaching half-time in a particular year—either because of a sabbatical, paid leave, family or parental leave, or unpaid leave—it is expected that their course load during that year will be no less than two and one-half courses or the equivalent. Alternative arrangements—perhaps involving a balance of course-loads over a number of sabbatical- or leave-affected years will be considered by CAPP on a case-by-case basis and in light of implications for the quality of the academic program.

III. E. PART-TIME LEAVES AND APPOINTMENTS

(Source: Minutes of the Faculty, November 25, 1996)

Reed College is committed to excellence in undergraduate education. Although in general faculty on full-time appointments best achieve this, there are circumstances in which part-time appointments are necessary or appropriate. When asked to authorize part-time appointments, CAPP will consult with affected departments and programs so as to minimize disruption to students, curriculum, and colleagues, and to avoid situations that have the potential of exploiting the appointee. A statement must accompany the request for leave from the department responding to the request and stating how the required coursework and advising will be covered. With this in mind, CAPP has adopted the following guidelines:

1. Part-Time Leave for Regular Faculty. Note that full-time leave for one semester or more is covered by other College documents, and is not at issue here. Requests for part-time leave will be considered under the following circumstances:
   a. Leave consistent with the Family and Medical Leave Act Faculty members granted part-time leave under categories 1-3 are eligible under some circumstances for remuneration; further details are available from the Dean of the Faculty.
      i. Medical. A faculty member experiencing temporary or chronic medical problems may apply for part-time status. Consistent with the requirements of doctor/patient confidentiality, the faculty member must assure CAPP both that the condition is serious enough to warrant this remedy and that it is not so debilitating as to compromise performance at the reduced level. Such leaves will be granted for a fixed term only, but may be renewed, when appropriate, in the case of chronic illness.
      ii. Pregnancy. Pregnant faculty members may request part-time status for one semester or in some cases a full year.
      iii. Parental. Faculty members with young children may request part-time leave for purposes of child care. Such leaves will be granted for a fixed term, but may be renewed when appropriate.
      iv. Family. Faculty with elderly parents or other family members-including spouse-equivalents-requiring special care may request part-time status. Such leaves will be granted for a fixed term only (typically one semester), but may be renewed when appropriate.
   b. Pre-Retirement Leave
      In the years immediately preceding a scheduled retirement, a faculty member may request part-time status. This is particularly appropriate in cases where it permits the early appointment of a replacement, affording a period of overlap with maximum curricular continuity.
   c. Professional Leave
      Faculty members may request part-time leave for research or other professional activities. Such leave may be requested for one or both semesters in an academic year. The faculty member requesting part-time professional leave must demonstrate that the project is of clear professional benefit to the individual and to the College. The leave must be of fixed duration; salary and benefits will be subject to negotiation with the Dean. Part-time leaves for administrative service to the College will be considered under the same conditions as Professional leaves.

2. Part-time Faculty Appointments
a. Temporary Part-Time Faculty.
Requests for special temporary faculty appointments will be considered under the following circumstances (note that items 1 through 3 fall outside the affected department’s normal FTE allotment, whereas 4 and 5 come within that allotment):

i. Unanticipated Overenrollments. Departments are expected to plan ahead, and to make internal staffing adjustments in the face of short term overenrollments. Part-time appointments for this purpose are strongly discouraged, and will be considered only when no other reasonable remedy such as class capping, replication, or temporary overloads is available. In particular, departments seeking such relief must demonstrate that no other department member is in a position to alleviate the problem.
Such emergency appointments will be of limited duration, and never for more than one academic year. Chronic over-enrollments will not be covered by temporary part-time appointments; for these, long-term staffing solutions are more desirable.

ii. Post-Retirement. The Faculty Constitution (Article IV, Section 8) provides that “Upon recommendation of the President, the Board may appoint a retired Faculty member for a limited period to perform limited duties, normally not full time, on special salary arrangements.” (Further specifications appear in the Rules of Procedure, Section E, items 2 and 3, and in footnote 2 of this document.)

iii. Extraordinary Opportunity. In rare circumstances an extraordinary opportunity may arise to enrich the College's academic program by a special part-time appointment, or by authorizing an individual who is not a member of the regular faculty to teach a course. Both CAPP and CAT must approve any such arrangement.

iv. Staffing Emergency. In the case of death, resignation, or unanticipated leave, where a normal search and regular replacement is impossible, a temporary part-time appointment to fill the vacancy may be considered.
Such emergency appointments will be of limited duration, and never for more than one academic year.

b. Long-Term Fractional Appointments. In rare cases, because of unusual disciplinary requirements or enrollment patterns that do not justify a full-time appointment, a department’s regular FTE allotment may include long-term fractional appointments. Such cases must be approved by CAPP, the Dean of the Faculty, and the President.

NOTES:
1 The effect of part-time status on tenure is governed by Section B-7 of the Rules of Procedure: "Normally, academic tenure will apply only to full-time academic members of the Faculty, but it may occasionally be desirable to accredit it to personnel having additional employment outside the College. A Faculty member having academic tenure who reduces his or her employment at the College to a continuing part-time basis shall not necessarily lose his or her status of academic tenure as a result. All special cases involving part-time employment shall be accepted or rejected on their individual merits.

Per-course compensation for "emeritus faculty and faculty hired to fill sudden vacancies because of medical or parental leaves" was established by CAPP in June of 1993 (pursuant to a recommendation from the CAPP Budget Advisory Subcommittee dated 6/9/93) at "1/9 the starting salary for a new assistant professor"—or, more generally, at 1/9 the salary for a full-time faculty member at the appropriate rank. (For emeriti this means 1/9 the regular salary at the rank held at the time of retirement.) Temporary part-time faculty receive no extra compensation for thesis advising. These policies govern normal compensation under items 1-4, but leave to the Dean of the Faculty some discretion in handling special cases.

III. F. EMERITUS FACULTY

Rules of Procedure, E

Section E-1. Faculty members whose appointment began prior to September 1, 2001 and who retire both after ten or more years as a member of the Faculty and at the age of fifty-five years or above attain, upon retirement, the title "emeritus" or "emerita" and become eligible for retiree benefits, as specified in written college policies concerning such benefits. Faculty members whose appointment began on or after September 1, 2001 and who retire both after twenty or more years as a member of the Faculty and at the age of fifty-five years or above attain, upon retirement, the title "emeritus" or "emerita" and become eligible for retiree benefits, as specified in written college policies concerning such benefits.

The following policy was approved by CAPP and CAT, February 2009.

CAPP welcomes proposals from departments for courses to be taught by emeritus faculty. All such proposals will be evaluated on a case-by-case basis in the light of established curricular needs and expected curricular benefits. It is unlikely that more than four such courses will be approved in any given academic year; approval of more than four courses would require extraordinary curricular justifications. Proposals should be submitted to the Dean of the Faculty no later than the last day of classes before Spring break of the academic year prior to the year in which the courses would be taught. All proposals must also be approved by CAT. In each case, they must be accompanied by a self-evaluation from the emeritus faculty member. Such evaluations should address the three standard areas of faculty evaluation: teaching, scholarship and service. (The College recognizes that opportunities for emeritus faculty formally to serve the Reed community may be extremely limited. But as always, the College is also interested in broader areas of service, e.g., involving scholarly societies or other relevant professional groups.) It is expected that emeritus faculty who teach courses will distribute to students the standard evaluation forms and, as with any other course, provide students an opportunity to complete those forms.
III. G. ENDOWED CHAIRS

(Source: Dean of the Faculty, February, 2018)

Endowed Chairs are awarded by CAT consistent with the Memorandum of Understanding under which each Endowed Chair was created. In awarding these Chairs, CAT considers both length of service to the college and the criteria for faculty appointment and advancement specified in Article IV of the Faculty Constitution, namely teaching, scholarship and service to the Reed community (and to external communities where relevant). Endowed Chairs can only be held by tenured members of the faculty. An Endowed Chair may be left unoccupied. On retirement the holder of an Endowed Chair may continue to use the title of the chair, should he or she so wish, so long as “Emeritus” is added to the end of the title; the Endowed Chair itself can be awarded to another member of the faculty.

IV. A. SABBATICALS AND LEAVES OF ABSENCE

(Source: Rules of Procedure, C)

Section C-1. Effective classroom teaching at Reed demands a serious, active engagement with the scholarly materials of one's field. The purpose of a sabbatical leave is to encourage scholarship, research and/or creative endeavor so as to maintain and enhance the intellectual quality of the faculty and to help ensure thereby the highest quality teaching. A sabbatical leave is defined as one semester or one year of Reed College employment at full pay, without teaching or administrative responsibilities and devoted to independent inquiry and/or creative endeavor. (For the purposes of Section C the term "sabbatical leave of one semester at full pay" shall be interpreted to include sabbatical leave of one year at half pay.)

Section C-2. Requests for sabbatical leave must be approved by the President upon recommendation of the Committee on Academic Planning and Policy. All such requests should include a description of the research or other professional activity to be pursued during the sabbatical period. Requests should also be accompanied by a statement from the faculty member's department - and from the relevant Humanities staff and/or interdisciplinary program, where appropriate - regarding the curricular impact of the proposed sabbatical leave.
Section C-3. For faculty members on academic tenure, eligibility for sabbatical leave is earned after every twelve semesters - consecutive or otherwise - of full-time teaching at the College (except in unusual cases as described in Section C-4 and Section C-7). Semesters of part-time teaching will accumulate on a pro-rated basis. Faculty members on academic tenure whose probationary period was three or four years of full-time teaching at Reed because of full-time teaching experience prior to joining the Reed faculty and who did not enjoy sabbatical leaves at their previous institutions may request that some or all of the prior full-time teaching experience accrue toward eligibility for the first post-tenure sabbatical leave. Such requests may be made at or after the time of appointment, and will be considered on a case-by-case basis by the President in consultation with CAPP. For untenured tenure-track faculty who take a one-semester sabbatical leave at full pay under the provisions of Section C-5, that semester will count as one of the twelve semesters required for subsequent sabbatical eligibility. Semesters of unpaid leave taken by untenured tenure-track faculty will not count as one of the twelve semesters required for subsequent sabbatical eligibility.

Section C-4. In unusual circumstances, a sabbatical period may occur earlier or later than the normally scheduled semester or year of eligibility (as described in Section C-3). Requests for early or late sabbatical leave must be based on clear and compelling reasons having to do with departmental or programmatic staffing or extraordinary scholarly opportunities, and must be endorsed by the relevant department and/or program. Where an early sabbatical period occurs, the number of semesters of full-time teaching at the College required for subsequent sabbatical eligibility will increase equivalently. Where a late sabbatical period occurs, the number of semesters of full-time teaching at the College required for subsequent sabbatical eligibility will decrease equivalently. However, in all cases (except in unusual cases as described in Section C-7) at least eight semesters of full-time teaching at the College must intervene between consecutive sabbatical periods.

Section C-5. A one semester sabbatical leave at full pay will be awarded to all untenured tenure-track faculty whose probationary period is either five or six years of full-time teaching at Reed, whose initial appointment was not deferred because of extramural professional development opportunities, who have earned the terminal degree in an appropriate field, and who submit proposals that are judged to be excellent by the Sabbatical Fellowship Award Committee, as described in Section C-8. (For individuals who fall into this category except that their original proposals are not judged to be excellent, the Sabbatical Fellowship Award Committee shall communicate its concerns through the Dean of the Faculty, and shall invite revised proposals for reconsideration in the same academic year.) Normally, untenured faculty will take their sabbatical leaves in the third or fourth year of the probationary period.

Section C-6. For tenured faculty members, sabbatical periods may be for one semester at full pay or one year at full pay. Eligibility to apply for a full year sabbatical at full pay will be determined by the President in consultation with CAPP, as described in Section C-2. Full year sabbatical leaves at full pay will be granted only on the basis of a research proposal submitted to the Sabbatical Fellowship Award Committee and judged excellent by that committee, as described in Section C-8. (For individuals who fall into this category except that their original proposals are not judged to be excellent, the Sabbatical Fellowship Award Committee shall communicate its concerns through the Dean of the Faculty, and shall invite revised proposals for reconsideration in the same academic year.) Further, the Sabbatical Fellowship Award Committee will consider and evaluate such research proposals from only those tenured faculty members who also successfully certify that they have either received significant support - which may or may not be faculty salary support - for their projects from extramural funding entities recognized for supporting research or creative endeavor in the relevant field or are seeking such support for their projects from at least two such extramural funding entities. Typically, certification will be achieved by submitting to CAPP complete copies of the extramural grant applications (excluding confidential letters of recommendation that the extramural funding entities may require). In cases where extramural grant proposals will be submitted only after the Sabbatical Fellowship Award Committee makes its decisions, those decisions will be provisional, pending subsequent submission of extramural proposals to CAPP and certification by CAPP. The Dean of the Faculty will annually provide a list of recognized funding entities, and will work closely with CAPP and individual departments to ensure that the list is appropriately inclusive and up to date. In cases where it is unreasonable to expect the faculty member to apply for extramural grant support - for example, in disciplines where such support is entirely unavailable - the Dean of the Faculty will work closely with CAPP and the individual faculty member to find an approach that may successfully address the spirit of this requirement. CAPP will have the final decision as to whether a faculty member's extramural applications for support are sufficient - in terms of the type of support requested, the purposes for which the support are sought, and the relative standing of the extramural entity - to make the faculty member eligible to apply for a full year sabbatical at full pay. In the event that extramural grant applications submitted to CAPP under this program are successful, the College's financial support for the faculty member's sabbatical will in all cases be reduced by an amount equal to the total amount of support that the faculty member will receive from extramural entities for salary and benefits (excluding extramural funds explicitly designated for summer salary). However, all sabbatical-eligible faculty are entitled (subject to the provisions of Section C-2) to one semester of college-paid sabbatical regardless of extramural support. In the absence of a research proposal that the Sabbatical Fellowship Award Committee judges excellent, or if CAPP determines that the individual has failed to certify that he or she is seeking appropriate extramural support, the sabbatical period will in all cases be for one semester at full pay.

Section C-7. In unusual circumstances, the Sabbatical Fellowship Award Committee may consider a single proposal from a tenured faculty member for two non-consecutive semesters of sabbatical at full pay, the first of which would occur after six semesters of full-time teaching at the College and the second of which would occur during one of the subsequent semesters of the same sabbatical cycle for that faculty member. (This modifies Section C-3 and Section C-4.) Eligibility to apply for two non-consecutive semesters of sabbatical at full pay will be determined by the President in consultation with CAPP, as described in Section C-2. Such applications will be approved only on the basis of a research proposal submitted to the Sabbatical Fellowship Award Committee and judged excellent by that committee, as described in Section C-8, and only after a determination by the CAPP (1) that the proposal is based on considerations involving extraordinary and important research opportunities that require two non-consecutive semesters of sabbatical at full pay instead of one full year of sabbatical at full pay and (2) that such opportunities are sufficiently important to outweigh considerations of curricular and pedagogical continuity that reflect the centrality of the College's teaching mission. Further, the Sabbatical Fellowship Award Committee will consider and evaluate such research proposals from only those tenured faculty members who successfully certify that they are also seeking to obtain financial support from extramural funding entities, following the same procedures, and subject to the same rules and limitations, described in Section C-6.

Section C-8. Untenured faculty who request a one semester sabbatical leave at full pay and who are eligible for this under Section C-5, and tenured faculty who request a full year sabbatical (or two non-consecutive semesters of sabbatical) at full pay and who are eligible for this under either Section C-6 or C-7, must submit a full research proposal to the Sabbatical Fellowship Award Committee. A full research proposal must include:

1. A completed cover page.
2. A brief (300 word) description of the project, intended for a non-specialists audience.
3. A detailed description of the relationship of the project (not to exceed 1500 words), comprising both a specific statement of the hypotheses to be tested, the questions to be answered, or the goals to be achieved and an account of the project's significance to the field, the curriculum, and the faculty member's intellectual and/or professional development.
4. A description of the relationship of this award to other possible sources of funding, and the total funding required to complete the project.
5. A curriculum vitae and a summary of outcomes of recent leaves or summer research projects.
6. Two letters of support. To the extent possible, letters should come from persons with expertise in the relevant field or area of specialization. At least one of these letters should come from outside of the institution.

The Sabbatical Fellowship Award Committee will be appointed by the President with the approval of CAPP and CAT. The committee will be composed of one representative from each division of the College. One member of the committee shall be designated Chair by the President with the approval of CAPP and CAT. Committee service will be for two year terms, staggered for purposes of continuity. Faculty members planning to apply in any given year for one semester sabbaticals under C-5 or for one year sabbaticals (or two non-consecutive semesters of sabbatical) under either C-6 or C-7 are not eligible to serve on the committee in that year.

Section C-9. Requests for unpaid leaves of absence may be granted by the President upon the recommendation of CAPP. All such requests should be accompanied by a statement from the faculty member's department -- and from the relevant Humanities staff and/or interdisciplinary program, where appropriate -- regarding the curricular impact of the proposed unpaid leave of absence. Requests for unpaid leave should be made in a timely fashion so that the College has a reasonable opportunity to secure a satisfactory replacement, if necessary.

Section C-10. A single continuous period of leave - composed of sabbatical and unpaid leave in any combination - shall not exceed four semesters except in extraordinary circumstances and in no event shall exceed six semesters. (This restriction does not apply to leaves covered by Section C-13 and/or C-14.)

Section C-11. Any single period of leave of either one semester or one year in duration, and in any combination of sabbatical and unpaid leave, must be both preceded and followed by at least four consecutive semesters of full-time teaching. Any single period of leave of either three or four semesters in duration, and in any combination of sabbatical and unpaid leave, must be both preceded and followed by at least six consecutive semesters of full-time teaching. Upon the recommendation of the Committee on Academic Planning and Policy, the President may grant exceptions to this rule. However, such exceptions will presuppose professional development opportunities of extraordinary benefit to the College and will be granted only when exigencies of scheduling are such that similar opportunities are unlikely to be available at another time. (The restrictions described in this Section do not apply to leaves covered by Section C-13 and/or C-14.)

Section C-12. After completing a sabbatical, the faculty member will summarize the activities undertaken as a written report to the Dean of the Faculty on achievements during a sabbatical, including copies of materials produced, publications, etc. The Dean of the Faculty will place a copy of this report in the faculty member's permanent evaluation file. The faculty member is expected to report on his or her research in a form suitable for dissemination to the Reed community (for example, as a colloquium or a published document).

Section C-13. In accordance with the requirements of ORS 659.630, parental leave will be granted upon the request of a faculty member. The faculty member shall provide written notice of the dates of intended parental leave. This notice must be received by the College at least 30 days before the anticipated date of birth or the date of physical custody of an adopted child under six years of age. In the event of premature birth, maternal incapacity due to birth rendering her unable to care of the child, or the unanticipated taking of custody of an adopted child, the faculty member shall give the College notice of revised dates of parental leave within seven days after birth or taking custody. In order to reduce the impact on operations of the College, including staffing requirements and class offerings, informal notification should be provided as soon as is practical. Parental leave will be for 12 weeks in duration. Faculty will receive one-half of their contractual salary amount during the parental leave. In no event shall the parental leave extend beyond one year from the date of birth.

Section C-14. The College may require that a Faculty member accept a leave of absence for reasons of health, whether or not the individual requests such a leave, on the following conditions:

1. If the individual disagrees on the need for the leave, he or she may appeal to the Appeals and Review Committee.
2. A person required to take leave under this paragraph shall receive every benefit that would be available to a Faculty member who qualified for total disability benefits under any applicable disability plan maintained by the College.
3. A special leave of absence under this paragraph shall be reviewed at least once every two years.

IV. B. MEDICAL BENEFITS DURING UNPAID RESEARCH LEAVE

(Source: Approved by the faculty, November 2, 1998)

All faculty on unpaid research leaves are eligible to apply for the continuation of full medical benefits during those leaves. The College will pay for such benefits using the Paid Leave Award budget, subject to the availability of funds in that budget. Faculty on unpaid personal leaves will not be eligible. Prior to applying, eligible faculty are obliged to determine if appropriate support for medical benefits can be obtained from other sources. The program will be administered by the Dean of the Faculty, in consultation with the Paid Leave Award Committee.

IV. C.1. PROFESSIONAL TRAVEL

(Source: Office of Dean of Faculty, November 2011)

The College encourages faculty members to attend and participate in meetings of professional associations and societies of direct relevance to their teaching and research interests subject to the availability of funds. Whenever possible, faculty should avoid travel that conflicts with teaching, registration, exams, and senior orals. Unavoidably missed classes should be covered by a colleague or rescheduled. As soon as a traveler knows what conference he or she wishes to go to, the traveler should submit a travel request form.

Who is eligible:

- Faculty on 50% or more time
- Faculty on sabbatical or leave

Number of domestic and international trips per year subject to the availability of funds:

- One domestic trip to attend a professional association meeting.
- One domestic trip in addition for faculty who have been invited to present a paper or serve as a discussant or who are serving as an organizer of the meeting. Please attach a copy of the invitation or acceptance letter to the request for travel funds.
- Funding for international travel is decided on the basis of other travel requested or taken during the fiscal year and the cost of the trip. Airfare should be arranged immediately upon approval.

Expenses covered:

- Lowest airfare point to point.
- Registration. The College pays the advance registration fee for a member.
- Lodging. The College pays the lowest available convention rate for a single room.
- Meals, parking, and ground transportation. The College provides $55 per day (based on the number of nights lodging) for meals, parking, and ground transportation. Receipts are not required.
- No additional funds are available.

Approval process:

- Complete a request for travel form (download PDF or Word), which is available from Lisa Mickola. Return to Lisa. Reed works with Ellis Travel House, whose agents can book your ticket and charge it to the college. Agents to consult for domestic and international ticketing are Maria (maria@ellisht.com), Natasha (Natasha@ellisht.com), and John Ellis (john@ellisht.com). All can be reached at Once a travel request is approved and the ticket is booked, the college will not pay for changes in the itinerary.

Reimbursement process:

- Submit to Lisa your hotel and registration receipts (and an airfare receipt if you paid for the ticket yourself). Please attach a short cover memo identifying the total expected. Expenses in excess of the amount requested will not necessarily be reimbursed.
- Since the budget is cleared each fiscal year (July 1-June 30), there is no possibility of accumulating eligibility from one year to the next.

IV. C.2. HUMANITIES TRAVEL PROGRAM

(Source: Office of the Dean of Faculty, February 1, 2000; updated January 3, 2011)

Teaching Humanities 110 can be enriched substantially by a first-hand acquaintance with the physical setting in which classical culture flourished, including and especially the major architectural monuments of the ancient world. With this principle in mind, the Humanities 110 faculty travel program is designed to give members of the Hum 110 staff an opportunity to visit important sites in Greece and Rome. One grant will be available each year to help defray the travel expenses of a single faculty member. The grant is for $2,600.

The following guidelines apply:

1. Only tenured or tenure-track faculty are eligible
2. Preference will be given, first, to faculty who have never visited Greece or Rome and, second, to faculty who have visited one but not the other. In the case of "ties," preference will be given to mid-career tenured faculty, then to younger tenured faculty, then to junior faculty, in order of seniority. So as to insure maximum impact throughout the staff, no single faculty member can receive more than one grant in any 10-year period.
3. It is expected that travel plans will focus on direct observation of sites that play a prominent role in the Hum 110 syllabus. Itineraries may involve both Greece and Rome, or simply one or the other.
4. No specific duties are required of grant recipients, other than to see and experience as much of classical culture and its environment as possible. The Hum 110 staff may request recipients to take photographs or obtain other information or items that might be of use to the course.

Applications should be submitted by March 11 to the Dean of the Faculty. The application should simply describe proposed travel plans, along with past travel experiences at classical sites, if any. Decisions will be made by the Dean, consistent with the guidelines described above. In cases where the guidelines do not produce a clear preference, the Dean will consult with the current chair of the Hum 110 staff.
IV. D.1. FACULTY DEVELOPMENT FUNDS: STILLMAN DRAKE FUND

Please note that there is only one grant period (November 1-May 31) from the Stillman Drake Fund and that support for projects you would like to undertake in the spring needs to be requested by the middle of October. As usual, requests for support for summer projects (June 1-August 31) will be solicited separately in May.

Appropriate categories of use for the Stillman Drake Fund are similar to those of the Summer Research Fund and include, but are not limited to, purchase of equipment, computer hardware or software, books, or other resources for research or scholarship; scholarly or research-related travel, other than to meetings in the US; travel to meetings abroad; support for student assistants; assistance for professional society activities, such as carrying out specific projects or serving as an officer; attendance at workshops or seminars for scholarly or curricular development; support for professional visitors to enhance Reed faculty's teaching or scholarship; secretarial assistance for the preparation of manuscripts; and support for interlibrary loan and document delivery.

Decisions are based upon the justification for the request, appropriateness in the context of the faculty member’s work, availability of other sources of funds, and timeliness of the project. Awards from the Stillman Drake Development Fund are considered to be more competitive than those from the Summer Research Fund.

A brief summary report is to be turned in to the Dean's office at the end of the project. Previous recipients of Dean's funds must submit a summary report before applying for another award.

The deadline for submission is typically mid-October, and awards are announced in early November.

Please note that requests for computer hardware should follow a discussion with Marianne Colgrove (extension 7792) regarding your computing needs. Purchase and service of all computers are governed by CIS policy. Computers may not be requested out of Summer Research Funds.

IV. D.2. FACULTY DEVELOPMENT FUNDS: SUMMER SCHOLARSHIP FUND

(Source: Office of the Dean of the Faculty)

Application to the Summer Scholarship Fund may be made by any Reed faculty member who is at least half-time: tenured, tenure track, or continuing visitor. The Summer Scholarship Fund is limited to $1500 for tenured or tenure-track faculty and $1000 for continuing visitors. It is to be used for summer research and scholarship and may include supplies, equipment (excluding computer hardware but including software and upgrades), books, student assistance, travel, and related items.

Appropriate projects for the Summer Scholarship Fund include, but are not limited to, the following:

- Scholarly or research-related travel, other than to meetings in the US
- Travel to meetings abroad
• Support for student assistants for scholarly or research projects
• Attendance at workshops or seminars for scholarly or curricular development
• Support for professional visitors to enhance Reed faculty's teaching or scholarship
• Purchase of equipment, books, or other media for research or scholarly work
• Secretarial assistance for preparation of manuscripts

Decisions are based upon justification for the request, appropriateness in context of a faculty member's work, availability of other sources of funds, and timely nature of the project. Applications for the Summer Scholarship Fund are distributed in the spring and awards are announced around the middle of May. Funds must be spent between May 15 and August 31.

IV. E. SABBATICAL FELLOWSHIP AWARD RESEARCH EXPENSE FUND

(Source: Dean of the Faculty, October 2011)

Release time allows for more substantial research projects than would otherwise be possible, and this in turn often creates a real demand for the kind of unusual assistance—bibliographic, technical, equipment-related, and the like—that serious research may require. The Sabbatical Fellowship Expense Fund is explicitly dedicated to the support of faculty on year-long sabbaticals (as described in section C-6 of the Rules of Procedure) and is part of discretionary resources administered by the Dean of the Faculty. It is designed to defray not the kinds of ordinary research expenses incurred by all faculty but, rather, those special, often rather larger needs associated with release-time activities. Monies are allocated by the Dean on the basis of specific and detailed requests. Specific requests are evaluated in terms of the degree to which the success of a project depends on institutional support, and with a view toward determining the availability of other extra- or intramural sources of funding.

IV. F. SUPPLEMENTAL AWARDS

(Source: Minutes of the faculty, August 25, 1998)

Faculty are encouraged to apply for awards supporting full-time research activities funded on the basis of a national or international competition, e.g., Guggenheim, NEH, ACLS, Institute for Advanced Study, National Humanities Center, etc. Faculty who have received such prestigious awards may apply for supplemental funds from the college in order to minimize the financial impact of taking the one or two semester leave from teaching required to accept the award. In no case will the external awards and the supplemental award total more than the faculty member's annual salary, and a supplemental award will never exceed one-half of the annual salary. Ordinarily, faculty members may receive at most one supplemental award each sabbatical cycle. Supplemental funds will be awarded on a first-come first-served basis, but the College will try to fund all legitimate requests.

Requests for supplemental funds should be directed to the Dean of the Faculty. Any questions regarding the appropriate size of an individual supplement or the legitimacy of a request will be forwarded to the Paid Leave Award Committee, which will make a recommendation to the President.

(Source: Rules of Procedure, Section C-14)

The College may require that a Faculty member accept a leave of absence for reasons of health, whether or not the individual requests such a leave, on the following conditions:

1. If the individual disagrees on the need for the leave, he or she may appeal to the Appeals and Review Committee.
2. A person required to take leave under this paragraph shall receive every benefit that would be available to a Faculty member who qualified for total disability benefits under any applicable disability plan maintained by the College.
3. A special leave of absence under this paragraph shall be reviewed at least once every two years.

V. E. FACULTY PARENTAL LEAVE

(Source: Rules of Procedure and clarification at April 6, 1998 meeting of the Faculty)

Section C-13. In accordance with the requirements of ORS 659.630, parental leave will be granted upon the request of a faculty member. The faculty member shall provide written notice of the dates of intended parental leave. This notice must be received by the College at least 30 days before the anticipated date of birth or the date of physical custody of an adopted child under six years of age. In the event of premature birth, maternal incapacity due to birth rendering her unable to care of the child, or the unanticipated taking of custody of an adopted child, the faculty member shall give the College notice of revised dates of parental leave within seven days after birth or taking custody. In order to reduce the impact on operations of the College, including staffing requirements and class offerings, informal notification should be provided as soon as is practical. Parental leave will be for 12 weeks in duration. Faculty will receive one-half of their contractual salary amount during the parental leave. In no event shall the parental leave extend beyond one year from the date of birth.

(Source: Employee Assistance Program)

VI. GRIEVANCE PROCEDURES

(Source: Rules of Procedure, amended at the May 15, 2015 meeting of the faculty)

F. Non-Sexual Harassment/Misconduct Complaints and Charges Brought against Members of the Faculty (For grievance procedures involving sexual harassment/misconduct see Sections J, K, L below.)

Section F-1. Preliminary Considerations and Procedures

a. Any member of the Student Body, Staff, or Faculty who has a complaint against a member of the Faculty should first consider informal resolution of the matter through discussion with the faculty member in question or through mediation under Honor Council auspices.

b. Complaints shall be limited to alleged violations of the Honor Principle, alleged violations of duly enacted policies and regulations of the College or alleged violations of the statement of professional ethics enacted as Appendix I of the Constitution of the Faculty.

c. If an informal resolution is deemed inappropriate or cannot be obtained, the complainant may bring the matter to the attention of the Dean of the Faculty. The complainant should present the complaint as soon as possible after the alleged misconduct occurs. Whenever possible, the initial discussion between the complainant and the Dean of the Faculty shall be kept confidential, with no official written record.

d. No sanction shall be recommended or imposed for speech, writing, or other action protected by the provisions of Article V of the Constitution of the Faculty.

e. These procedures, including the procedures of Sections G and H, shall be executed within the time periods specified, or if circumstances prohibit this, in as expeditious a manner as possible.

Section F-2. Formal Complaints or Charges
a. Any member of the Student Body, Staff, or Faculty may file with the Dean of the Faculty a formal signed complaint against a faculty member. If after discussion with the complainant, the Dean (or his or her designee) concludes that the complaint is without foundation or cannot reasonably be investigated due to the passage of time, and if no duly enacted policy or compelling legal reason mandates further investigation, he or she shall dismiss the complaint. In all other cases, the faculty member shall receive a copy of the signed complaint and shall have five working days in which to reply and to state his or her position. Every effort shall be made to protect the complainant from retaliatory action.

The Dean of the Faculty (or his or her designee) shall promptly discuss the complaint and the response with the complainant and the accused faculty member. A resolution of the complaint may be agreed to by the Faculty member, the Dean of the Faculty (or his or her designee), and the complainant. If no such agreement is reached within ten working days after a complaint has been filed, the Dean of the Faculty shall forward the complaint to the Chair of the Grievance Review Panel, unless the alleged conduct appears to warrant fixed-term suspension or termination of tenure or of fixed-term appointment prior to expiration, in which case the Dean shall consult with the Committee on Advancement and Tenure as to whether to initiate proceedings under the provisions of Section H of these Rules of Procedure.

b. In the absence of or independent of a formal signed complaint, the Dean of the Faculty (after informal inquiries and consultation with the Committee on Advancement and Tenure), or the Committee on Advancement and Tenure itself, may determine that an investigation of unprofessional conduct may be warranted according to the procedures of Section G or Section H. Any informal inquiries undertaken by the Dean or the Committee shall be strictly limited to determining whether a formal investigation is warranted. If the Dean or the Committee on Advancement and Tenure determines that possible charges do warrant investigation according to the procedures of Sections G or H, the faculty member in question shall promptly receive a written statement of the nature and grounds of the possible charges to be considered and shall have five working days from receipt of this statement in which to reply and to state his or her position. The Dean of the Faculty and the Committee on Advancement and Tenure shall have five working days from receipt of the faculty member’s reply to determine whether the possible charges require investigation.

If the Dean of the Faculty and the Committee on Advancement and Tenure determine that plausible grounds for investigation or adverse action do not exist, the Dean of the Faculty shall immediately inform the faculty member in writing. If the Dean of the Faculty or the Committee determines that plausible grounds for adverse action may exist, the Dean, the Committee, and the faculty member are bound in good faith to seek an informal resolution of the matter among themselves before formal steps are taken. If a resolution does not seem possible or is not agreed to within fifteen working days of the determination that grounds for adverse action may exist, and if the alleged conduct appears to warrant a sanction less than fixed-term suspension or termination, such as a warning or reprimand, the Dean of the Faculty shall promptly forward charges to the Chair of the Grievance Review Panel. If the Dean of the Faculty or the Committee on Advancement and Tenure determines that the alleged conduct appears to warrant fixed-term suspension or termination of tenure or of fixed-term appointment prior to expiration, then the Dean of the Faculty or the Committee on Advancement and Tenure, whichever has so determined, shall promptly initiate proceedings pursuant to Section H.
c. In the event that a hearing according to the procedures of Sections G or H overlaps in time with a personnel review affecting title, salary, or term of service of the accused faculty member, that review shall be suspended pending the final outcome of those procedures.

d. In the event that a hearing according to the procedures of Sections G or H comes about because of an allegation submitted to the Committee on Advancement and Tenure, that allegation shall normally remain in the faculty member's evaluation file. In cases where such an allegation is discredited by a hearing which clears the accused faculty member of wrongdoing, the Committee on Advancement and Tenure shall either insert a statement to that effect into the evaluation file or delete the discredited allegation.

e. The Dean of the Faculty, the Committee on Advancement and Tenure and the President, and any Grievance Hearing Board or Investigating Committee, shall make every effort to safeguard as fully as possible the confidentiality of any disciplinary proceeding according to the procedures of Sections G or H.

Section F-3. Record Keeping

a. If sanctions have been imposed under the provisions of Section G or H, and appeal is unsuccessful, a statement of these sanctions and of their grounds shall be placed in the faculty member's evaluation file. Informal or mediated resolutions of complaints or charges may stipulate that an appropriate statement be placed in the faculty member's evaluation file.

b. All other records arising from formal complaints or charges against members of the Faculty, all other records arising from informal resolutions reached through interaction with the Dean of the Faculty or the Committee on Advancement and Tenure, and records arising from mediation through the Honor Council which results in acknowledgment of injury to a community member, shall be kept by the Dean of the Faculty in confidential complaint files separate from all other records pertaining to a faculty member. A Hearing Board or Investigating Committee shall not consult these files except when considering what sanctions to recommend in a case where allegations have been substantiated through the procedures of Sections G or H. The Committee on Advancement and Tenure shall not consult these files except when determining whether to initiate proceedings pursuant to Section F-2 above. As stated in the Community Constitution (plus citation), these files shall be maintained for the duration of a faculty member's employment at Reed, or longer if legally required, and shall be destroyed at the end of that period.

G. Procedures for Sanctions Less than Fixed-Term Suspension or Termination

a. Within five working days of the receipt of a complaint filed by a member of the Community or of charges forwarded by the Dean of the Faculty or the Committee on Advancement and Tenure, the Chair of the Grievance Review Panel shall appoint from that panel a Grievance Hearing Board, made up of three members of the Faculty, taking care that the board is composed in a way likely to be impartial with respect to these allegations. The Hearing Board shall meet not more than five working days after its appointment to discuss the allegations, and shall normally complete its deliberations within twenty working days from receipt of a complaint or charges.

b. The Hearing Board shall conduct an investigation, call witnesses, and gather information it deems necessary to assist it in reaching a determination as to the merits of the allegations. Unless the Hearing Board concludes that the allegations are without merit, it shall invite any parties to a dispute to appear before it and to confront any adverse witnesses.

c. In any appearance before a Hearing Board, a complainant and the alleged offender each have the right to be accompanied by not more than two advisers from within the Reed Community, each of whom shall be a currently enrolled student or a current member of the Faculty or Staff. No such adviser may participate in the hearing as representing any party, or in any other way. Legal counsel, including College counsel, shall not be permitted to observe or participate in any appearance before or meeting of a Hearing Board.

d. In arriving at its ultimate determination as to the merits of the allegations, the Hearing Board shall be guided by a standard of the preponderance of the evidence in the information before it, considered as a whole.

Section G-2. Report of the Hearing Board

a. In cases arising from a formal complaint, the Hearing Board shall communicate its determination as to the merits of the allegations in writing to the complainant. A summary of the basis for the board's determination shall be provided to the complainant upon request. In all cases, the Hearing Board shall supply the Dean of the Faculty and the person charged with a report consisting of its determination as to the merits of the allegations, any recommendations for sanctions against the faculty member, and a statement of the evidence gathered in the course of its investigations.

b. If the Hearing Board recommends seeking fixed-term suspension or termination of tenure or of fixed-term appointment prior to expiration, the report of the Hearing Board shall immediately be forwarded to the Committee on Advancement and Tenure, at which point the procedures of Section H shall come into force. If the Hearing Board recommends the imposition of some lesser sanction, such as a warning or reprimand, the Dean of the Faculty shall forward this recommendation to the President, who shall determine whether to impose that sanction.

c. The affected faculty member may appeal to the Appeals and Review Committee any action by the President that is based on a recommendation by a Hearing Board.

H. Procedures for Fixed-Term Suspension or Termination of Academic Tenure or Fixed-Term Appointment Prior to Expiration for a Reason Other Than Financial Exigency

Section H-1. Proceedings for termination or fixed-term suspension for a reason other than financial exigency shall be carried out as follows:

a. Prior to or in lieu of Section H proceedings, the College and the faculty member may agree to arbitration or mediation. If such a resolution of the matter cannot be agreed upon, either the Committee on Advancement and Tenure or the Dean of the Faculty, after consultation between them, may present formal charges against the Faculty member to the Committee on Tenure. The burden of proof of the charges shall lie with the Dean or the Committee on Advancement and Tenure, whichever has initiated the proceeding, and will be satisfied only by clear and convincing evidence in the record considered as a whole.

b. The Committee on Tenure shall consist of the Faculty members of the Appeals and Review Committee with the following exceptions:
1. If the person whose termination or fixed-term suspension is proposed is a member of the Committee, he or she shall withdraw until his or her case is completed.
2. Any member of the Committee who feels in his or her own judgment that he or she cannot participate impartially in a particular case shall withdraw for the duration of the case.
3. Vacancies because of one or two withdrawals shall be filled by Faculty members chosen by the remaining members of the Committee. If there are more than two vacancies because of withdrawals, all of the vacancies shall be filled by Faculty members elected by the Faculty from nominees of the Committee on Advancement and Tenure in a number equal to twice the number to be elected.

c. The Committee on Tenure shall promptly appoint an Investigating Committee of five Faculty members on academic tenure, one of whom shall be chosen from among three nominated by the individual under investigation, one of whom shall be chosen from among three nominated by the President, and one of whom shall be chosen from among three nominated by the Committee on Advancement and Tenure. The Investigating Committee shall choose its own chair.

d. The Investigating Committee shall investigate the charges, hold hearings, and make recommendations as follows:

1. The person charged shall be fully informed in writing of the charges against him or her and shall have the opportunity to respond to the charges, to confront witnesses in hearings and to cross-examine them, to be heard in his or her own defense, to produce witnesses in his or her own behalf and to have with him or her at most two academic advisers of his or her own choosing. Where witnesses cannot or will not appear, but the Investigating Committee determines that the interests of justice require admission of their statements, the Investigating Committee will identify the witnesses, disclose their statements, and if possible provide for interrogatories. Legal counsel, including College counsel, shall not be permitted to observe or participate in any appearance before or meeting of the Investigating Committee.

2. The Investigating Committee may see all documents held by the College that pertain to the case. The Committee shall hold such hearings as may be necessary to fully explore the charges. If the charges include that of academic incompetence, testimony may include that of teachers and other scholars from the College or from other institutions of higher learning. A complete stenographic record of all hearings shall be kept and a transcript shall be prepared and supplied to the person charged upon his or her request. The hearings shall be open to the Faculty only if the person charged so requests.

3. The Investigating Committee shall normally complete its investigation within thirty working days of its appointment. Upon the completion of its investigation, the investigating Committee shall meet, consider the evidence, and reach its conclusions by a secret ballot in which the chair shall have the right to vote.

4. If the proceedings have arisen from a formal complaint, the complainant shall receive a written statement of the Investigating Committee's determination as to the merits of the allegations, and upon request, a statement of the grounds for this determination. The Investigating Committee shall submit a written report to the President, the person charged, and to the Dean of the Faculty or the Committee on Advancement and Tenure, whichever has initiated the proceedings. The report shall include a summary of the Committee's findings and recommendations for the disposition of the case and shall have attached a transcript of any hearings of which transcripts have been prepared. If the Investigating Committee concludes that adequate cause for suspension or termination has not been established by the evidence in the record, it will so state in its report. If the Investigating Committee concludes that an academic penalty less than suspension or termination would be more appropriate, it will so recommend in its report, with supporting reasons.

e. The President or his or her designated representatives shall have the right to attend any hearings or meetings of the Investigating Committee or the Committee on Tenure as an observer.

f. The President may seek clarification or further information from the Investigating Committee, and this additional information will become a part of the report of the Committee. Within five working days of receiving the final report of the Investigating Committee, the person accused may submit a written statement of his or her position to the President. If the President rejects the recommendations of the report, the President will state the reasons for so doing, in writing, to the Investigating Committee and to the faculty member, and will provide an opportunity for response before transmitting the case to the Board of Trustees. The faculty member or the President may request a review and recommendation from the Appeals and Review Committee, based on the record of the Investigating Committee hearing, supplemented by any written statements which the Investigating Committee, the President, or the affected faculty member may wish to submit.

g. If the President recommends termination or fixed-term suspension, the President will transmit to the Board of Trustees the entire record of the case. The Board of Trustees' review will be based on this record, and the Board of Trustees will provide opportunity for argument, oral or written or both, by the principals in the case or by their representatives. The decision of the Investigating Committee will either be sustained or the proceedings returned to the Committee with specific objections. The Investigating Committee will then reconsider, taking into account the stated objections and receiving new evidence if necessary. The Board of Trustees will make a final decision only after study of the Committee's reconsideration.

h. The President, after consultation with the Committee on Tenure, may suspend a person charged during the proceedings only if immediate harm to him or herself, the College, or others is threatened by his or her continuance. Any such suspension shall be with pay.

i. The Board of Trustees shall fix the financial arrangements with respect to termination. In the case of tenured faculty, unless the grounds for termination include personal conduct covered by Article VI, Section 1.C of the Constitution, the individual shall receive 12 months' salary from the date of termination at his or her prevailing rate. Fixed-term suspension shall normally extend over not more than one academic year. Such suspension will be without pay or benefits, except for health insurance benefits.

I. Proceedings for Termination because of Financial Exigency

Section I-1. Proceedings for termination because of financial exigency shall be carried out as follows:

a. The existence and extent of a bona fide financial exigency shall first be discussed with the Faculty and all means of meeting the exigency shall be analyzed.

b. Only after consultation with the Committee on Academic Policy and Planning, the President or the Board of Trustees may carry out the termination.
c. The person terminated may, after receiving notice of termination, request a written statement from the President giving the reasons for his or her being selected for termination and may appeal the decision to the Appeals and Review Committee. In event of appeal, the person terminated may make such written or oral presentation as he or she desires and may present witnesses and other evidence in his or her behalf. He or she may be accompanied by an academic advisor or legal counsel of his or her own choosing or both.

d. The Board of Trustees shall fix the financial arrangements with respect to termination. In the case of tenured faculty, the individual shall receive 12 months’ salary from the date of termination at his or her prevailing rate; however, the College and the individual shall use reasonable efforts to obtain another position for the individual and, if another position is obtained, the termination pay shall cease when pay from the new position begins.

J. Title IX Complaints against Members of the Faculty involving Allegations of Sexual Harassment/Misconduct

Section J-1. Preliminary Considerations

a. Overview

The following three sections of the Rules of Procedure, J, K, L detail the procedures for complaints against faculty members involving sexual harassment/misconduct. Sexual harassment/misconduct is unwelcome conduct of a sexual nature. For the purpose of this policy sexual harassment/misconduct is defined as sexual violence, unwelcome sexual advances, requests for sexual favors, and other verbal, nonverbal, or physical conduct of a sexual nature. These procedures are intended to create an environment free of sex-based discrimination and harassment in accord with the College’s regulations and policies, the Honor Principle, and the requirements of the U.S. Department of Education’s Office of Civil Rights. These procedures are not intended to regulate academic discourse or content of speech. Academic discourse involving acts or speech of a sexual nature, even if perceived by some as offensive is not sufficient basis in and of itself to establish sexual harassment/misconduct. For academic discourse to be considered harassing, and/or to potentially create a sex-based discriminatory environment, it must also be persistent, pervasive, and not germane to the scholarly exploration of the subject matter.

b. Advisers

For all sexual harassment/misconduct cases conducted under section J, K, and L, the Complainant and the Respondent each may retain legal counsel and have as many as two advisers from the College community assist in the formal complaint process. The role of an adviser from the college community is to help the Complainant or Respondent prepare for any investigation or hearing, to advise on procedure, and to be a non-participating supporter in any interview or hearing that may result. The Complainant and the Respondent are, however, expected to represent themselves in any hearing or interview. Outside counsel may attend, but may not speak during hearings and the proceedings that form part of any sexual harassment/misconduct investigation.

c. Confidentiality

The Dean of the Faculty and anyone who has been designated to perform the Dean’s functions in the grievance process shall endeavor to the degree possible to protect the confidentiality of Complainants and Respondents, but must comply with obligations and responsibilities placed on the College by Title IX regulations. The Title IX Coordinator will be advised of reports or complaints of sexual harassment/misconduct. This will include the names of the Complainant(s) and Respondent(s), as well as a brief statement of the event or events which are the cause of the complaint, including the date or dates.

Complainants, Respondents and witnesses are required to keep confidential the details of any formal complaint investigation, resolution or grievance hearing. They may disclose their own experiences that led to the filing of a complaint, and they may disclose details of the case to confidential parties, such as counselors, clergy, family members and lawyers or the advisers allowed by this policy. They may also state that they are participating or have participated in a formal complaint or grievance procedure, whether as Complainant, Respondent, Hearing Board member, witness, or in another role. They must, however, keep confidential any details about the proceedings, the other participants, and any new information gained from testimony given or evidence submitted as part of a hearing or investigation. In cases of sexual assault, Complainants and Respondents may, after the completion of the process, including all appeals, also disclose three additional pieces of information: the name of the Respondent; the institution’s final determination concerning the allegation of sexual assault; and any sanction imposed on the Respondent as a result of a finding of sexual assault.

d. Retaliation

The Dean shall endeavor to protect all parties involved from retaliation as necessary, during or after an investigation and its resolution. Retaliation includes intimidation, threats, coercion or adverse employment or educational actions taken against an individual because of the individual's participation in the reporting, investigation or resolution of a complaint. Retaliation may include acts committed by Complainants, Respondents or any other individual or group of individuals.

A student Complainant may bring to the Dean’s attention any concerns about completion of a particular course or concerns about any evaluations of his or her performance. The Dean will follow relevant college policy where it exists, and consult with and inform the Title IX Coordinator as appropriate.

e. Record Keeping

If sanctions have been imposed under the provisions of Section K or L, and appeal is unsuccessful, a statement of these sanctions and of their grounds shall be placed in the Respondent’s evaluation file. Informal or mediated resolutions of complaints or charges arising from a section J proceeding may stipulate that an appropriate statement be placed in the Respondent’s evaluation file.

In the event that a hearing according to the procedures of Sections K or L comes about because of an allegation submitted to the Committee on Advancement and Tenure as part of the faculty evaluation process, that allegation shall normally remain in the Respondent’s evaluation file. In cases where such an allegation is discredited by a hearing that clears the Respondent of wrongdoing, the Committee on Advancement and Tenure shall insert a statement to that effect into the evaluation file.

All other records arising from formal complaints against members of the Faculty, all other records arising from informal resolutions reached through interaction with the Dean of the Faculty or the Committee on Advancement and Tenure, and records arising from mediation through the Honor Council which results in acknowledgment of injury to a community member, shall be kept by the Dean of the Faculty in confidential complaint files separate from all other records pertaining to a faculty member. A Hearing Board or Investigating Committee on sexual harassment/misconduct shall consult these files only when determining what sanctions to recommend in a case where allegations have been substantiated through the procedures of Sections K or L. The Committee on Advancement and Tenure shall not consult these files except when determining whether to initiate proceedings pursuant to Section J-3 below. As stated in the Community Constitution, these files shall be maintained for the duration of a faculty member’s employment at Reed, or longer if legally required, and shall be destroyed at the end of that period.

All complaints alleging possible violations of Title IX that are brought to the attention of the Dean of Faculty or the Chair of the Grievance Review Panel shall be reported to the Title IX coordinator. The Title IX Coordinator shall be kept informed of the status and outcomes of the investigation and adjudication of such complaints and any resolution, including in cases where the complaint is unsubstantiated.

f. Suspension and Resumption of Personnel Review

In the event that a hearing according to the procedures of Sections K or L overlap in time with a personnel review affecting title, salary, or term of service of the Respondent, that review shall be suspended pending the final outcome of those procedures. As soon as the procedures are complete, the personnel review will be resumed, and no financial or status penalty will accrue to the Respondent solely by virtue of the delay.

g. Timeline

The time limits identified in this policy, including for the procedures of Sections K and L, shall be observed in normal circumstances, but may be extended for good cause shown, provided that prompt resolution of a complaint is not prevented by the extension. Excluding appeals, the investigation and resolution of a formal complaint shall in normal circumstances take no longer than sixty days.

Section J-2. Formal Complaints

a. Filing a Complaint

Any student, staff, or faculty member of Reed College, any parent or guardian of a Reed student or any other legitimate user of the facilities and programs of Reed College, may file with the Dean of the Faculty a formal complaint of sexual harassment/misconduct against a faculty member.

In cases of sexual harassment/misconduct complaints against the Dean of the Faculty or in cases where the Dean of the Faculty may have a real or perceived conflict of interest in investigating a complaint, a formal complaint should be filed with the Chair of the Grievance Review Panel under Section K below.

At all times, the Complainant has the right to file a criminal complaint with law enforcement or to seek civil remedy, in addition to the College’s procedures.

b. Investigation

The Dean of the Faculty shall endeavor to obtain consent from the Complainant before beginning an investigation. If the Complainant requests confidentiality, the College shall take all reasonable steps outlined under Section J-3 below to investigate and respond to the complaint consistent with the request for confidentiality or request not to pursue an investigation. If a complainant insists that his or her name or other identifiable information not be disclosed to the alleged perpetrator, the College shall inform the Complainant that it will be limited in its ability to investigate and respond to the complaint.
The Dean of the Faculty shall ensure that the complaint is promptly investigated. He or she may do the investigation, or designate an appropriate investigator. The Complainant, Respondent and other individuals identified as having information pertinent to the case shall be interviewed, and pertinent evidence shall be reviewed. The purpose of the investigation is to establish whether or not there is sufficient evidence to suggest that sexual harassment/misconduct has occurred. The investigation shall normally be completed within fifteen days.

Failure to cooperate with or interference in an investigation may result in discipline up to and including discharge for employees (including faculty members), and suspension or expulsion for students, in accordance with the College's established grievance procedures.

c. Results of the Investigation and Resolution

On the basis of the investigation, the investigator shall prepare a written report describing the complaint and the response (or absence of a response), the information provided by any witnesses, and any other evidence. On the basis of this report, the Dean of the Faculty, or his or her designee, shall communicate in an addendum to the report whether he or she believes that it is more likely than not that sexual harassment/misconduct occurred. If the Dean, or his or her designee, concludes that it is more likely than not that the Respondent has committed an act of sexual harassment/misconduct, he or she shall recommend in the addendum what disciplinary action would be appropriate for such a violation.

If the Dean, or his or her designee, concludes that it is more likely than not that the Respondent has not committed an act of sexual harassment/misconduct, he or she shall provide the Complainant and the Respondent written notice of this finding and of the procedures for appeal.

Both the Complainant and the Respondent have the right to appeal to the President, asking within five days of the date of the notice to meet with the President to discuss the finding. In such a case, the Dean, or his or her designee, will forward the investigative report and addendum to the President. If the Complainant or the Respondent presents compelling evidence of procedural irregularities, provides significant new information or otherwise identifies a basis for reconsideration, the President shall refer the matter back to the Dean of the Faculty, or the designee, for reconsideration. Otherwise, the President may accept, modify or reject the findings of the Dean, or his or her designee. The President will provide written notice of his or her decision to the Complainant, the Respondent and the Dean, and the Dean will pursue resolution of the complaint, when appropriate, according to the procedures outlined below.

If the Dean or his or her designee concludes that it is more likely than not that the Respondent has committed an act of sexual harassment/misconduct, he or she shall provide the Complainant and the Respondent written notice of this finding and of the procedures for appeal. At this point, the Respondent may accept the findings of the report and accept any sanctions proposed in the addendum, or some other resolution of the complaint may be agreed to by the Respondent, the Dean of the Faculty (or his or her designee), and the Complainant. Any resolution shall include a final determination of the College's finding regarding the occurrence of an act of sexual harassment/misconduct, and any sanctions imposed on the Respondent that directly relate to the Complainant’s participation in college programs shall be disclosed to the Complainant.
If no such agreement is reached within five days after notice of the investigation has been received, and if the recommended disciplinary action is less than suspension or termination, the Dean of the Faculty shall forward the complaint together with the written report of the investigation, including the addendum, to the Chair of the Grievance Review Panel. In cases in which the recommended disciplinary action is fixed-term suspension or termination of tenure or of fixed-term appointment prior to expiration, the Dean shall consult with the Committee on Advancement and Tenure as to whether to initiate proceedings under the provisions of Section L of these Rules of Procedure, or instead to pass the complaint to the Chair of the Grievance Review Panel in order to instigate a proceeding under Section K.

Section J-3. Investigation in the Absence of a Formal Complaint

a. Initiating an Investigation

In cases involving informal complaints of sexual harassment/misconduct or cases when a complainant does not consent to his or her name being used in an investigation of sexual harassment/misconduct, the Dean of Faculty and the Committee on Advancement and Tenure will carefully weigh the wishes of the potential Complainant(s) and the College’s responsibility to provide a safe and non-discriminatory environment for all members of the community. If necessary, interim measures will be taken to protect any potential Complainant’s health and participation in college programs and to protect against retaliation.

If the Dean or the Committee on Advancement and Tenure determines that possible charges do warrant instituting procedures under Section K or if the Committee on Advancement and Tenure determines that possible charges do warrant instituting procedures under Section K, the Respondent shall within two days receive a written statement of the nature and grounds of the possible charges to be considered against him or her and shall have five days from receipt of this statement in which to reply and to state his or her position, unless there is a substantial reason for extending that deadline.

b. Investigation

The Dean of the Faculty and the Committee on Advancement and Tenure shall have fifteen days from receipt of the Respondent’s reply to conduct an investigation. The purpose of the investigation is to establish whether or not there is sufficient evidence to suggest that an act of sexual harassment/misconduct has occurred.

c. Results of the Investigation and Resolution

On the basis of the investigation, the investigator shall prepare a written report describing the complaint and the response (or absence of a response), the information provided by any witnesses, and any other evidence. On the basis of this report, the Dean and the Committee on Advancement and Tenure shall communicate in an addendum to the report whether the Committee on Advancement and Tenure believes, by majority vote, that it is more likely than not that the alleged act(s) of sexual harassment/misconduct occurred. If the Committee on Advancement and Tenure conclude that is more likely than not that the Respondent has committed an act of sexual harassment/misconduct, the Dean, the Committee on Advancement and Tenure, and the Respondent are bound in good faith to seek resolution of the matter among themselves before instituting proceedings under Sections K or L. Such resolution shall include a final determination of whether or not an act of sexual harassment/misconduct occurred, and may include sanctions stipulated by the Dean of the Faculty and the Committee on Advancement and Tenure. Sanctions imposed on the Respondent that directly relate to any informal or potential Complainant’s participation in college programs shall be disclosed to that Complainant.

If a resolution is not agreed to within five days of the determination that grounds for adverse action may exist, and if the alleged conduct appears to warrant a sanction less than fixed-term suspension or termination, the Dean of the Faculty shall promptly forward the written report prepared by the Dean and the Committee on Advancement and Tenure to the Chair of the Grievance Review Panel. If the Committee on Advancement and Tenure determines that the alleged conduct could warrant fixed-term suspension or termination of tenure or of fixed-term appointment prior to expiration, then the Committee on Advancement and Tenure shall promptly initiate proceedings pursuant to Section L.

If the Dean of the Faculty and the Committee on Advancement and Tenure determine that plausible grounds for proceedings under Sections K or L or other adverse action do not exist, the Dean of the Faculty shall immediately so inform the Respondent, and any informal or potential Complainant, in writing.

K. Procedures for Sanctions Less than Fixed-Term Suspension or Termination

Section K-1. Investigation by the Grievance Hearing Board

a. Filing a Complaint

The Chair of the Grievance Review Panel shall receive sexual harassment/misconduct complaints from the Dean of the Faculty or the Committee on Advancement and Tenure or from any legitimate user of the facilities and programs of Reed College who believes the Dean of the Faculty has a conflict of interest investigating his or her sexual harassment/misconduct complaint.

b. Constitution of a Grievance Hearing Board

Within five working days of the receipt of a complaint, the Chair of the Grievance Review Panel shall appoint from that panel a Grievance Hearing Board, made up of three members of the Faculty, who do not have any real or perceived conflict of interest in reviewing the complaint.

c. Investigation by the Grievance Hearing Board

The Hearing Board shall meet not more than five working days after its appointment to discuss the allegations. If the Hearing Board judges that the allegation could warrant fixed-term suspension or termination of tenure or of fixed-term appointment prior to expiration, the Hearing Board shall immediately forward the complaint to the Committee on Advancement and Tenure, at which point the procedures of Section L shall come into force, and proceedings under Section K shall terminate. If the Hearing Board does not forward the complaint to the Committee on Advancement and Tenure, it shall normally complete its investigations and determinations within twenty working days from receipt of a complaint.

The Hearing Board shall conduct an investigation, call witnesses, and gather information it deems necessary to assist it in reaching a determination as to the merits of the allegations. Unless the Hearing Board concludes that the allegations are without merit and dismisses the complaint, it shall invite, in writing, as many Respondents or Complainants as are party to a dispute to appear before it.

The Complainant(s) and the Respondent(s) may be present at the hearing if they choose, or they may choose to participate in the hearing by telephone or video. conference. Neither the Respondent(s) nor the Complainant(s) shall, however, be allowed to cross-examine each other, or the witnesses, during the hearing. Questions may be submitted by Respondent(s) and Complainant(s) in advance to the Board, which shall decide whether those questions are relevant to the matter and, where applicable, in compliance with Title IX or other legal requirements.

Where appropriate, the Complainant(s) shall be offered the opportunity to participate in the hearing without being in the presence of the Respondent(s), or accommodations shall be made so that the Complainant(s) may participate in the hearing without facing the Respondent(s). Similarly, where appropriate, the Respondent(s) shall be offered the opportunity to participate in the hearing without being in the presence of the Complainant(s), or accommodations shall be made so that the Respondent(s) may participate in the hearing without facing the Complainant(s). A transcript or audio recording of any hearing shall be made.

Failure to cooperate with or interference in an investigation may result in discipline up to and including discharge for employees (including faculty members), and suspension or expulsion for students, in accordance with the College’s established grievance procedures.

In arriving at its ultimate determination as to whether sexual harassment/misconduct occurred, the Hearing Board shall be guided by a standard of the preponderance of the evidence in the information before it, considered as a whole. The determination will be based on the majority vote of the Hearing Board.

Section K-2. Report of the Hearing Board

a. Communication of the Hearing Board’s Decision

In cases arising from a formal complaint, the Hearing Board shall state whether an act of sexual harassment/misconduct occurred together with a summary of the basis for the Board’s determination and the options for appeal, in a written report to the Complainant, the Respondent, and the Dean of Faculty (or the President, in cases against the Dean of the Faculty). The Hearing Board shall also communicate in writing to the Dean of the Faculty (or the President, in cases against the Dean of the Faculty) and the Respondent any recommendations for sanctions against the Respondent. The Hearing Board shall state whether an act of sexual harassment/misconduct occurred.

b. Sanctions

If the Hearing Board recommends a sanction, the Dean of the Faculty shall forward this recommendation to the President, who shall determine whether to impose that sanction or a different sanction. In case of a complaint against the Dean of Faculty, the Hearing Board shall give its recommendation directly to the President.

The Hearing board cannot recommend fixed-term suspension or termination of tenure or of fixed-term appointment prior to expiration. Should a substantially new allegation come to light during proceedings, the Hearing Board shall refer that new allegation to the Committee on Advancement and Tenure, which will proceed according to the procedures of Section J-3. The Hearing Board shall complete its hearing of the allegation before it.

Any sanctions imposed on the Respondent that directly relate to the Complainant’s participation in college programs shall be disclosed to the Complainant in writing.

c. Appeal
The Respondent and the Complainant may each appeal to the Appeals and Review Committee the dismissal of the complaint by the Hearing Board or any action by the President that is based on a recommendation by the Hearing Board. The Appeals and Review Committee does not hold a new hearing. Its review is limited to determining whether due process has been followed, whether the dismissal or any action of the President was based on a body of evidence sufficient to allow for a reasonably well informed judgment, and/or whether there is any new evidence so substantial that the complaint should be reconsidered. It will make its determinations according to a majority vote of the committee.

If the Appeals and Review Committee rejects the dismissal of the complaint, it will refer the complaint back to the Grievance Hearing Board for a new investigation of the complaint. If the Committee considers an action of the President to be not based on a body of evidence sufficient to allow for a reasonably well informed judgment or considers that there is substantial new evidence that was not considered by the Grievance Hearing Board, it will refer the case back to the Grievance Hearing Board for reconsideration.

In the case of an appeal, the Appeals and Review Committee will normally complete its work within ten days of receipt of the appeal.

L. Procedures for Fixed-Term Suspension or Termination of Academic Tenure or Termination of Fixed-Term Appointment Prior to Expiration in Response to Charges of Sexual Harassment/Misconduct

a. Presentation of Formal Charges

In cases of alleged sexual assault, informal resolution is not an appropriate tool and will not be used by the College to resolve complaints. In other cases, prior to or in lieu of Section L proceedings, the College and the faculty member may agree to informal resolution, such as arbitration or mediation. If such a resolution of the matter cannot be agreed upon, either the Committee on Advancement and Tenure or the Dean of the Faculty, after consultation between them, may present formal charges against the faculty member to the Committee on Tenure.

b. The Committee on Tenure

The Committee on Tenure (not to be confused with the Committee on Advancement and Tenure) shall consist of the Faculty members of the Appeals and Review Committee with the following exceptions:

1. If the person whose termination or fixed-term suspension is proposed is a member of the Committee, he or she shall withdraw until his or her case is completed.
2. Any member of the Committee who feels in his or her own judgment that he or she cannot participate impartially in a particular case shall withdraw for the duration of the case.

Vacancies because of one or two withdrawals shall be filled by faculty members chosen by the remaining members of the Committee from the nominating ballot of the most recent election for the Appeals and Review Committee. If this does not yield sufficient numbers to constitute the Committee on Tenure, the President shall appoint the remaining members.

c. Constitution of the Investigating Committee
The Committee on Tenure shall within three days appoint an Investigating Committee of five faculty members on academic tenure, one of whom shall be chosen from among three nominated by the Respondent, one of whom shall be chosen from among three nominated by the President, and one of whom shall be chosen from among three nominated by the Committee on Advancement and Tenure. The Investigating Committee shall choose its own chair.

d. Investigation and Recommendations of the Investigating Committee

The Respondent shall be fully informed in writing of the charges against him or her and shall have the opportunity to respond to the charges, to be heard in his or her own defense, to produce witnesses in his or her own behalf and to have with him or her at most two advisers of his or her own choosing and drawn from the college community. The Complainant shall have the same opportunity to produce witnesses and have advisers. Where witnesses cannot or will not appear, but the Investigating Committee determines that the interests of justice require admission of their statements, the Investigating Committee will identify the witnesses in any hearing and introduce their statements.

The Complainant and the Respondent may be present at the hearing if they choose, or they may choose to participate in the hearing by telephone or video conference. Neither the Respondent nor the Complainant shall be allowed to cross-examine the other during the hearing. Questions may be submitted by the Complainant and the Respondent in advance to the Investigating Committee, which shall decide whether those questions are relevant to the matter and, where applicable, in compliance with Title IX or other legal requirements.

Where appropriate, the Complainant shall be offered the opportunity to participate in the hearing without being in the presence of the Respondent, or accommodations shall be made so that the Complainant may participate in the hearing without facing the Respondent. Similarly, where appropriate, the Respondent shall be offered the opportunity to participate in the hearing without being in the presence of the Complainant, or accommodations shall be made so that the Respondent may participate in the hearing without facing the Complainant. Outside counsel may attend, but may not speak during hearings and the proceedings that form part of the investigation.

Failure to cooperate with or interference in an investigation may result in discipline up to and including discharge for employees (including faculty members), and suspension or expulsion for students, in accordance with the College’s established grievance procedures.

The Investigating Committee may see all documents held by the College that pertain to the case. The Committee shall hold such hearings as may be necessary to fully explore the charges. A complete transcript or audio recording of all hearings shall be kept and a transcript shall be prepared and supplied to the person charged upon his or her request. The hearings shall be open to the Faculty only if the Respondent and the Complainant agree to this.

Upon the completion of its investigation, the Investigating Committee shall meet, consider the evidence, and reach its conclusions by a majority vote reached by a secret ballot in which the chair shall have the right to vote. The Committee will make its judgments according to the preponderance of the evidence in the information before it, considered as a whole.
If the proceedings have arisen from a formal complaint, the Complainant shall receive a written statement of the Investigating Committee's determination as to the merits of the allegations, including a determination of whether or not an act of sexual harassment/misconduct severe enough to warrant fixed-term suspension or termination of tenure or fixed-term appointment prior to expiration occurred, and a statement of the grounds for the determination. Any decision to recommend suspension or termination should be based on a careful consideration of whether or not the nature of the evidence in support of that accusation are sufficient to warrant such a sanction. The Investigating Committee shall submit a written report to the President, the person charged, the Committee on Advancement and Tenure, and the Title IX Coordinator. The report shall include a summary of the Committee's findings and recommendations of the disposition of the case and shall have attached a transcript of any hearings of which transcripts have been prepared. If the Investigating Committee concludes that adequate cause for suspension or termination has not been established by the evidence in record, it will so state in its report. If the Investigating Committee concludes that an academic penalty less than suspension or termination would be more appropriate, it will so recommend in its report, with supporting reasons. If the Investigating Committee recommends in favor of suspension or termination, the report shall provide explicit reasons in support of such a recommendation.

The Investigating Committee shall normally complete its investigation within fifteen working days of its appointment, unless the complaint originates from a complaint filed directly with the Chair of the Grievance Review Panel, in which case, the Investigating Committee shall normally complete its investigation within thirty working days of its appointment.

e. Review of the President and Trustees

The President or his or her designated representatives shall have the right to attend any hearings or meetings of the Investigating Committee or the Committee on Tenure as an observer.

The President may seek clarification or further information from the Investigating Committee, and this additional information will become a part of the report of the Committee. Within three days of receiving the final report of the Investigating Committee, both the Respondent and the Complainant (where applicable) may submit a written statement of his or her position to the President. The President shall either accept or reject the findings and recommendations of the report. He or she will inform in writing the Investigating Committee, the Respondent and the Complainant (where applicable) of his or her decision, stating the reasons for his or her action in the case where the report is rejected, and making clear the options for appeal. The President will provide an opportunity for a written response before transmitting the case, including all supporting documentation, to the Board of Trustees within five days of receiving the final report of the Investigating Committee.

The Respondent, the Complainant (where applicable) or the President may request a review and recommendation from the Appeals and Review Committee, based on the record of the Investigating Committee hearing, supplemented by any written statements which the Investigating Committee, the President, or the affected faculty member may wish to submit. The review of the Appeals and Review Committee shall be limited to determining whether due process has been followed, whether the determination of the Investigating Committee was based on a body of evidence sufficient to allow for a reasonably well informed judgment, and whether there is any new evidence that is so substantial that the Investigating Committee should reconsider its conclusions. It will make its determinations according to a majority vote of the committee, and will normally complete its work within ten days of receipt of the appeal.

If the President recommends termination or fixed-term suspension, the President will transmit to the Board of Trustees the entire record of the case, including the result of any appeal to the Appeals and Review Committee. The Board of Trustees’ review will be based on this record, and the Board of Trustees will provide opportunity for an appeal, oral or written or both, by the principals in the case or by their representatives. The decision of the Investigating Committee will either be sustained or the proceedings returned to the Committee with specific objections. The Investigating Committee will then reconsider, taking into account the stated objections and receiving new evidence if necessary. The Board of Trustees will make a final decision only after study of the Committee’s reconsideration. The Board of Trustees’ review of the case will, in the absence of any appeal, normally take no more than ten days.

f. Interim Suspension
The President, after consultation with the Committee on Tenure, may suspend a respondent during the proceedings if immediate harm to him or herself, the College, or others is threatened by his or her continuance or if his or her continued presence on campus is judged to have a sufficiently negative impact on the Complainant. Any such suspension shall be with pay.

g. Financial Consideration with Respect to Termination
The Board of Trustees shall fix any financial arrangements with respect to termination. Fixed-term suspension shall normally extend over not more than one academic year. Such suspension will be without pay or benefits, except for health insurance benefits.

VII. A. Discriminatory Harassment and Sexual Misconduct Policy

Approved by the Student Senate May 12, 2015. Approved by the Faculty May 15, 2015. Effective July 1, 2015

I. Introduction

Reed College is committed to maintaining a free and diverse campus community in which students, faculty, and staff can live, learn, work and express themselves honorably. Membership in the Reed community, as governed by the Honor Principle, imposes obligations on students, faculty, and staff to respect the dignity and autonomy of others and to treat one another civilly and without regard to factors irrelevant to participation in the life of the College.

This policy details and explicitly prohibits specific forms of harassment, sexual and relationship misconduct, and encourages the reporting of these prohibited behaviors and of any form of harassment. Reed College is committed to the primary prevention of these prohibited behaviors through ongoing education and awareness activities for students, staff, and faculty. When prohibited behaviors do occur, Reed College will act to mitigate and, when appropriate, remediate their harm on a complainant and the community, and to take steps necessary to prevent their recurrence.
The prohibitions within this policy may appear to place a restriction on academic freedom and individual freedom of expression. Those forms of freedom are central to the College’s values, and occasionally, discomfort may be an inevitable result of the exercise of those freedoms and the pursuit of the mission of the College. The Reed College Mission Statement and the Constitution and Bylaws of the Faculty express the College’s deep commitment to academic freedom and to the free exchange of ideas. The preamble to the Community Constitution (as of September 2013) emphasizes the interrelationship between freedom and honorable conduct:

“We declare our commitment to responsible and honorable conduct in academic and community affairs, and we reaffirm one another’s rights to freedom of inquiry and expression in coursework, scholarship, and the day-to-day life of the Reed Community. Since such freedom requires an atmosphere of trust and mutual confidence, we further declare that dishonesty, intimidation, harassment, exploitation, and the use or threat of force are incompatible with the preservation of this freedom.”

Under principles of academic freedom, faculty members can use a wide variety of teaching techniques, and faculty and students can engage in the free and open exchange of ideas. The educational context is distinct from the context of the workplace in that wide latitude is required to determine the appropriate content and presentation of academic material. Academic discourse – which may include discourse that occurs in formal academic or educational settings as well as discourse that occurs outside of the classroom – regarding acts or speech of a sexual or potentially discriminatory nature does not, in and of itself, constitute a violation of this policy. Legitimate and recognized forms of artistic expression are similarly protected. Members of the community are encouraged to conduct themselves honorably when engaging with these serious issues.

Except as otherwise specified herein, this policy applies to faculty, staff, students, and agents of the College while in their representative roles. It also applies to visitors, contractors and subcontractors, as well as to any other person who participates in or benefits from Reed College programs and activities, whether on or off campus, including academic, educational, extracurricular, athletic, residential, and workplace programs and activities, and to any person using Reed premises. This policy covers behavior that occurs outside of Reed-sanctioned events or Reed properties when it impacts an individual’s ability to access or benefit from Reed College programs and activities.

Reed College acknowledges and intends to comply with its legal responsibilities in all its programs and activities. This policy is required by, and is, as a whole, intended to be consistent with Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, and any other applicable law or regulation that prohibits discrimination on the basis of any legally protected category in the educational programs or activities of colleges and universities, in employment, or in any other relationship which is governed by law. Reed College also acknowledges and intends to comply with its legal responsibilities under federal and Oregon law, including the reporting responsibilities of the Clery Act, 34 CFR 668.46. If any provisions of this policy are contrary to or interfere with any applicable law, that law will supersede the inconsistent policy provisions. Behavior violating this policy may also separately violate federal, state, or other law; it may also violate other policies of the College.

Because of the close connection between this policy and Title IX, significant parts of the policy’s enforcement are overseen by Reed’s Title IX Coordinator. Contact information may be found from the Title IX Coordinator Resource Page and other places on the
II. Notice of Non-discrimination

Reed College does not discriminate on the basis of protected classes including race, color, national origin, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, age, marital status, military status, veteran status, genetic information, physical or mental disability, pregnancy, status as a parent, family relationship, or on the basis of any other category protected by law. Reed does not consider any of the above attributes in administration of its employment policies, educational policies, admission policies, scholarship and loan programs, housing policies, and athletic and other school-administered programs. In its policies and actions, Reed will comply with its obligations under state and federal law including Title VI and Title VII of the 1964 Civil Rights Act, Title IX of the 1972 Education Amendments Act, Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 (ADA), the Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act (USERRA), Oregon Revised Statutes, the Clery Act of 1990 and its amendments and any other applicable law.

III. General Definitions Used in This Policy

For purposes of this policy, certain terms are defined in a specific way. The following definitions apply where the defined terms are used in this policy, regardless of whether the terms have a different meaning in other contexts.

Agents of the College: Individuals serving as official representatives for the College in any unpaid or paid capacity.

Report: Notification to a college officer of a perceived or actual violation of this policy, or of a perceived or actual instance of harassment, whether or not the reporter is certain that a violation or instance of harassment occurred and regardless of the resolution of the incident(s).

Complaint: A report regarding perceived or actual violation(s) of College policy that results in a formal adjudication process by the appropriate Reed adjudicative body.

Complainant: An individual who makes a complaint.

Faculty: A member of the teaching or research staff who holds academic rank, including those on visiting appointments and those on sabbatical or leave. It also includes visiting scholars and emeriti faculty who are teaching or who have an office on campus. “Academic rank” means the rank of Instructor, Assistant Professor, Associate Professor, or Professor.

Respondent: An individual alleged to have violated College policy, who has been named as such in a report or a formal complaint.

Staff: Individuals employed by Reed College who are not members of the faculty. Bargaining unit staff are held to College policies unless their collective bargaining agreement differs from College policy.
Student: An individual who is currently enrolled, registered, on leave, or has made arrangements with the Business Office to pay tuition and fees.
Target: The person(s) toward whom the conduct in question is allegedly directed.

IV. Use of a Reasonable Person Standard

The College will use a “reasonable person” standard when applying the definitions herein and in investigating reports and complaints of violations of this policy, both in determining facts and in assessing culpability.

A “reasonable person” is a hypothetical person who is level-headed and rational, aware of community norms, and not under the influence of a judgment-impairing substance. Further, this person considers all information available to them about the circumstances and actual and perceived identities of all parties involved in the incident(s).

This standard can be used in different ways throughout the investigation and adjudicative process. For example, because the standard is referred to in the definition of prohibited discriminatory harassment, parties investigating a report or formal complaint of discriminatory harassment will use the reasonable person standard by assessing the situation from the perspective of a reasonable person as defined above to decide if the behavior constitutes a violation of this policy. As another example, parties may use the reasonable person standard when assessing whether a reasonable person, as defined above, in the same position as the respondent, would believe that they had consent in that context.

V. Discriminatory Harassment

Discriminatory harassment is unwelcome verbal, written, visual, or physical conduct that is derogatory, insulting and/or intimidating and that is based on or motivated by an individual’s or group’s actual or perceived affiliation with protected classes or categories. See section II of this policy for a list of protected classes or categories. The present section includes coverage of discriminatory harassment that is based on sexual orientation. Section VI addresses, in detail, harassment that is of a sexual nature or based on gender or gender identity. All instances of discriminatory harassment are detrimental to our community and may be violations of the Honor Principle.

Discriminatory harassment is both unlawful and violates this policy if it creates a hostile environment. Harassment creates a hostile environment if it is sufficiently severe, pervasive, or persistent that it either (1) denies, interferes with, or limits a person’s ability to participate in or benefit from the College’s programs or activities; or (2) creates a learning, working, or living environment that a reasonable person would consider intimidating, hostile, or offensive.

Not only does Reed prohibit discriminatory harassment that creates a hostile working environment, but the college also seeks to maintain a supportive living, learning, and working environment for all community members, consistent with the principles of academic freedom as described in Section I of this policy. Reed encourages community members to report any behavior that may qualify as discriminatory harassment whether or not they are certain that the behavior in question rises to the level of discriminatory harassment or a hostile environment as defined above. Refer to Section XI of this policy for additional information about reporting. For further information about

Under principles of academic freedom, faculty members can use a wide variety of teaching techniques, and faculty and students can engage in the free and open exchange of ideas. The educational context is distinct from the context of the workplace in that wide latitude is required to determine the appropriate content and presentation of academic material. Academic discourse – which may include discourse that occurs in formal academic or educational settings as well as discourse that occurs outside of the classroom – regarding acts or speech of a potentially discriminatory nature does not, in and of itself, constitute discriminatory harassment. Legitimate and recognized forms of artistic expression are similarly protected. Members of the community are encouraged to conduct themselves honorably when engaging with these serious issues.

Discriminatory harassment can be carried out by various means, from the use of offensive or intimidating references to a protected class (such as with slurs, epithets, or offensive stereotypes) to outright threats, and by way of various mechanisms or media, whether verbal, non-verbal, written, visual, electronic or other. Discriminatory harassment includes disparaging, degrading, or abusive words, phrases, or generalizations which are directed at an individual or group based on their actual or perceived affiliation with a protected class, and for which there is no reasonable academic, educational or artistic justification.

Discriminatory harassment need not be targeted at the complainant. The acts may be directed at anyone. For example, racial harassment need not be based on the complainant's race, so long as it is racially motivated (e.g., it might be based on the race of a friend or associate of the complainant). Additionally, the harassment need not result in physical injury or detriment to the target(s) of the harassment.

Behavior that singles out individuals or groups with overlapping protected identities can constitute discriminatory harassment even if such persons would not be singled out as members of their individual protected classes.

In evaluating whether the conduct constitutes discriminatory harassment and/or creates a hostile environment, the relationship between the alleged harasser and the target, including any relevant power imbalance, is a factor to be considered. A single severe incident of discriminatory harassment may create a hostile environment.

VI. Consent and Sexual Misconduct

Three categories of sexual misconduct are addressed below: sexual assault, sexual exploitation, and sexual harassment. This section begins with a discussion of the crucial concept of consent, and ends with a discussion of relationships among faculty, staff, and students.

A. CONSENT

Consent is defined here as conscious, relevantly informed, and fully voluntary agreement to, or permission for, an act. The following points should be emphasized:

• To consent is to actively agree to, or actively give permission for, something. Consent should never be assumed, but must be actively obtained by all parties. Though this may require explicit verbal discussion, especially in unfamiliar situations, consent can be communicated nonverbally, especially in the space of mutual recognition created by a stable, ongoing relationship. To consent is not to be in a passive state.

- Silence or inaction do not, in and of themselves, communicate consent. The absence of an explicit denial of consent does not constitute consent.
- Consent to one form of sexual activity does not by itself constitute consent to any further sexual activity.
- A person can remove consent to an ongoing activity at any time during that activity, or thereafter for subsequent activity.
- Previous or ongoing sexual relationships or encounters do not in and of themselves constitute consent to any subsequent sexual acts.
- Consent cannot be forced or coerced; agreement or permission due to duress, coercion, threat, implied threat, or intimidation does not constitute consent.
- A person who is asleep, or physically or mentally incapacitated – whose judgment is seriously impaired by alcohol, other drugs, or other factors, such as lack of sleep – cannot give consent.
- Intoxication or impairment by alcohol or other drugs, or any other mental impairment, of the person initiating the unwanted contact is not a defense for the commission of sexual misconduct, dating or domestic violence, or other conduct prohibited under this policy and does not diminish one’s responsibility to obtain consent before sexual contact, though it may be a factor in specifying the nature or character of the violation in question.
- Oregon state law considers persons under the age of 18 to be incapable of consent to sexual activity (ORS §163.315). If lack of consent is due only to the age of the parties, and consent is otherwise present, it may be a defense to violation of this sexual misconduct policy and certain crimes under Oregon law (ORS §163.345) when there is less than three years’ age difference between the parties.

B. SEXUAL ASSAULT

Sexual assault is defined in this policy as non-consensual sexual contact or non-consensual sexual intercourse.

Sexual contact is any intentional touching of another person in a sexual manner, however light or momentary. Sexual contact includes, but is not limited to:

- Touching, with any part of one’s body or an object, in a sexual context or manner, another person’s chest or breast, buttock, groin, mouth or genitals
- Physically causing another person to touch, with any part of their body or an object, themselves or another on the chest or breast, buttocks, groin, mouth, or genitals.

Sexual intercourse is penetration or attempted penetration of the vagina or anus or being made to penetrate another’s vagina or anus by a penis, object, tongue or finger, or oral copulation (contact between a mouth and the genital area), no matter how slight or momentary the penetration or contact.

Sexual assault (i.e., non-consensual sexual contact or intercourse) is prohibited by this policy.

For more information about the pertinent Oregon statutes on sex offenses, see ORS §163.305-479.
C. SEXUAL EXPLOITATION

Sexual exploitation occurs when a person takes non-consensual or abusive sexual advantage of another person for their own advantage or benefit, or for the benefit or advantage of anyone else. Sexual exploitation includes but is not limited to:

- Non-consensual video or audio-recording of sexual activity, or allowing a third party to observe consensual sex without all parties’ knowledge of and consent to that observation;
- Sharing, without consent, sexually explicit images of another person (including sharing images obtained consensually but shared without consent of the person(s) in the image);
- Obtaining, owning, or sharing sexually explicit images of a person under the age of 18;
- Engaging in watching or otherwise recording a person in the state of nudity without their consent when that person is in a place where they would have a reasonable expectation of privacy;
- Non-consensual exposure of one’s genitals to a person or inducing another to engage in such exposure, or other acts of nudity, when these acts interfere with or limit the viewer’s ability to participate in or benefit from the College’s programs and activities.

Sexual exploitation is prohibited by this policy.

D. SEXUAL HARASSMENT AND GENDER-BASED HARASSMENT

Sexual harassment is any unwelcome conduct of a sexual nature. It can take many forms, and includes unwelcome sexual advances, requests for sexual favors, and other verbal, nonverbal, or physical conduct of a sexual nature. Conduct of a sexual nature – including any sexual advance – is unwelcome if the recipient did not request or invite it and if a reasonable person would regard the conduct as inappropriate or offensive. (Although sexual assault and sexual exploitation have been addressed specifically, acts in those categories can also be unwelcome conduct of a sexual nature and therefore may constitute sexual harassment.) All instances of sexual harassment are detrimental to our community and may be violations of the Honor Principle.

Under principles of academic freedom, faculty members can use a wide variety of teaching techniques, and faculty and students can engage in the free and open exchange of ideas. The educational context – which need not be limited to the classroom or other formal academic or educational settings – is distinct from the context of the workplace in that wide latitude is required to determine the appropriate content and presentation of academic material. Academic discourse regarding acts or speech of a sexual nature does not, in and of itself, constitute sexual harassment. Legitimate and recognized forms of artistic expression are similarly protected. Members of the community are encouraged to conduct themselves honorably when engaging with these serious issues.

Gender-based harassment may include acts of verbal, nonverbal, or physical aggression, intimidation, or hostility based on sex or sex stereotyping, but not involving conduct of a sexual nature.

Sexual harassment is both unlawful and violates this policy if it creates a hostile environment. Harassment creates a hostile environment if it is sufficiently severe, persistent or pervasive that it either (1) denies, interferes with, or limits a person’s ability to participate in or benefit from the College’s programs or activities; or (2) creates a learning, working, or living environment that a reasonable person would consider intimidating, hostile, or offensive.

A single severe incident of sexual harassment may create a hostile environment.
Harassment in which submission to conduct of a sexual nature is made either explicitly or implicitly a term or condition of an individual’s education, employment, or participation in any program (quid pro quo harassment) is unlawful and is a violation of this policy.

Not only does Reed prohibit sexual and gender-based harassment that creates a hostile working environment, but the college also seeks to maintain a supportive living, learning, and working environment for all community members. Reed encourages community members to report any behavior that causes discomfort on the basis of verbal, nonverbal, or physical aggression, intimidation, or hostility based on sex or sex stereotyping whether or not they are certain that the behavior in question rises to the level of sexual or gender-based harassment, or a hostile environment as defined above.
Refer to Section XI of this policy for additional information about reporting.

E. PROHIBITED AND INAPPROPRIATE CONSENSUAL RELATIONSHIPS

Romantic or sexual relationships that might be appropriate in other contexts may be inappropriate within the College community.

Relationships between students and faculty or staff: Because those who teach are entrusted with guiding students, judging their work, giving grades for courses and papers, and recommending students, instructors are in a particularly delicate relationship of trust and power. This relationship must not be jeopardized by possible doubt of intent, fairness of professional judgment, or the appearance to other students of favoritism. Students must be free from the kind of influence that can interfere with education and development. Similarly, staff members are in a position to influence or affect students’ educational experiences and are charged with the responsibility of assisting or protecting students. It is therefore a violation of this policy for faculty and staff to have romantic or sexual relationships with students.

There are limited circumstances under which it is appropriate for the College to grant exceptions to this prohibition; for example, when the spouse or established partner of a faculty or staff member enrolls as a student. The parties must disclose the relationship to the Title IX Coordinator (or designee thereof) to seek such an exception.

Other relationships: Sensitivity to possible conflicts of interest, or to misuse of power, is necessary in cases of other romantic or sexual relationships in which one partner is in a position of power or authority over another. Such relationships are strongly discouraged. Individuals in such relationships must consult with an appropriate office (Human Resources for faculty and staff; the Dean of Students for students) in order to identify and minimize potential conflicts. Power imbalance can occur in romantic or sexual relationships between faculty and staff, or within the faculty, staff, or student body.

Consideration of Prior Consensual Relationship in Complaint Procedures: Members of the community are reminded that the existence of a prior consensual relationship is not, in and of itself, a defense to a complaint of inappropriate conduct or violations of Reed policy. Romantic or sexual relationships may be consensual at the outset, but consent may be withdrawn at any time. Any complaint will be evaluated based on its entire context including the nature of the relationship at the time of the conduct in question.
VII. Relationship Abuse

A. RELATIONSHIP ABUSE

Relationship abuse is defined as coercive, manipulative, abusive, and/or violent behavior on the part of the abusive partner in a personal, intimate relationship. Relationship abuse includes behaviors that are defined as dating and domestic violence for purposes of Clery Act reporting.

Relationship abuse may include behavior prohibited by other sections of the DHSM, and all instances of relationship abuse may be violations of the Honor Principle. Abusive behavior directed toward persons not in an intimate relationship is not defined as relationship abuse, but may be prohibited by other sections of the DHSM and/or may be a violation of the Honor Principle.

Relationship abuse is directed primarily against a person who is or has been involved in a sexual, dating, domestic or other emotionally, romantically, and/or physically intimate relationship with the respondent, although the abuse may be directed toward the family members, friends, pets, or property of the targeted partner. Relationship abuse can encompass a broad range of behavior including, but not limited to, coercive, abusive, or violent behaviors that are physical, sexual, psychological, verbal, economic, and/or emotional in nature. The behaviors generally form an ongoing pattern of behavior, although one severe instance of physical or sexual abuse may be sufficient to establish relationship abuse.

Examples of relationship abuse may include:

- Emotional or verbal abuse: words and/or actions used to manipulate or denigrate the targeted partner(s);
- Threats and intimidation: coercion and manipulation, including threats of self-harm, used to compel the target to behave as directed; exhibiting extreme possessiveness or jealousy to control or compel the targeted partner(s) behavior; threatening to share information which could damage the target’s reputation or relationships with others; threatening to harm the target’s family, friends, pets, or property; threatening the target with physical or sexual harm;
- Isolation and restriction of freedom: isolating or confining the target for a substantial period of time; repeatedly depriving the target of personal freedom of movement or access to friends, family, or support systems;
- Resource abuse: forcible or coercive denial of use or access to owned or shared assets, or limiting or controlling access to education or work; words and/or actions aimed at manipulating the financial or legal situation of the target;
- Harm to property or pets: attempting to cause or causing damage or injury to property owned or controlled by the target, or the target’s pets; interfering with the target’s access to property they own or control, or their pets;
- Physical abuse: attempting to cause or causing the target bodily injury or offensive physical contact;
- Sexual assault, sexual exploitation, and sexual harassment as defined in Section IV. Consent and Sexual Misconduct of this policy; and
- Stalking as defined in VIII. Other Prohibited Conduct of this policy

B. DATING VIOLENCE
Dating violence is violence committed by a person who is or has been in a social relationship of a romantic or intimate nature with the target. It includes, but is not limited to, sexual or physical abuse or the threat of such abuse. Dating violence does not include acts covered under the definition of domestic violence. The existence of a qualifying relationship shall be determined based on the reporting party’s statement and with consideration of the length of the relationship, the type of relationship, and the frequency of interaction between the persons involved in the relationship.

C. DOMESTIC VIOLENCE

Domestic Violence is a felony or misdemeanor crime of violence committed by a current or former spouse or intimate partner of the target, or by a person who is cohabitating with or has cohabitated with the target as a spouse or intimate partner; or by a person with whom the target shares a child in common; or a family or household member as defined by ORS §135.230.

Dating violence and domestic violence are prohibited by this policy.

VIII. Stalking

Stalking is engaging in two or more acts targeting a specific person that would cause a reasonable person to feel apprehension for the target’s safety or the safety of others or cause a reasonable person to suffer substantial emotional distress. Those acts may include, but are not limited to, acts in which the stalker directly, indirectly, or through third parties, by any action, method, device, or means follows, monitors, observes, surveils, threatens, or communicates to or about a person or interferes with a person’s property or pets.

For purposes of this definition, substantial emotional distress means significant mental suffering or anguish that may, but does not necessarily, require medical or other professional treatment or counseling.

Stalking is prohibited by this policy.

IX. Other Prohibited Conduct

Other harassing conduct violates this policy if it is sufficiently severe, pervasive, or persistent that it either (1) denies, interferes with, or limits a person’s ability to participate in or benefit from the College’s programs or activities; or (2) creates a learning, working, or living environment that a reasonable person would consider intimidating, hostile, or offensive, and lacking a reasonable academic, educational or artistic justification. Such harassment may include:

- Violence or threat of violence, extreme verbal abuse, or other conduct which threatens or endangers the health or safety of a member of the Reed community, regardless of the relationship status of the parties;
- Bullying, defined as repeated or aggressive behavior likely to intimidate, discomfort, or hurt another member of the Reed community, physically or mentally.

Furthermore, the use of Reed College facilities, resources, and/or technology to engage in any behavior that violates this policy is prohibited.

Under principles of academic freedom, faculty members can use a wide variety of teaching techniques, and faculty and students can engage in the free and open exchange of ideas. The educational context is distinct from the context of the workplace in that wide latitude is required to determine the appropriate content and presentation of academic material. Academic discourse – which may include discourse that occurs in formal academic or educational settings as well as discourse that occurs outside of the classroom – regarding acts or speech of a sexual or potentially discriminatory nature does not, in and of itself, constitute prohibited conduct. Legitimate and recognized forms of artistic expression are similarly protected. Members of the community are encouraged to conduct themselves honorably when engaging with these serious issues.

In addition to the explicit prohibitions in this policy, any attempts to commit an explicitly prohibited act that take a substantial step towards the commission of the act, in themselves constitute misconduct in violation of this policy.

X. Retaliation

Retaliation is prohibited by federal and state law and by this policy. No one at the College may reprimand, retaliate, take any adverse action, or discriminate against an individual for having opposed unlawful conduct, initiated a report or complaint, provided information as a witness, or participated in the resolution of a report or complaint regarding potential violations of this policy.

Acts may be retaliatory if they reasonably act as, or could act as, a deterrent to further protected activity, for example, by

- Disadvantaging or restricting a person in that person’s status as a student, employee, or visitor or in the ability to gain benefits or opportunities available at the College;
- Precluding a person from pursuing discrimination claims;
- ostracizing a person who has complained or participated as a witness or otherwise;
- Pressuring someone to drop or not support a complaint or to provide false or misleading information; or
- Adversely altering the educational or work environment of someone who has complained or participated in the complaint process.

XI. Reporting

We strongly encourage all community members to report experienced, observed, suspected, or disclosed harassment, and apparent violations of this policy. Reports regarding discriminatory harassment may be made to the Dean for Institutional Diversity (or designee thereof) or to Community Safety. Reports regarding sexual misconduct, relationship abuse, stalking, and other harassing conduct may be made to the Title IX Coordinator (or designee thereof) or to Community Safety. Reporting is not the same as filing a formal complaint (though, for some purposes, a formal complaint may function both as a report and a formal complaint). Reporting to the college does not constitute a report to law enforcement, although the college will assist the complainant in reporting to law enforcement if requested, and at times may contact law enforcement without the consent of the complainant if it is necessary to protect the safety of the community. Anonymous reports may be made in writing, telephonically, or electronically via a reporting form on the Reed website. This and the following three sections give additional information on reporting an incident, how to proceed with informal or formal complaints, and considerations of amnesty and confidentiality.
All internal reports will receive prompt attention. In response to the nature of the report, the Title IX Coordinator (or designee thereof) or Dean for Institutional Diversity (or designee thereof) will determine the type of investigation to follow. Investigations will not in themselves result in disciplinary action; disciplinary action may arise only through the resolution of formal complaints. Investigations may yield the initiation of a formal complaint by the Title IX Coordinator (or designee thereof). During the investigation of a report, non-disciplinary steps may be taken to protect individuals from harassment, such as separating the alleged harasser from the person who experienced the alleged harassment. Investigations of reports may yield a response by the College that is non-disciplinary in nature, but designed to remedy or to prevent prohibited harassment.

In addition to assessing individual reports, the Title IX Coordinator (or designee thereof) and the Dean for Institutional Diversity (or designee thereof) will review reports in the aggregate in order to discover and address patterns of behavior that create or threaten to create a hostile environment.

A. Internal reporting

All Reed community members (staff, faculty, and students) should help ensure that violations of this policy are promptly reported. Normally, this means reporting any witnessed violations, or violations learned about through the disclosures of others. The Title IX Coordinator designates certain employees of the college as obligatory reporters (“responsible employees”). These obligated reporters include all members of the faculty, the President and Vice Presidents, supervisors of Reed Staff, employees of Student Services (including Housing Advisors), and members of the Judicial and Sexual Misconduct Boards (unless otherwise exempted). Obligated reporters must report observed or disclosed incidents of behaviors described as prohibited in Section V. Discriminatory Harassment, Section VI. Consent and Sexual Misconduct, Section VII. Relationship Abuse, and Section VIII. Stalking. Obligated reports must be made to the Title IX Coordinator or their designee within 24 hours of the observation or disclosure. Reporters are not expected to request information beyond what is observed or disclosed, but reports must include all relevant information known to the reporter. Obligated reporters are not required to report incidents of sexual misconduct, relationship abuse, or stalking which they have personally experienced.

When a person initiates a disclosure, an obligated reporter should inform the person of their obligated reporter status, and inform them that they may instead choose to speak with a confidential resource such as a counselor or advocate. The obligated reporter should explain that all information disclosed to them, including the names of all parties involved, the type of incident, and the date, time, and location of the incident must be reported to the Title IX Coordinator or their designee. The reporter should also explain that the college will consider a request by the discloser that their identity be kept confidential during investigation.

See the Title IX Coordinator Resource Page and the Discriminatory Harassment Resource Page for more information on reporting. The staff of the Health and Counseling Center, when they are providing medical or mental health care, are normally exempt from reporting obligations; see section XI.B.

B. Mandatory external reporting of certain forms of abuse

Any employee of Reed College, regardless of position or classification, who has reasonable cause to believe that any child (according to Oregon law, a person under the age of 18) with whom the employee has come in contact has suffered physical or sexual abuse, or that any person with whom the employee has come in contact has abused a child, is required by law to report to the Department of Human Services or law enforcement, unless otherwise exempt under state law (ORS 419B.010). Additionally, Oregon state law considers persons under the age of 18 to be “incapable of consenting to a sexual act” (ORS §163.315) and states that all such behavior must be reported to the Oregon Department of Human Services or law enforcement (ORS 419B.010).
This duty to report is separate and distinct from any procedures that Reed may have for reporting this information internally; an employee does not satisfy the employee’s legal obligations by making only an internal report.

Certain medical and mental health professionals are required by law to report allegations of the abuse of an elderly person to the Oregon Department of Human Services or law enforcement (ORS § 124.060).

XII. Amnesty

Amnesty is intended to support the practice of students, staff, and faculty reporting incidents of prohibited discriminatory harassment, sexual misconduct, and other violations of this policy, and to protect student safety. Individuals experiencing or witnessing violations of this policy while themselves violating another College policy (for example, policy concerning alcohol and other drug use) are encouraged to report the violations of this policy that they experienced or witnessed. Normally, the College will not impose disciplinary sanctions for the other policy violation(s), provided those violations did not put the health and safety of any other person at risk. (In appropriate circumstances, the College may even grant amnesty for other violations that did put the health and safety of another person at risk.) The Title IX Coordinator (or designee) is responsible for determining whether amnesty applies in any given circumstance.

XIII. Confidentiality

Reed College recognizes its obligations to adopt, implement and enforce policies and protocols to address discrimination, sexual misconduct and discriminatory harassment, but also understands that its responsibilities are at times inconsistent with the desires of complainants, witnesses, or others to maintain confidentiality and individual privacy.
Anonymous reports are accepted.

Members of the community should understand that there can be circumstances in which acts that constitute policy violations are handled externally (in addition to or separate from internal handling) and, as a result, the College may not always have control over confidentiality. For example, acts that constitute policy violations may also lead to criminal proceedings or civil lawsuits, in which affected or knowledgeable individuals may be required to provide information or testimony.

The following are guidelines that summarize how confidentiality will be addressed. In all cases Reed College will comply with applicable law if that law imposes obligations that are different from this policy.

A. General inquiries

Any individual may make a confidential, non-specific inquiry about policies or procedures to a College official. Inquiries about the application of Title IX may be referred to the Title IX Coordinator or designee thereof. Inquiries about the application of Title VI may be referred to the Dean for Institutional Diversity or designee thereof.
B. Medical or mental health professionals

Under most circumstances, communications between a person seeking care and a medical or mental health professional are confidential. The medical and mental health licensed professionals at Reed College respect and protect confidential communications from students, faculty, and staff to the extent they are legally able to do so. There may be some situations, however, when these professionals are not permitted to hold information in confidence; for example, the professional may not be permitted to keep confidential information about an immediate and serious threat to any person or property. In addition, if information is provided to a licensed professional outside of the professional relationship, that professional may not be permitted to keep it confidential.

C. Confidentiality and Complainants of policy violations

The College is sensitive to the interests of complainants who do not wish their names or other identifiable information to be disclosed to anyone else. In such circumstances, the College will attempt to respect these wishes, but may be limited in its ability to respond to a report or complaint while doing so. Further, Reed must consider its responsibility to provide a safe and non-discriminatory environment for all students, faculty, staff and visitors, attending to such factors as the seriousness of the alleged conduct, whether there have been other complaints against the same individual, and the extent of any threat to the College community; because of these considerations, it may not always be able to respect the wish for complete confidentiality.

D. Confidentiality and reporters and witnesses

Reed College will endeavor to protect the confidentiality of individuals who provide information about policy violations but must also comply with its obligations and responsibilities under this policy and applicable law. Members of the community should understand that the College has obligations to investigate reports of policy violations and to take reasonable steps to prevent prohibited discrimination, discriminatory harassment, sexual misconduct, or retaliation, and that the desire for confidentiality can conflict with these obligations.

E. Confidentiality and respondents

Reed College will similarly attempt to protect the confidentiality of respondents, again to the extent that it can while complying with its obligations, during and after investigation and formal complaint resolution. Applicable law can limit the protection of the confidentiality of respondents in particular.

XIV. Procedures for the Resolution of Complaints

A. Informal resolution

There may be times when informal resolution, either through direct discussion, formal mediation, or with advice obtained from a designated officer of the College may be the appropriate response to a violation of this policy. See the Title IX Coordinator Resource Page and Discriminatory Harassment Resource Page for a list of such officers. Students may consider consulting the student Honor Council (hc-students@lists.reed.edu) for advice on how to proceed with informal resolution or with a formal complaint; general inquiries about these processes are confidential. The Honor Council can also assist with informal resolution. When Honor Council members are acting or approached in their representative capacity, they may have special reporting obligations, and so confidentiality may be limited.
No one is required, however, to participate in mediation or to directly confront those they believe have violated this policy. Individuals may choose to end the informal resolution process at any time and begin the formal complaint process.

In cases of sexual assault, relationship abuse, and stalking, mediation is not an appropriate tool and will not be used by the College to resolve complaints.

Students who are unsure whether they want to make a formal complaint may undertake confidential preliminary discussions of possible violations with a counselor in the Health & Counseling Center. Faculty and staff may similarly undertake confidential discussions with a counselor through the Employee Assistance Program.

B. Formal complaints

Formal complaints may be made to the appropriate body for resolving the complaint, or to the Title IX Coordinator, who will forward the complaint as necessary. The resolution procedure used is based on the status of the respondent:

- Regarding members of the faculty: complaints are received by the Dean of Faculty and handled according to sections F, G, and H of the Rules of Procedure of the Faculty (n.b. Effective February 2016, sections J, K, L pertain, replacing F, G, and H);
- Regarding staff employees: complaints are received by the Director of Human Resources and handled according to the Human Resources Formal Complaint Procedures for Staff;
- Regarding students: complaints are received by the Student Judicial Board or by the Sexual Misconduct Board and are handled according to the Judicial Board Code.

C. External remedies

The above procedures supplement, and do not replace, other remedies for acts which constitute violations of this policy. Students and employees have the option at all times to file a criminal complaint with law enforcement or to seek a civil remedy, in addition to or in place of using College's procedures.

Individuals also always have the right to file a formal complaint with the United States Department of Education (for violations of Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, and Title II of the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990, and the Age Discrimination Act of 1975):

VII. A.1 Discriminatory Harassment and Sexual Misconduct Policy

(Source: Approved by the Student Senate September 6, 2013; Approved by the Faculty September 9, 2013; Effective September 20, 2013

I. Introduction

Reed College is committed to maintaining environments that enable a free and diverse community in which students, faculty, and staff can live, learn, work and express themselves. Membership in the Reed community, as governed by the Honor Principle, imposes obligations on students, faculty, and staff to respect the dignity and autonomy of others and to treat one another civilly and without regard to factors irrelevant to participation in the life of the College.

This policy details and explicitly prohibits specific forms of harassment and encourages the reporting of these prohibited behaviors. Reed College will work to prevent them and their recurrence, and to correct any discriminatory effects on a complainant or others.

The prohibitions within this policy may appear to place a kind of restriction on academic freedom and individual freedom of expression. Those forms of freedom are central to the College’s values, and occasionally, certain limited forms of discomfort may be inevitable results of the exercise of those freedoms and the pursuit of the mission of the College. The Reed College Mission Statement and the Constitution and Bylaws of the Faculty express the College’s deep commitment to academic freedom and to the free exchange of ideas. The preamble to the Community Constitution (as of September 2013) emphasizes the interrelationship between freedom and honorable conduct:

We declare our commitment to responsible and honorable conduct in academic and community affairs, and we reaffirm one another’s rights to freedom of inquiry and expression in coursework, scholarship, and the day to day life of the Reed Community.
Since such freedom requires an atmosphere of trust and mutual confidence, we further declare that dishonesty, intimidation, harassment, exploitation, and the use or threat of force are incompatible with the preservation of this freedom.

Except as otherwise specified herein, this policy applies to faculty, staff, students, and agents of the College while in their representative role. It also applies to visitors, contractors and subcontractors, as well as to any other person who participates in or benefits from Reed College programs and activities, whether on or off campus, including academic, educational, extra-curricular, athletic, residential, and workplace programs and activities, and to any person using Reed premises. This policy covers behavior that occurs outside of Reed-sanctioned events or Reed properties when it impacts an individual’s ability to access or benefit from Reed College programs and activities.

Reed College acknowledges and intends to comply with its legal responsibilities in all its programs and activities. This policy is required by, and is as a whole intended to be consistent with, Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, 34 CFR Part 106, and any other applicable law or regulation that prohibits discrimination on the basis of any legally protected category in the educational programs or activities of colleges and universities, in employment, or in any other relationship which is governed by law. Reed College also acknowledges and intends to comply with its legal responsibilities under federal or Oregon law, including the reporting responsibilities of the Clery Act, 34 CFR 668.46. If any provisions of this policy are contrary to or interfere with any applicable law, that law will supersede the inconsistent policy provisions. Behavior violating this policy may also separately violate federal, state, or other law; it may also violate other policies of the College.

Because of the close connection between this policy and Title IX, significant parts of the policy’s enforcement are overseen by Reed’s Title IX Coordinator. Contact information may easily be found from the Title IX Coordinator Resource Page and other places on the College’s website. See the Title IX Coordinator Resource Page for sources of help with questions about this policy and related policies and procedures.

II. Notice of Non-discrimination

Reed College does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, national origin, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, age, marital status, military status, veteran status, genetic information, physical or mental disability, pregnancy, status as a parent, family relationship, or on the basis of any other category protected by law. Reed does not consider any of the above attributes in administration of its employment policies, educational policies, admissions policies, scholarship and loan program, housing policies, and athletic and other school-administered programs. In its policies and actions, Reed will comply with its obligations under state and federal law including Title VI and Title VII of the 1964 Civil Rights Act, Title IX of the 1972 Education Amendments Act, Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 (ADA), the Uniformed Services Employment and Reemployment Rights Act (USERRA), Oregon Revised Statutes, and any other applicable law.
III. Use of a Reasonable Person Standard

The College will use a “reasonable person” standard when applying the definitions herein and in investigating reports and complaints of violations of this policy, both in determining facts and in assessing culpability.

A “reasonable person” is a hypothetical person who is level-headed and rational, aware of community norms, and not under the influence of a judgment-impairing substance.

This standard can be used in different ways throughout the investigation and adjudicative process. For example, since the standard is referred to in the definition of prohibited discriminatory harassment, parties investigating a report or formal complaint of discriminatory harassment will use the reasonable person standard by assessing the situation from the perspective of a reasonable person as defined above to decide if the behavior constitutes a violation of this policy. As another example, parties may use the reasonable person standard when assessing whether a reasonable person in the same context as the respondent would believe that they had consent in that context.

IV. General Definitions Used in This Policy

For purposes of this policy, certain terms are defined in a specific way. The following definitions apply where the defined terms are used in this policy, regardless of whether the terms have a different meaning in other contexts.

Agents of the College: Individuals serving as official representatives for the College in any unpaid or paid capacity.

Complainant: An individual who makes a report or a formal complaint regarding violation(s) of College policy.

Faculty: A member of the teaching or research staff who holds academic rank, including those on visiting appointments and those on sabbatical or leave. It also includes visiting scholars and emeriti faculty who are teaching or who have an office on campus. “Academic rank” means the rank of Instructor, Assistant Professor, Associate Professor, or Professor.

Respondent: An individual alleged to have violated College policy, who has been named as such in a report or a formal complaint.

Staff: Individuals employed by Reed College who are not members of the faculty. Bargaining unit staff are held to College policies unless their collective bargaining agreement differs from College policy.

Student: An individual who is currently enrolled, registered, on leave, or has made arrangements with the Business Office to pay tuition and fees.

V. Discriminatory Harassment

Discriminatory harassment is unwelcome verbal, written, visual, or physical conduct based on or motivated by an individual’s or group’s actual or perceived affiliation with a protected class or category. See section II of this policy for a list of protected classes or categories.

Discriminatory harassment violates this policy if it is sufficiently severe, pervasive, or persistent that it either (1) denies, interferes with, or limits a person’s ability to participate in or benefit from the College’s programs or activities; or (2) creates a learning, working, or living environment that a reasonable person would consider intimidating, hostile, or offensive. Whether conduct constitutes prohibited discriminatory harassment depends upon the context of the conduct, and is a matter that is to be evaluated from the perspective of a reasonable person. The present section includes coverage of discriminatory harassment that is based on sexual orientation, sex category, or gender identity or expression, whether or not the harassing behavior is itself sexual in nature. Section VI addresses, in detail, discriminatory harassment that is sexual in nature.

Discriminatory harassment can be carried out by various means, from the use of offensive or intimidating references to a protected class (such as with slurs, epithets, or asserting offensive stereotypes) to outright threats, and by way of various mechanisms or media, whether verbal, non-verbal, written, visual, electronic or other.

VI. Consent and Sexual Misconduct

Three categories of sexual misconduct are addressed below: sexual assault, sexual exploitation, and sexual harassment. This section begins with a discussion of the crucial concept of consent, and ends with a discussion of relationships among faculty, staff, and students.

A. CONSENT

Consent is defined here as conscious, relevantly informed, and fully voluntary agreement to, or permission for, an act. The following points should be emphasized:

- To consent is to actively agree to, or actively give permission for, something. Though this may require explicit verbal discussion, especially in unfamiliar situations, consent can be communicated nonverbally, especially in the space of mutual recognition created by a stable, ongoing relationship. To consent is not to be in a passive state.
- Silence or inaction do not, in and of themselves, communicate consent. The absence of an explicit denial of consent does not constitute consent.
- Consent to one form of sexual activity does not by itself constitute consent to any further sexual activity.
- A person’s consent to an ongoing activity can be removed by that person at any time.
- Previous or ongoing sexual relationships or encounters do not in themselves constitute consent to any current sexual acts.
- Consent cannot be forced or coerced; agreement or permission due to threat, implied threat, or intimidation does not constitute consent.
- A person who is incapacitated – whose judgment is seriously impaired by alcohol, other drugs, or other factors, such as lack of sleep – cannot give consent.
- Oregon state law considers persons under the age of 18 to be “incapable of consenting to a sexual act” (ORS §163.315.) and states that if lack of consent is solely a result of the age of the victim, it is a defense to certain crimes that the actor was less than three years older than the victim at the time of the alleged offense (ORS § 163.345).

B. SEXUAL ASSAULT

Sexual assault is defined in this policy as non-consensual sexual contact or non-consensual sexual intercourse.
Sexual contact is any intentional touching of another person in a sexual manner, however light or momentary, whether that touching is direct or indirect. Sexual contact includes, but is not limited to:

- touching, in a sexual context or manner, another person’s breast, buttock, groin, or genitals;
- touching, in a sexual context or manner, another person using one’s own breast, buttock, groin, or genitals;
- physically causing another person to touch themselves or another with or on the breasts, buttocks, groin or genitals; or
- any intentional bodily contact made in a sexual manner, even though not involving contact with, of, or by the breasts, buttocks, groin, genitals, mouth or other orifice.

Sexual intercourse is vaginal or anal penetration by a penis, object, tongue or finger, and oral copulation (mouth to genital contact or genital to mouth contact), no matter how slight or momentary the penetration.

Sexual assault (i.e., non-consensual sexual contact or intercourse) is prohibited by this policy.

Hence, those engaging in sexual activity must ensure that the consent of anyone else involved in that activity is present. Again, see section A, above, for a discussion of consent.

For more information about the pertinent Oregon statutes on sex offenses, see ORS §163.305-479.

C. SEXUAL EXPLOITATION

Sexual exploitation occurs when a person takes non-consensual or abusive sexual advantage of another person for their own advantage or benefit, or for the benefit or advantage of anyone else. Sexual exploitation includes but is not limited to:

- Non-consensual video or audio-recording of sexual activity, or allowing a third party to observe consensual sex without all parties’ knowledge of and consent to that observation;
- Prostituting another member of the College community;
- Sharing, without consent, sexually explicit images of another member of the College community (including sharing images obtained consensually but shared without consent of the person(s) in the image);
- Obtaining, owning, or sharing sexually explicit images of a minor;
- Engaging in watching or otherwise recording a person for one’s own sexual gratification when that person is in a place where they would have a reasonable expectation of privacy;
- Knowingly endangering the health of another person by exposing them to a sexually transmitted infection (STI) or HIV/AIDS without notifying that person in advance;
- Non-consensual exposure of one’s genitals or inducing another to engage in such exposure, or other acts of nudity, when these acts interfere with or limit a person’s ability to participate in or benefit from the College’s programs and activities.

Sexual exploitation is prohibited by this policy.

D. SEXUAL HARASSMENT
Sexual harassment is any unwelcome conduct of a sexual nature. It can take many forms, and includes unwelcome sexual advances, requests for sexual favors, and other verbal, nonverbal, or physical conduct of a sexual nature. (Although sexual assault and sexual exploitation have been addressed specifically, acts in those categories can also be unwelcome conduct of a sexual nature and therefore may constitute sexual harassment and discriminatory harassment.)

Sexual harassment is unlawful and violates this policy if it is sufficiently severe, pervasive, or persistent that it either (1) denies, interferes with, or limits a person’s ability to participate in or benefit from the College’s programs or activities; or (2) creates a learning, working, or living environment that a reasonable person would consider intimidating, hostile, or offensive. Harassment in which submission to conduct of a sexual nature is made either explicitly or implicitly a term or condition of an individual’s education, employment or participation in any program (quid pro quo harassment) is unlawful and is a violation of this policy. A single incident of any form of harassment or other misconduct may create a hostile environment.

E. PROHIBITED AND INAPPROPRIATE CONSENSUAL RELATIONSHIPS

Romantic or sexual relationships that might be appropriate in other contexts may be inappropriate within the College community.

Relationships between students and faculty or staff: Because those who teach are entrusted with guiding students, judging their work, giving grades for courses and papers, and recommending students, instructors are in a particularly delicate relationship of trust and power. This relationship must not be jeopardized by possible doubt of intent, fairness of professional judgment, or the appearance to other students of favoritism. Students must be free from the kind of influence that can interfere with education and development. Similarly, staff members are in a position to influence or affect students’ educational experiences and are charged with the responsibility of assisting or protecting students. It is therefore a violation of this policy for faculty and staff to have romantic or sexual relationships with students.

There are limited circumstances under which it is appropriate for the College to grant exceptions to this prohibition; for example, when the spouse or established partner of a faculty or staff member enrolls as a student. The parties must disclose the relationship to the Title IX Coordinator (or designee thereof) to seek such an exception.

Other relationships: Sensitivity to possible conflicts of interest, or to misuse of power, is necessary in cases of other romantic or sexual relationships in which one partner is in a position of power or authority over another. Such relationships are strongly discouraged. Individuals in such relationships should consult with an appropriate office (Human Resources for faculty and staff; the Dean of Students for students) in order to identify and minimize potential conflicts. Power imbalance can occur in romantic or sexual relationships between faculty and staff, or within the faculty, staff, or student body.

Consideration of Prior Consensual Relationship in Complaint Procedures: Members of the community are reminded that the existence of a prior consensual relationship is not, in and of itself, a defense to a complaint of inappropriate conduct or violations of Reed policy. Romantic or sexual relationships may be consensual at the outset, but consent may be withdrawn at any time. Any complaint will be evaluated based on its entire context including the nature of the relationship at the time of the conduct in question.
VII. Other Prohibited Conduct

Other harassing conduct violates this policy if it is sufficiently severe, pervasive, or persistent that it either (1) denies, interferes with, or limits a person’s ability to participate in or benefit from the College’s programs or activities; or (2) creates a learning, working, or living environment that a reasonable person would consider intimidating, hostile, or offensive. Such harassment may include:

- violence or threat of violence, extreme verbal abuse, or other conduct which threatens or endangers the health or safety of a member of the Reed community, regardless of the relationship status of the parties;
- bullying, defined as repeated or aggressive behavior likely to intimidate, discomfort, or hurt another member of the Reed community, physically or mentally;
- stalking, defined as repetitive, alarming, or menacing pursuit, harassment, or interference with the peace of mind or perceived safety of members of the community, or the perceived safety of their immediate family members or pets.

In addition to the explicit prohibitions in this policy, attempts to commit an explicitly prohibited act that take a substantial step towards the commission of the act, in themselves constitute misconduct in violation of this policy.

VIII. Retaliation

Retaliation is prohibited by federal and state law and by this policy. No one at the College may reprimand, retaliate, take any adverse action, or discriminate against an individual for having opposed unlawful conduct, initiated a report or complaint, provided information as a witness, or participated in the resolution of a report or complaint regarding potential violations of this policy.

Acts may be retaliatory if they reasonably act as, or could act as, a deterrent to further protected activity, for example, by

- disadvantaging or restricting a person in that person's status as a student, employee, or visitor or in the ability to gain benefits or opportunities available at the College;
- precluding a person from pursuing discrimination claims;
- ostracizing a person who has complained or participated as a witness or otherwise;
- pressuring someone to drop or not support a complaint or to provide false or misleading information; or
- adversely altering the educational or work environment of someone who has complained or participated in the complaint process.

IX. Reporting

Reporting experienced, observed, or disclosed harassment, or apparent violations of this policy, is strongly encouraged. Reports may be made to the Title IX Coordinator (or designee thereof) or to Community Safety. Reporting is not the same as filing a formal complaint (though, for some purposes, a formal complaint may function both as a report and a formal complaint). This and the following three sections give additional information on reporting an incident, how to proceed with informal or formal complaints, and considerations of amnesty and confidentiality.

All internal reports will receive prompt attention. In response to the nature of the report, the Title IX Coordinator (or designee thereof) will determine the type of investigation to follow. Investigations will not in themselves result in disciplinary action; disciplinary action may arise only through the resolution of formal complaints. Investigations may yield the initiation of a formal complaint by the Title IX Coordinator (or designee). During the investigation of a report, non-disciplinary steps may be taken to protect individuals from harassment, such as separating an alleged harasser from someone alleged to have been harassed. Investigations of reports may yield a response by the College that is non-disciplinary in nature, but designed to remedy or to prevent prohibited harassment.

In addition to assessing individual reports, the Title IX Coordinator (or designee) will review reports in the aggregate in order to discover and address patterns of behavior that create or threaten to create a hostile environment.

A. Internal reporting

All Reed community members (staff, faculty, and students) should help ensure that violations of this policy are promptly reported. Normally, this means reporting any witnessed violations, or violations learned about through the disclosures of others. Anonymous reports are accepted. There may be exceptional cases, such as when two close friends are privately discussing whether a violation has occurred, when it is appropriate to agree to a request for confidentiality and at least temporarily withhold a report. Outside this policy, Reed College may choose to designate certain categories of employees as having specific reporting obligations. See the Title IX Coordinator Resource Page for information on such designations. The staff of the Health and Counseling Center, when they are providing medical or mental health care, are normally exempt from reporting obligations; see section XI.B.

B. Mandatory external reporting of certain forms of abuse

Any employee of Reed College, regardless of position, who has reasonable cause to believe that any child (according to Oregon law, a person under the age of 18) with whom the employee has come in contact has suffered abuse, or that any person with whom the employee has come in contact has abused a child, is required by law to report to the Department of Human Services or law enforcement, unless otherwise exempt under state law (ORS 419B.010). This duty to report is separate and distinct from any procedures that Reed may have for reporting this information internally; an employee does not satisfy the employee's legal obligations by making only an internal report.

Certain medical and mental health professionals are required by law to report allegations of the abuse of an elderly person (ORS § 124.060).

X. Amnesty

Amnesty is intended to support the practice of students reporting incidents of prohibited discriminatory harassment, sexual misconduct, and other violations of this policy, and to protect student safety. Individuals experiencing or witnessing violations of this policy while themselves violating another College policy (for example, policy concerning alcohol and other drug use) are encouraged to report the violations of this policy that they experienced or witnessed. Normally, the College will not impose disciplinary sanctions for the other policy violation(s), provided those violations did not put the health and safety of any other person at risk. (In appropriate circumstances, the College may even grant amnesty for other violations that did put the health and safety of another person at risk.) The Title IX Coordinator (or designee) is responsible for determining whether amnesty applies in any given circumstance.

XI. Confidentiality

Reed College recognizes its obligations to adopt, implement and enforce policies and protocols to address discrimination, sexual misconduct and discriminatory harassment, but also understands that its responsibilities are at times inconsistent with the desires of complainants, witnesses, or others to maintain confidentiality and individual privacy. Anonymous reports are accepted.

Members of the community should understand that there can be circumstances in which acts that constitute policy violations are handled externally (in addition to or separate from internal handling) and, as a result, the College may not always have control over confidentiality. For example, acts that constitute policy violations may also lead to criminal proceedings or civil lawsuits, in which affected or knowledgeable individuals may be required to provide information or testimony.

The following are guidelines that summarize how confidentiality will be addressed. In all cases Reed College will comply with applicable law if that law imposes obligations that are different from this policy.

A. General inquiries

Any individual may make a confidential, nonspecific inquiry about policies or procedures to a College official. Inquiries about the application of Title IX may be referred to the Title IX Coordinator or designee thereof.

B. Medical or mental health professionals

Under most circumstances, communications between a person seeking care and a medical or mental health professional are confidential. The medical and mental health licensed professionals at Reed College respect and protect confidential communications from students, faculty, and staff to the extent they are legally able to do so. There may be some situations, however, when these professionals are not permitted to hold information in confidence; for example, the professional may not be permitted to keep confidential information about an immediate and serious threat to any person or property. In addition, if information is provided to a licensed professional outside of the professional relationship, that professional may not be permitted to keep it confidential.

C. Confidentiality and victims of policy violations

The College is sensitive to the interests of alleged victims who do not wish their names or other identifiable information to be disclosed to anyone else. In such circumstances, the College will attempt to respect these wishes, but may be limited in its ability to respond to a report or complaint while doing so. Further, Reed must consider its responsibility to provide a safe and non-discriminatory environment for all students, faculty, staff and visitors, attending to such factors as the seriousness of the alleged conduct, whether there have been other complaints against the same individual, and the extent of any threat to the College community; because of these considerations, it may not always be able to respect the wish for complete confidentiality.

D. Confidentiality and reporters and witnesses

Reed College will endeavor to protect the confidentiality of individuals who provide information about policy violations but must also comply with its obligations and responsibilities under this policy and applicable law. Members of the community should understand that the College has obligations to investigate reports of policy violations and to take reasonable steps to prevent prohibited discrimination, discriminatory harassment, sexual misconduct, or retaliation, and that the desire for confidentiality can conflict with these obligations.

E. Confidentiality and respondents

Reed College will similarly attempt to protect the confidentiality of respondents, again to the extent that it can while complying with its obligations, during and after investigation and formal complaint resolution. Applicable law can limit the protection of the confidentiality of respondents in particular.

XII. Procedures for the Resolution of Complaints

Informal resolution

There may be times when informal resolution, either through direct discussion, formal mediation, or with advice obtained from a designated officer of the College may be the appropriate response to a violation of this policy. See the Title IX Coordinator Resource Page for a list of such officers. Students may consider consulting the student Honor Council (hc-students@lists.reed.edu) for advice on how to proceed with informal resolution or with a formal complaint; general inquiries about these processes are confidential. The Honor Council can also assist with informal resolution. When Honor Council members are acting or approached in their representative capacity, they may have special reporting obligations, and so confidentiality may be limited.

No one is required, however, to participate in mediation or to directly confront those they believe have violated this policy. Individuals may choose to end the informal resolution process at any time and begin the formal complaint process.

In cases of sexual assault, mediation is not an appropriate tool and will not be used by the College to resolve complaints.

Students who are unsure whether they want to make a formal complaint may undertake confidential preliminary discussions of possible violations with a counselor in the Health & Counseling Center. Faculty and staff may similarly undertake confidential discussions with a counselor through the Employee Assistance Program.

Formal complaints

Formal complaints may be made to the appropriate body for resolving the complaint, or to the Title IX Coordinator, who will forward the complaint as necessary. The resolution procedure used is based on the status of the respondent:

- Regarding members of the faculty: complaints are received by the Dean of Faculty and handled according to sections F, G, and H of the Rules of Procedure of the Faculty;
• Regarding staff employees: complaints are received by the Director of Human Resources and handled according to the Human Resources Formal Complaint Procedures for Staff;
• Regarding students: complaints are received by the Student Judicial Board or by the Sexual Misconduct Board and are handled according to the Judicial Board Code.

External remedies
The above procedures supplement, and do not replace, other remedies for acts which constitute violations of this policy. Students and employees have the option at all times to file a criminal complaint with law enforcement or to seek a civil remedy, in addition to or in place of using College’s procedures.

Individuals also always have the right to file a formal complaint with the United States Department of Education (for violations of Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, and Title II of the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990, and the Age Discrimination Act of 1975):

Preamble
Alcohol and other drug (AOD) use is a complex and controversial topic. Many would argue that public policy on AOD use has been counterproductive, discouraging rational analysis of substance use, abuse, and addiction. Whatever the views of its individual members, however, the Reed College Community must respond to empirical and legal realities. The use, sale, or transfer of illicit drugs disturbs and offends many members of the Reed Community. Such actions are not only illegal (and often felonious) in themselves, they can also have consequences that create an atmosphere of fear and distrust at odds with the educational mission of the College. Drug use, especially drug abuse, frequently leads to a deterioration in academic performance, which can compromise the education of others as well as that of the user. The illegal use and the abuse of alcohol can also have deleterious effects upon individuals and the community. Moreover, the College has certain legal obligations to make reasonable efforts to prevent the use (which includes being under the influence) and transfer of illegal drugs and the illegal use or abuse of alcohol on campus or during Reed activities. The College encourages all members of the Reed Community to become familiar with the health and legal aspects of AOD use and to make informed decisions regarding their own behavior. The college emphasizes that all members of the community are responsible for their own actions. Members of the community are expected to comply with this policy and to be aware of the consequences of violations thereof. The Community therefore expects and admonishes individuals to evaluate their own behavior, as well as that of their peers, in order to create and maintain a healthy and safe environment. This AOD Policy (AODP) is intended to define the expectations of the College with respect to alcohol and other drugs, to clarify the consequences of failing to abide by these expectations, and to identify the resources available within the College Community to assist in dealing with AOD related problems.

I. Statement of Policy

A. Reed College believes that it has a serious extralegal responsibility to support the health and safety of the members of this community. Therefore, it has a responsibility to help prevent substance abuse through the provision of appropriate assistance, including educational materials and counseling. When substance abuse occurs, we believe that the most effective response relies on early identification of the problem and the availability of effective, confidential assistance. The Community encourages individuals voluntarily to seek assistance for substance abuse problems. Moreover, the College will respond directly to alcohol or other drug use that results in behavior that is dangerous to the health or safety of the user, other members of the community, or adversely affects the institution as a whole.

B. In keeping with local, state and federal laws, the illegal use, sale, transfer, dispensing, possession and manufacture of illicit drugs, or being under the influence of illegal drugs, or the illegal use, possession, or abusive use of alcohol on the Reed College campus or during official Reed activities is a violation of college policy and is prohibited. In particular,

1. Illegal drugs and drug paraphernalia are not permitted anywhere on the Reed College campus.
2. Reed College will treat beer or wine made for personal consumption like any other alcoholic beverage. Students who make beer or wine for personal consumption anywhere on campus, including in student housing, must comply with all applicable local, state and federal laws.
3. The manufacture of illegal drugs, the growing of marijuana and other illegal psychoactive plants, and the distillation of alcohol are felonies under applicable federal law and are not allowed on College property, except that alcohol may be distilled for academic research purposes under the supervision of a faculty member.
4. It is illegal and a violation of this policy for those under the age of twenty-one ("minors") to possess or consume alcoholic beverages, or for anyone to provide alcoholic beverages to minors.

II. Implementing Procedures

The following procedures have been developed with two goals in mind: 1) to promote increased understanding of the expectations embodied in this policy, and 2) to provide for its principled enforcement.

A. Certain terms used in this policy and the associated guidelines for events with alcohol are defined as follows. “Public” area means any space on the Reed College campus (which as a whole is private property) other than student rooms in residence halls. As used in this policy, “college social event” is defined as any social gathering that 1) requires the reservation of any college property or facilities (including the Student Union, faculty lounges, and public areas in residence halls), or 2) that if otherwise occurring on campus receives publicity (including postings on electronic bulletin boards or mass e-mailings), or 3) that involves the expenditure of college funds. Lectures, discussion groups, and other gatherings associated with normal academic activities are not considered ‘college social events.’ But if alcohol is served at a reception following such lectures and other events, the organizers of the event are responsible for complying with the pertinent provisions of this policy. Alcohol may not be served or consumed at any academic event or in any place where academic activities are occurring. “College funds” is defined as any money (including student body funds and funds generated through student organizations) collected or disbursed by Reed College. “Financial consideration” is defined in accordance with OLCC regulations and includes the use of college funds to purchase alcohol, as well as the purchase of alcohol through membership fees, the collection of donations, the sale of tickets, or direct purchase by persons being served.

B. The College shall distribute to all Community members, at the beginning of each academic year, the federally mandated information concerning federal, state, and local AOD laws, a copy of this policy, and a copy of the Guidelines for Events with Alcohol. These materials shall reference relevant Oregon State laws regarding AOD and the OLCC licensing requirements for events at which alcohol is sold or distributed. and federal penalties and sanctions for illegal possession and trafficking of controlled substances.
C. Reed College believes that students have certain rights to privacy in their residence hall rooms, as are specified in the housing contract. Students should nonetheless be aware that the right to privacy does not imply immunity from provisions of the law or of this policy, especially in the event of any violation coming to the explicit attention of a College official or legal authority.
D. All members of the Reed community and their guests possessing alcoholic beverages must show legal proof of age on request from any member of the College Community.
E. When alcohol is being consumed by, or is in the possession of people on the Reed campus who do not provide proof of legal age, when it is being distributed to those under legal age, or in violation of this policy and the associated guidelines for events with alcohol, or when, regardless of age, a person in possession of alcohol is acting unacceptably as defined by community standards or with hazardous disregard for themselves or those around them, said alcohol is subject to confiscation and is a violation of the policy. Illegal drugs and drug paraphernalia, if discovered or if known to be in the possession of any person on the Reed campus, are always subject to confiscation and are a policy violation.
F. Gatherings in any public facility or public area on campus may not be closed to any College officer or to any staff member charged with determining that the provisions of this policy are being complied with.
G. For all events where alcohol is distributed or reasonably expected to be present, event organizers must follow the Guidelines for Events with Alcohol which outlines provisions to ensure that this policy must be followed. These Guidelines are found in the Campus Events Guidelines. The Guidelines for Events with Alcohol must be approved by both the Senate and the CAC. In the event that the Senate and the CAC cannot agree on a set of guidelines or an alteration to the existing guidelines, the proposed changes shall be procedurally treated as community legislation.

III. Violations of Drug and Alcohol Policy
Alleged student violations of the AOD Policy should be 1) taken to the Honor Council, or 2) to the Student Judicial Board, or 3) to the Dean of Student Services (or designate), the latter particularly when a substance abuse problem may also be present. Actions may include medical leave, AOD assessment, treatment, informal or formal mediation, referral to the Student Judicial Board, referral for prosecution, or other sanctions as outlined in Section VI.
Alleged faculty violations of the AOD Policy should be referred to the Dean of the Faculty.
Alleged staff violations of the AOD Policy should be handled as outlined in the Staff Policies and Procedures Manual.
Adjudicating bodies or offices and Community Safety shall forward summary information regarding the incidence and disposition of alcohol and other drug related problems to the Dean of Student Services, who will compile a biennial summary report.

IV. Treatment of Substance Abuse Problems
A. Individuals with substance abuse problems are encouraged voluntarily to seek assistance and appropriate treatment options. The College provides certain counseling and treatment-related resources as well as referrals to sources of help off campus. The College employs counselors, who are available to talk with any student on a confidential basis and to advise faculty and staff on student-related AOD problems. Students may also seek help through the Office of Student Services, and/or the Health and Counseling Center. Faculty are encouraged to seek advice from the Office of the Dean of the Faculty. Staff are encouraged to talk with their supervisor or with the Director of Human Resources. Confidential counseling is available to Faculty and Staff through the Employee Assistance Program and information about this program is available at the Human Resources Office.

B. The College may provide a medical or rehabilitation leave for an individual requiring in-patient treatment. The medical leave policy for students is described in the Faculty Code, Section III-E. The rehabilitation leave program for faculty is described in the "Drug Use Statement" passed by the faculty at its November 13, 1989, meeting. The voluntary alcohol/substance abuse rehabilitation leave for staff is described in the Staff Policies and Procedures Manual.

C. The College should strive to preserve confidentiality for individuals voluntarily seeking assistance for a substance abuse problem.

D. The College encourages students, faculty, and staff to share concern for and to help those involved in substance abuse. Individuals who know of a substance abuse problem or who are trying to help someone with such a problem may themselves require considerable support. The College will endeavor to provide confidential assistance to such individuals, through the resources described in the first paragraph of this section.

E. Appropriate procedures for dealing with substance abuse problems in the case of faculty members are governed by the Rules of Procedure of the Faculty Constitution (Sections C-14 and F, G, and H), the Faculty Resolution on Drug Use of November 13, 1989, and in the case of staff members by the Staff Policies and Procedures Manual. Appropriate procedures for dealing with substance abuse problems in the case of students are governed by this policy.

V. Behavioral Problems Related to Drugs and Alcohol

A. Although the College hopes that individuals with substance abuse problems will voluntarily seek assistance, there are occasions when AOD use and/or abuse leads to harm or the danger of harm to the abuser or others or to an unacceptable detriment in academic or job-related performance. When suspected possession or use of alcohol or other drugs results in behavioral or performance problems that come to the attention of the College, the response may include an informal inquiry into the possibility of a substance abuse problem. Members of the community should direct suggestions for such an inquiry to the Dean of Student Services, the Dean of the Faculty, or the Director of Human Resources, as appropriate.

B. If it is determined by the informal inquiry that an abuse problem may be present but is being denied by the abuser, sanctions or intervention aimed at addressing the abuse problem may be imposed:

1. for students, by the Dean of Student Services, under procedures described in section VI. below for disciplinary sanctions and in the Faculty Code Chapter III, Section E, 2 for therapeutic interventions.

2. for faculty, by the procedures set forth in the Rules of Procedure of the Faculty Constitution (Sections C-14 and F, G, and H).

3. for staff, the voluntary alcohol/substance abuse rehabilitation leave falls under the same guidelines as the “unpaid medical leave” policy found in the benefits section of the Staff Policies and Procedures Manual.

VI. Response to Violations: Sanctions and Interventions
Violations of the AOD Policy and associated guidelines will normally be handled through the procedures explained below. Moreover, the presence of a substance abuse problem does not prevent disciplinary action for related breaches of the standards of conduct expected of members of the Reed College Community. These various infractions may result in sanctions or interventions including but not limited to warnings, fines, community service, required educational programs, required substance abuse assessment, enrollment in a treatment program, involuntary medical leave of absence, probation, suspension, expulsion, termination of employment, and referral for prosecution.

In all cases, the College will maintain the privacy and confidentiality of student records consistent with the law. That said, some sanctions may require the student to follow aftercare recommendations and to allow the College to monitor aftercare progress via a release of information with the treatment program.

A. Serious and Minor Violations and Uncooperative Behavior – Definition of Terms

For purposes of responding to violations, the following definitions should be used:

Violation: behavior which, according to direct or compelling circumstantial evidence, infringes upon the college’s stated policies and/or relevant legal statutes.

Serious AOD Policy Violations: possession of small quantities and/or use of “hard” drugs, possession of small quantities and/or use of illegal prescription drugs, distribution of alcohol to minors, possession of distribution quantities and/or actual distribution of any illegal drugs. Tampering with smoke detectors in any way represents a real and immediate threat to safety, and will generally be considered a serious violation.

Hard Drugs—include heroin, cocaine, and methamphetamine. These drugs pose health risks to users that are inherently unpredictable and potentially catastrophic. The probability of adverse consequences and the severity of those consequences—addiction, physical and mental illness, death—are unacceptably high. Possession of distribution quantities and/or actual distribution of hard drugs are among the most egregious violations, as these endanger the entire community. The Health and Wellness Plan Relating to Alcohol and Other Drug Use at Reed (Implementation Plan) will provide a more detailed accounting of substances considered “hard” drugs.

Minor AOD Policy Violations: underage use of alcohol, personal use of illegal drugs not defined as “hard,” possession of personal use quantities of illegal drugs not defined as prescription or “hard” drugs. Use of marijuana in the residence halls and other campus facilities protected by smoke detectors is usually considered minor unless such use coincides with any attempt to disable a smoke detector.

Uncooperative Behavior: Student behavior in the context of AOD violations may be deemed uncooperative under the following circumstances:

a. The student refuses to provide I.D. and/or his or her name
b. The student refuses to surrender illegal drugs, paraphernalia, alcohol illegally possessed, or other evidence upon request
c. The student refuses to answer reasonable questions related to an AOD-related incident and/or provides intentionally inaccurate or incomplete answers
d. The student is otherwise overtly uncooperative with the reasonable questions or requests of a community safety officer (CSO) or college official related to an AOD-related incident.

Uncooperative behavior by a student may result in an initially higher response level than would otherwise be applied in a similar situation in which the student did not behave uncooperatively, and/or may result in engagement of disciplinary proceedings for both the AOD violation as well as the uncooperative behavior. The degree to which the student’s lack of cooperation will impact any subsequent response will depend on the specific circumstances of the incident in question.

B. Response Levels

The response levels listed are intended to guide the process of determining the most reasonable response to potential violations of the AOD Policy. Each reported incident will be reviewed individually and a response level will be initiated appropriate to the specific circumstances (see Section C below).

Level I - A Level I response will result in a warning letter from the Dean of Student Services or his/her designee that includes an invitation for the student to take advantage of confidential therapeutic resources, an invitation (voluntary) to discuss the incident with the Dean or a designee, and an invitation (voluntary) to discuss the incident with a Resident Director (RD), if appropriate. Level I responses are documented in the student’s educational record, but would not in and of themselves trigger a disciplinary entry in the student’s educational record.

Level II - Community Level Intervention: A Level II response will result in a meeting between the student and a representative of his or her community. In most cases this will be the student’s RD or a designee of the Dean. If a student declines to meet, a Level III or higher response will be initiated. The outcome of the meeting will depend on the specific circumstances of the violation and those involved in the meeting. If the meeting is successful (all parties agree to an outcome), the student will receive a letter from the Dean’s office documenting the satisfactory resolution and any mutually agreed upon outcomes. If the meeting is unsuccessful (the student and RD or designee do not agree on an outcome), a Level III response may be initiated. Level II responses are documented in the student’s educational record, but would not in and of themselves trigger a disciplinary entry in the student’s educational record.

Level III - Meeting with the Dean of Student Services or Designee: A Level III response will result in a mandatory meeting between the student and the Dean or designee. Failure to participate in this meeting will result in a Level IV response. This meeting will include a comprehensive overview of therapeutic resources, and likely future steps in the event of continuing violations. The outcome of this meeting will depend on the specific circumstances of the violation(s). A follow up letter will be sent to the student detailing the content of the meeting and documenting any mutually agreed upon outcomes. If both parties to the meeting agree to a specific outcome, the student will receive a letter from the Dean’s office documenting that the meeting was successful and restating the mutually agreed upon outcomes. Likely outcomes may include a referral to counseling or treatment resources, a behavioral expectations contract with the student stipulating specific responses to continued behavior, and/or community service work designed to help restore the relationship with the community. If the meeting is unsuccessful, a Level IV response or higher will be initiated. Level III responses are documented in the student’s educational record, but would not in and of themselves trigger a disciplinary entry in the student’s educational record.

Level IV - AOD Review Panel: A Level IV response will result in the referral of the incident to the AOD Review Panel. The Dean of Student Services shall designate a student services staff member to serve as complainant and the student involved will be the respondent. The panel will be composed of a student member of the Judicial Board selected by the chair of the Judicial Board, a faculty member of the AOD Committee selected by the committee chair, and a staff member from Student Services, other than the Dean, appointed by the Dean. The complainant may not be a member of the Panel. The AOD Review Panel will receive copies of the relevant Community Safety incident reports and other supporting documentation. The complainant and respondent will be given the opportunity to respond to the community safety incident reports and other documentation in writing. Responses should be sent within five (5) business days of notification of the proceeding.

In a given case, Panel members may recuse themselves if they feel they might be biased. Both complainant and respondent may request, in writing, the removal of a member of the Panel on the grounds of personal bias. Such requests will be considered by the remaining members of the panel. The two remaining panel members must agree to reject a request for removal; if either member of the panel concludes that removal is appropriate, the request should be granted. The panel’s decision on the matter shall be final. In the event that a Panel member is unable to serve, due to recusal, removal, or unavailability, a replacement member shall be selected, from the appropriate pool, as described above, by the appropriate chair or Dean. If none can be found, the chair or Dean shall use their discretion to select an appropriate replacement.

If the panel determines by majority vote that there is substantive factual disagreement with the incident reports, the panel should proceed no further, and recommend that the office of the Dean of Student Services initiates a Level V response. If the panel determines by majority vote that more likely than not the action represents a serious violation (as defined above), the panel should proceed no further, and recommend that the office of the Dean of Student Services initiates a Level V response. If the panel determines by majority vote that more likely than not the misconduct represents a minor violation or a pattern thereof (that is appropriate for the AOD Panel to review), the panel will deliberate and recommend sanctions in accordance with the guidelines below. If the sanctions are not unanimous, the dissenting individual may offer a written statement of disagreement with the majority recommendation. The findings and recommended sanctions, together with all supporting documentation, shall be forwarded to the President or his or her designee for a final decision.

When recommending sanctions, the panel shall place particular emphasis on treatment and educational outcomes. Likely outcomes may include a referral to counseling or treatment resources, a behavioral expectations contract stipulating specific responses to continued behavior, community service designed to help restore the relationship with the community, placing the student on disciplinary probation, placing the student in the bottom cohort of the housing lottery, cancellation of a housing contract, disqualifying the student from serving in leadership positions or participating in other activities where the student serves as a representative of Reed, and/or limiting the student’s attendance at on-campus events where alcohol will be served. The AOD Review Panel may not recommend sanctions rising to the level of suspension or expulsion. The AOD Review Panel’s recommendations and sanctions are documented in the student’s educational record, but would not in and of themselves trigger a disciplinary entry in the student’s educational record.

The complainant or respondent may appeal the decision of the President or of his or her designee within ten (10) business days. If classes are in session, the appeal shall be heard by the Judicial Board. If classes are not in session, the appeal shall be heard by a Temporary Hearing Board constituted according to Section 1L of the Judicial Board Code. No one serving on the AOD Review Panel for a given case may also serve on the appellate body for that same case. The appeal should be made in writing to the chair of the board hearing the appeal. Apart from the composition of the appellate body, the appeals process shall generally follow Section 7 of the Judicial Board Code. The appellate body’s decision consists of recommendations to the President or his/her designee, who will make a final decision.
In all cases, the panel and/or hearing board will make relevant documentation of its deliberations and decisions available to the office of the Dean of Student Services, and will make every effort to keep said information confidential outside the purview of the office of the Dean of Student Services. The President or his or her designee is responsible for notifying the student, the Dean, and any other relevant parties of the ultimate outcome.

Level V - Honor Case: A Level V response will result in a referral of the incident to the Judicial Board. The outcome of a Judicial Board referral will be determined by the Judicial Board per the Judicial Board Code and all applicable policies and community guidelines. Any cases that result in a sanction by the Judicial Board would be documented as a formal disciplinary entry in the student’s educational record.

Egregious Violations: Additionally, in cases of egregious violations of the law and/or Reed policy, the Dean of Student Services may opt to act immediately to provide for the safety of the Reed community. Please refer to section 3B of the Judicial Board Code, cited below:

“The Dean of Student Services, or in case of his or her absence, the President of the College may, in case of emergency, take immediate action against a student for an alleged violation as specified in paragraph A, but must forward a complaint to the Judicial Board within six working days, counting only days while the college is in session, or be required to withdraw such action. In such cases, the action of the Dean or President shall remain in force until the conclusion of the judicial process.”

In such a case, the student shall be notified of the right to make an immediate appeal to the President of the College. Involuntary medical leave of absence (or other therapeutic intervention) may be appealed to the President of the College.

C. Guidelines for Responding to AOD Violations

Generally, the response level for AOD violations will begin at the lowest level appropriate to the violation, while taking into consideration the seriousness of the specific violation, relevant history, and extenuating or aggravating circumstances. The guidelines listed below are intended to serve as the typical starting point for determining an appropriate response, but are not prescriptive. The Dean may ultimately initiate any response level based on the specific circumstances. Additionally, engagement of the honor process does not preclude other actions, such as review of housing contracts and possible eviction, allowable fines, referral for criminal investigation, or other available sanctions.

1. Minor Violations

   First-time minor violations will in most cases receive a Level I response. Repeated minor violations will in most cases receive a response one level higher than the previous response (i.e., if a previous violation received a Level I response, a subsequent violation will receive a Level II response, etc.).

   Fifth and subsequent violations will in most cases receive a Level V response and generally be referred directly to the Judicial Board.

   Violations that also involve uncooperative behavior may receive a higher level response than would otherwise be indicated in the absence of such behavior.

2. Serious Violations

   First-time serious violations will be reviewed by the Dean and an initial response level will be chosen appropriate to the circumstances of the incident. If warranted by particularly egregious violations that threaten the safety of the Reed community, external law enforcement resources may be engaged in accordance with Reed’s Memorandum of Understanding with the Portland Police Bureau.
Repeated serious violations will be reviewed by the Dean and will typically receive progressively higher-level responses.

3. Prior Academic Year Violations
Second and subsequent minor violations from a prior academic year that did not result in referral to the Judicial Board will generally be viewed as if they were one response level below the prior year, e.g., if a student had two minor violations in the prior academic year, a first minor violation in the new academic year would generally receive a Level II response.
Second and subsequent serious violations will be reviewed by the Dean and receive a response appropriate to the specific circumstances.

D. Documentation of AOD Violations
AOD violations observed by or reported to community safety, the Dean of Student Services' office, or other college officials, may be documented in one or more areas, based on the specific circumstances.

1. Community Safety Incident Reports: Community safety officers will document all AOD violations in the form of an incident report. The names of all persons associated with an incident (reporting party, subject, witness, CSO, etc.) will be included in the report, along with all relevant facts, statements, and evidence. All alcohol or other drug related incident reports are reviewed by the Director of Community Safety and, when appropriate, forwarded to the Dean (or designee) for further review and follow up. All information shared between the Community Safety office and any other office on campus shall become part of the student’s educational record. Community safety incident reports that relate to AOD violations are permanent and are generally not considered part of the student educational record.

2. Clery Act Reporting: The college is required to report annually to the U.S. Department of Education (DOE) all violations of AOD policies that are law violations and referred for disciplinary action.

3. Student Educational Record Reporting: Reports of violations of the AOD Policy are recorded in a database of student incidents and interactions, which is one component of the student’s educational record. Entries into this database are intended to document all steps in the process of reviewing and responding to AOD violations, and do not constitute a separate disciplinary record. Any cases that result in a sanction by the Judicial Board would be documented as a formal disciplinary entry in the student’s educational record.

4. Dean of Student Services’ Documentation: The Dean or his/her designee, will document the consequent action that the Dean determines is appropriate and necessary in a letter (email or hard copy) to the student.

5. Health & Counseling Center: Information a student provides directly to clinical staff members of the Health & Counseling Center (HCC) is considered private and confidential and is protected by applicable state regulation, federal law, and expectations for ethical professional conduct. The HCC staff will not release to anyone outside of the HCC any information about students, including information related to alcohol or other drug use. The only exceptions to this are in circumstances where the student provides explicit written permission, the staff member assesses a situation of grave and imminent danger to the student or others, certain cases of child abuse, elder abuse, the abuse of a disabled person, or if subpoenaed to testify in court. Please discuss any concerns about this with HCC staff.

E. In the case of alleged violations by faculty, a decision to impose sanctions or therapeutic intervention is subject to appeal by procedures outlined in the Rules of Procedure of the Faculty Constitution (Sections C-14 and F, G, and H), the Faculty Resolution on Drug Use of November 13, 1989.
F. In the case of alleged violations by staff, the procedures in the Staff Policies and Procedures Manual, section XIV, “Supervisor Procedures: Employee Assistance Program” pertain. Supervisors may refer an employee for counseling as part of a discipline process or a “last chance agreement.”

VII. Alcohol and Other Drug Committee

Alcohol and Other Drug Committee Charge

Each academic year, the President of the College shall appoint an Alcohol and Other Drug Committee, consisting of at least two faculty members (one a member of CAC), at least two students (one a member of Senate), the Dean of Student Services, and the Directors of Health & Counseling and Community Safety. Other community members, including but not limited to the Director of Institutional Research, may be asked to participate in Committee Activities on an ad hoc basis. The committee shall be charged with these duties:
1. To consult with the Director of Institutional Research in order to survey incoming and enrolled students on a regular basis to better understand the AOD use patterns of Reed students.
2. To consult with the Honor Council and others in order to promote education regarding the cognitive and social effects of AOD use and abuse.
3. To work with Student Services, Residence Life, Health Services, CAC and the Student Senate to find better ways for the community to take positive actions to reduce AOD abuse.
4. To review the College’s biennial AOD reports and when appropriate to make recommendations based on their findings.
5. To meet with the CAC at the beginning of each academic year in order to formulate an agenda for that year. It will report back to the CAC at least once each semester.
6. As needed, a faculty representative of the AOD Committee or if necessary a designee thereof will serve on the AOD Review Panel as detailed in Section VI of this policy.

VIII. A. FACULTY ADMINISTRATIVE ASSISTANTS

(Source: Office of the Dean of the Faculty, July 2006)

Faculty administrative assistants are dedicated to the work they do in support of Reed Faculty and regularly give 110%. To be fair to everyone concerned, most faculty administrative assistants work on a “first in, first out” basis but if a Faculty member comes to them for help at the last minute they often feel obliged to bend that rule. Please provide as much lead time as possible to avoid last minute demands which ultimately lead to a backlog of earlier requests, or result in longer working hours to get the job completed on time. It may be helpful to keep in mind the number and variety of Faculty each administrative assistant supports when assigning your projects.

Please keep in mind, too, the following ordering of priorities as set by the Faculty Advisory Committee on November 1, 1983:
"In order to avoid misunderstandings as to the priorities which should be followed by faculty secretaries in the performance of their work, the following order of importance should be assigned to various projects:

(1) Instructional materials such as syllabi, exams, course instructions, etc., and letters of recommendation for students.

(2) Departmental, divisional and committee reports.

(3) Professional correspondence and individual faculty projects such as publications, research proposals and other scholarly work.

(4) Personal non-professional correspondence of faculty should not be given to college administrative assistants.

I hope from time to time each of you will find some way to show your appreciation to our faculty administrative assistants, who work very hard on behalf of us all.

VIII. B. STUDENT RECORDS

(Source: Office of the Registrar, August 1, 2007)

FAMILY EDUCATIONAL RIGHTS AND PRIVACY ACT (FERPA)

The following is Reed College's policy regarding disclosure of student records and the pertinent provisions of the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974 (FERPA) as amended in January 1975. The policy statement is made available to Reed students annually. The policy is set forth in the following sections:

1. The description of types of educational records and offices in which they are held,
2. College officials responsible for the files,
3. Policies of Reed College regarding review and expunging of records,
4. Procedures for right of access,
5. Procedures for challenging the content of the records,
6. Cost of reproduction of documents,
7. Directory information, and
8. General disclosure policies.

Before moving to the specifics of each of these areas, it would be useful to clarify the definitions of "student" and "parent" as used in FERPA. "Student" is defined as "any person with respect to whom an educational agency or institution maintains educational records." A parent is entitled to access to a student's transcript only if the parent and student have filed a completed "Student Information Release" form, indicating that direct access by the parent is allowed.

A. TYPES OF EDUCATIONAL RECORDS AND INFORMATION MAINTAINED BY REED WHICH ARE DIRECTLY RELATED TO STUDENTS

Records in this category are used by the academic departments, Registrar, Student Services, Financial Aid, and Health Services. Please note that many of the records held in the Student Services and Registrar's Offices were developed as part of the admission process. After enrollment, we transfer relevant parts of the admission file to the Student Services Office and the Registrar.

ACADEMIC DEPARTMENTS

Academic departments generally retain records of their majors’ results on Junior Qualifying Examinations and Senior Orals. Those records are available to the appropriate department heads and each student’s academic adviser. Although generally students’ Qualifying Examinations are returned to them after grading, these records are open to students and are within the scope of the records covered by FERPA.

REGISTRAR’S OFFICE

This office is the principal College repository of information for current and former students, students who are on leave, and graduates. While there is some variation in the materials in files—depending on majors, etc.—the following list is comprehensive in all but the most unusual cases. Please note that all of the material in the Registrar’s files is covered by the law in terms of access and protection, with the exception of “confidential letters and statements of recommendation which were placed in the education records prior to January 1, 1975...” These will continue to be considered confidential.

Files are purged of nonessential documents after a student graduates, or after five years of nonenrollment.

CONTENTS OF REGISTRAR’S OFFICE FILES

Files may contain admission material, including College Board scores, ACT and other tests; high school transcript; transcript of college work elsewhere; evaluation by Registrar and related correspondence; permanent records of registration, academic work, courses, grades, along with personal data such as parents’ names, student’s birthdate, etc.; notification of acceptance or rejection to junior standing; notice of successful completion or failure to pass the Junior Qualifying Examination and the Senior oral; correspondence concerning leave of absence and/or return; petition for withdrawal from College; correspondence from academic department regarding the major; petitions to Administration Committee for waiver of College requirements.

Files on graduate students contain application materials, including forms completed by the student, college transcript(s), academic and personal references and correspondence regarding admission; and a record of registration and grades.

Files on former graduate students in education contain the record of registration; certification worksheets with transcripts and copies of applications for certification; and placement papers, including a record of educational and professional experience, a personal statement on teaching, a record of undergraduate and graduate courses, and academic and professional references.

STUDENT SERVICES OFFICE FILES

These documents may be inspected by students: Admission material filled out by the student with general information on scholastic background, family and personal statement; correspondence between student and Admission Office prior to enrollment; class rank in high school; faculty comments on grades of C- or below (prior to 2006); letters of recommendation written, where applicable; correspondence with prospective employers or parents.

There are, in addition, documents that were drafted or submitted under a presumption of confidentiality. FERPA specifies that if they were received prior to January 1, 1975, with documented assurances of confidentiality, the records will remain confidential.
The Student Services Office is responsible for records, comments, and correspondence developed and maintained by the counseling staff. These refer to students who have requested assistance from the counselors as well as to students about whom the College has related correspondence prior to admission. Material in these files is excluded from the access provisions of the law and is maintained by the counseling staff separate from any other College files. The records may be reviewed, however, by a physician, psychiatrist, or psychologist if the student so authorizes.

HEALTH SERVICES FILES

Records kept by Health Services, similarly, are not available for student or parent inspection under FERPA. Students have access to their own file; wider availability of the material contained therein is contingent on written permission by the student. These records consist of the medical history filled out by the student prior to admission, correspondence with physicians or consultants where applicable, and visits to Health Services.

FINANCIAL AID OFFICE FILES

Files in the Financial Aid Office contain the application for financial aid (filled out by the student), announcement of awards, correspondence, and the College Scholarship Service Financial Aid Form. Student access to the latter is specifically precluded; however, in practice, the information is made available to students unless parents specifically request that it not be made available.

Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the records and accounts of educational institutions pertaining to eligible veterans or eligible persons who received educational assistance, as well as the records of other students which the Veterans Administration determines necessary to ascertain institutional compliance with the federal requirements, shall be available for examination by duly authorized representatives of the government.

B. NAME AND POSITION OF THE OFFICIAL RESPONSIBLE FOR THE MAINTENANCE OF EACH TYPE OF RECORD, THE PERSONS WHO HAVE ACCESS TO THOSE RECORDS, AND THE PURPOSES FOR WHICH THEY HAVE ACCESS

REGISTRAR'S OFFICE

Nora McLaughlin, Registrar, is responsible for these files. Access is limited to the staff of the Registrar's Office, President's Office, Dean of Faculty's Office, Admission Office, Student Services Office, Financial Aid Office and faculty advisers or instructors in connection with their assigned responsibilities.

Ms. McLaughlin may release, on request, information to the public about whether or not a student is registered, full- or part-time status, semesters of attendance, last institution attended, participation in recognized Reed College programs, the student's major, awards earned and degree(s) and date(s) awarded. No other information, other than student address directory information, will be released without the written consent of the student.

STUDENT SERVICES OFFICE

Mike Brody, Vice President and Dean of Student Services, is responsible for these student files. The information contained therein is made available on a need to know basis-to staff of the Student Services Office (including counselors), Registrar's Office, Admission Office, Financial Aid Office, and faculty instructors or advisers.
HEALTH SERVICES

Student records and information are maintained by the Health Service. Access to the files is restricted to professional staff of the Health Service in connection with their provision of treatment to students. These records may also be made available to physicians or other appropriate professionals of the student's choice.

FINANCIAL AID OFFICE

Leslie Limper, director of financial aid, is responsible for financial aid files. These files are available only to financial aid staff. The director will discuss specific information in the files with the Student Services Office staff, Registrar's Office staff, and faculty advisers when appropriate. If the student has applied for financial aid, the school may disclose information in the Financial Aid Office files without the student's or parent's prior consent as may be necessary to determine the student's eligibility for financial aid, the amount of the aid, the conditions to be imposed regarding the aid, and as may be necessary to enforce the terms or conditions of the aid.

DISCLOSURE OF INFORMATION FROM REGISTRAR'S, STUDENT SERVICES, HEALTH SERVICES, AND FINANCIAL AID FILES

FERPA states that the educational records described above may be disclosed to only those school officials with "legitimate educational interests" in the records. The College has determined that the officials with access to the records, as described in this section, have legitimate educational interests in such records. Questions about the reasons for disclosure of records to particular school officials should be directed to the named individuals responsible for the records. All responsible individuals named in this section may be contacted through the Reed College address shown at the beginning of this statement.

Each file will be accompanied by a record of all parties who have requested or obtained information directly related to students from the file, and a statement of the legitimate interests of such parties in obtaining the information. These records will be available for the student's and eligible parents' review.

C. POLICIES OF THE INSTITUTION FOR REVIEWING AND EXPUNGING RECORDS

In the interests of space, on graduation or after five years of non-attendance each student's file will be reviewed and unnecessary material (e.g., status reports, registration forms, some correspondence related to petitions) deleted. Should the files contain information which is shown to be factually inaccurate, it may be corrected or deleted.

D. PROCEDURES ESTABLISHED BY REED COLLEGE CONCERNING RIGHT OF ACCESS

Under FERPA, students (which by definition includes ex-students) have the right to review the records noted above. Reed College has extended access to grades and academic actions to parents, if the requisite form is completed and submitted to the Registrar's Office. Exceptions are that students do not have the right to review: (1) confidential letters or statements of recommendation received prior to January 1, 1975, or (2) Financial Aid forms (FAF). FERPA does not govern the right to review medical or psychiatric files maintained by counselors or other professionals.

In the event a student or eligible parent wishes to inspect a particular document in a file (or the complete file), a request should be submitted in writing to the College official in charge of the office holding the records. The College will respond to the request within 45 days of receipt. The College will provide explanations or interpretations of records upon reasonable request and will provide copies of records if necessary to enable a student or parent to exercise a right of review. Copies will be provided at the charges described in Section F.

E. PROCEDURES FOR CHALLENGING THE CONTENT OF THE RECORDS

Students have the right to challenge the contents of the file, which has been reviewed. If there is a problem, the student should ask the College to amend the records; we expect that in most cases agreement will be reached with students informally. Should this not be the case, however, students also have the right to place a statement in the education records of the student commenting upon information in these records and setting forth any reasons for disagreement. If a student's educational records contain such an explanatory statement, the explanation shall be retained as long as the College retains the record and shall be disclosed to any person also receiving the contested portion of the education records.

Additionally, when disputes between the College and students about the contents of educational records are not resolved informally, the student is entitled to a formal review of the complaint. A request for such a review should be made in writing to Barre Stoll, Dean of Student Services, who is designated as the College's hearing officer in matters pertaining to this legislation. If a hearing is requested, the College will inform the participants of the procedures to be followed pursuant to FERPA. Unless otherwise agreed, the review will take place within ten working days following which the petitioner(s) will be advised in writing of the College's decision.

Complaints regarding violations of students' rights under FERPA also may be made to:

Family Policy Compliance Office
U.S. Department of Education
400 Maryland Avenue SW
Washington, DC 20202-5920

The Family Policy Compliance Office will investigate complaints and notify the institution if there has been a failure to comply. The Office also has enforcement powers, which it can exercise under appropriate circumstances. Additional information on this subject can be obtained at http://www.ed.gov/policy/gen/guid/fpco/ferpa/index.html.

F. COST OF REPRODUCTION OF DOCUMENTS

The following charges will be made for copying file documents: $3.00 for each transcript of Reed work, $5.00 for each rush copy of transcript of Reed work, and $0.25 per page for other materials. In addition, a copy of the record will not be made if satisfactory arrangement for the payment of all bills due the College has not been made.

G. CATEGORIES OF INFORMATION DESIGNATED "DIRECTORY INFORMATION" AND, CONSEQUENTLY, SUBJECT TO DISCLOSURE

Reed considers the following to be public information and will release it without student consent: name, dates of attendance, full- or part-time status, campus mailbox number, email address, local address and phone, permanent address and phone, major, degree and date awarded, last institution attended, honors awarded, and participation in recognized Reed College programs. A student may instruct the college to withhold all public information by submitting instructions in writing to the registrar within the first 10 class days of instruction.
Reed College's directory is available through the "Integrated Reed Information System" (IRIS). It includes the student's name, Reed mailbox number, local address and phone, and permanent home address and phone. Students are advised at the time of registration that this information will be included in the directory unless the College is specifically instructed not to do so. The student may omit all but the name from the directory for viewing outside the College. Students may authorize the registrar's office to release their class schedule on request.

H. GENERAL DISCLOSURE POLICY

As a general policy, the College will not disclose educational records to anyone other than the student or parent(s) and the officials described in this policy. The College may, however, release educational records without prior written consent of the student: (1) to government officials entitled to the information by law, (2) to accrediting organizations, (3) to organizations conducting studies for the College in connection with the development of predictive tests, administration of student aid programs and improvement of instruction, and (4) in compliance with judicial order to subpoena, subject to FERPA's restrictions on the use of records. The school may also forward certain records on request to any school in which the student seeks to enroll. Please note that the College may release personally identifying information in an emergency situation if the College believes in good faith that knowledge of the information will protect the health or safety of a student or others.

VIII. C. PATENTS AND COPYRIGHTS

(Source: Office of the Vice-President/Treasurer, September 1993)

I. POLICY AND PROCEDURE OBJECTIVES

The purposes and objectives of this policy and procedure are to:

1. enable the College to continue to foster the free and creative expression and exchange of ideas;
2. preserve traditional College practices and privileges with respect to the creation and dissemination of scholarly works by all members of the College community including faculty, students and staff;
3. establish principles and procedures for administering patentable and copyrightable materials produced at the College;
4. protect the creative works of authors and the College's assets and imprimatur; and
5. establish principles governing the equitable distribution of royalties generated by those creative works patented or copyrighted by the College.

II. POLICY STATEMENT

A. General Policy

It is the policy of the College to encourage creative works by all members of the Reed community. All creative works are the property of the inventor/creator except as indicated below in sections II C, II D, II E and II F.

B. Books, Articles, Computer Programs, and Similar Works
In keeping with tradition, the College does not claim ownership of books, articles and similar works, the intended purpose of which is to disseminate the results of academic research or scholarly study. Such works include those of students created in the course of their education, such as dissertations, papers and articles. Similarly, the College claims no ownership of popular nonfiction, novels, software, poems, musical compositions, or other works of artistic imagination which are not institutional works.

C. Commissioned Works of Non-employees

Commissioned works of non-employees are owned by the creator and not by the commissioning party, unless there is a written agreement to the contrary. College personnel needs, therefore, generally to require contractors to agree in writing that ownership is assigned to the College.

Examples of works which the College may commission non-employees to prepare are:

- illustrations or designs
- artistic works
- architectural or engineering drawings
- computer software
- reports by consultants or subcontractors.

D. Videotaping and Related Classroom Technology

Any videotaping, broadcasting, or televising of classroom, laboratory, or other instruction, and any associated use of computers, must be approved in advance by the Vice President/Provost, who shall determine the conditions under which such activity may occur and, in conjunction with the Vice President/Treasurer resolve questions of ownership, distribution and policy.

E. Scholarly Projects Specifically and Substantially Funded by College Funds

All individuals who participate in research or scholarly projects specifically and substantially supported by College funds must sign an agreement with the college under which patentable and copyrightable works resulting from such projects are assigned to the College.

Scholarly projects specifically and substantially funded by the College include, but are not limited to:

(1) direct support with College funds for a specific project, "product"-a "commissioned work;"
(2) use of College release time for a specific project, task,-a "commissioned work;"
(3) use of prior College developments as part of a "derivative work;"
(4) substantial use and/or the assistance of College support staff; or
(5) substantial use of computer hardware and/or software.

F. Institutional Works

The College shall retain ownership of works created as institutional rather than personal efforts-that is, works created for College purposes in the course of the inventor's/creator's employment. For instance, work assigned to staff programmers is "work for hire" as defined by law (regardless of whether the work is in the course of sponsored research, unsponsored research, or non-research activities), and the College owns all rights, intellectual and financial, in such works.

G. College Rights
As the owner of patent/copyright, the College has the exclusive rights to do and to authorize any of the following upon notification of the creators of the works:

(1) to reproduce the copyrighted work;
(2) to prepare derivative works based upon the copyrighted work;
(3) to distribute copies of the copyrighted work to the public by sale or other transfer of ownership, or by license, rental, lease, or lending;
(4) in the case of literary, musical, dramatic, and choreographic works, pantomimes, and motion pictures and other audiovisual works, to perform and/or display the copyrighted work publicly;
(5) to distribute copyrighted works to faculty and staff of the College for internal use in their instructional programs; and
(6) to assign its rights to another as the College deems appropriate. (e.g. the College may choose not to develop a patent/copyright and may assign all rights to the inventor(s)/creator(s).)

III. DISTRIBUTION OF EQUITY

In the case of works patented/copyrighted by the College, and where dissemination and distribution of the work becomes a commercial property, and royalties or other considerations generated will be shared with the authors, the authors of the work will receive 2/3 of the net proceeds received by the College. For the purposes of this policy, net proceeds is defined as the total income generated by the sale, licensing, or distribution of the work, less out-of-pocket expenses incurred by the College in registering the copyright, and any administrative expenses in conjunction with the sale, licensing of the work, and the collection of royalties.

Authors of the work may be students, faculty, and staff of the College, or any combination thereof. When more than one author is involved, the responsibility for determining the relative distribution among the authors rests solely with the authors.

In the case of derivative work, the College authors must negotiate an acceptable arrangement for royalty sharing with the authors of the original work.

In any event, the College assumes no responsibility or liability in disputes among authors concerning their royalty sharing.

IV. ADMINISTRATION OF POLICY

A. Determination of Ownership and Policy in Unclear Cases

Questions of ownership or other matters pertaining to materials covered by this Policy shall be resolved by the Vice President/Provost in consultation with the Vice President/Treasurer.

B. Distribution Procedures

The College encourages and seeks the most effective means of technology transfer for public use and benefit. To that end, the inventor/creator and/or College needs to determine whether to apply for patent protection or copyright protection. In certain instances it may be appropriate to apply for both. Such protection is often necessary to encourage a company to risk the investment of its personnel and financial resources to develop the work.

C. Development Options

The inventor/creator usually has the following options for development of his/her work.

1. Development by the inventor/creator
An inventor/creator who wishes to develop at his/her own expense inventions/creations made in the course of academic research or scholarly study needs to determine ownership. The inventor/creator is required to inform (in writing) the Vice President/Provost of his/her development intentions. The inventor/creator is cautioned to work with reputable, established organizations rather than with unknown or unestablished commercial firms.

2. Development by the College
The College usually administers patents through the Research Corporation in accordance with the current agreement in effect. The agreement is on file with the Controller. This agreement specifies procedures for evaluation for licensing and distribution of royalties.

D. Use of the College Name
1. Patents and copyrights may not be registered in the College's name without prior approval of the Vice President/Treasurer.

2. If copyrightable materials are published without a copyright notice, and copyright may be lost and the work may enter the public domain. The following notice on College-owned materials will protect the copyright:

Copyright c (year) The Reed Institute dba Reed College, All Rights Reserved. /No other institutional or departmental name and address of the department to which readers can direct inquiries may be listed below the copyright notice. The date in the notice should be the year in which the work is first published, i.e., distributed to the public or any sizable audience. Additionally, works should be registered with the United States Copyright Office using its official forms.

V. EXPLANATION OF TERMS
A. Copyrightable Works
Under the federal copyright law, copyright subsists in "original works of authorship" which have been fixed in any tangible medium of expression from which they can be perceived, reproduced, or otherwise communicated, either directly or with the aid of a machine or device. These works include:

- Literary works such as books, journal articles, poems, manuals, memoranda, tests, computer programs, instructional materials, databases, bibliographies;
- Musical works, including any accompanying words;
- Dramatic works, including any accompanying music;
- Pantomimes and choreographic works (if fixed, as in notation or videotape);
- Pictorial graphic and sculptural works, including photographs, diagrams, sketches and integrated circuit masks;
- Motion pictures and other audiovisual works such as videotapes;
- Sound recordings.

B. Scope of Copyright Protection
Copyright protection does not extend to any idea, process, concept, discovery or the like, but only to the work in which it may be embodied, illustrated or explained. For example, a written description of a manufacturing process is copyrightable, but the copyright only prevents unauthorized copying of the description; the process described could be freely copied unless it enjoys some other protection, such as a patent.

Subject to various exceptions and limitations provided for in the copyright law, the copyright owner has the exclusive right to reproduce the work, prepare derivative works, distribute copies by sale or otherwise, and display or perform the work publicly. Ownership of copyright is distinct from the ownership of any material object in which the work may be embodied. For example, if one purchases a videotape, one does not necessarily obtain the right to make a public showing for profit.

C. Works for Hire

"Work for hire" is a legal term defined in the Copyright Act as "a work prepared by an employee within the scope of his or her employment." This definition includes works prepared by employees in satisfaction of sponsored agreements between the College and outside agencies. Certain commissioned works also are works for hire if the parties so agree in writing.

The employer by law is the "author," and hence the owner, of works for hire for copyright purposes. Ownership in a work for hire may be relinquished only by an official of the College specifically authorized to do so.

D. Derivative Works

A "derivative work" is here defined as a work based upon one or more pre-existing works, such as a translation, musical arrangement, dramatization, fictionalization, motion picture version, sound recording, art reproduction, abridgment, condensation, or any other form in which a work may be recast, transformed, or adapted. A work consisting of editorial revisions, annotation, elaborations, or other modifications that, as a whole, represent an original work of authorship, is a "derivative work."

E. Other Intellectual Property

1. Trade and Service Marks

Trade and service marks are distinctive words or graphic symbols identifying the source, producer, or distributor of goods or services.

2. Trade Secrets

"Trade Secret" is a legal term referring to any information, whether or not copyrightable or patentable, which is not generally known or accessible, and which gives competitive advantage to its owner. Trade secrets are proprietary information.

F. Patent

A patent is a grant issued by the U.S. Government giving an inventor the right to exclude all others from making, using, or selling the invention within the United States, its territories and possessions for a period of 17 years. When a patent application is filed, the U.S. Patent Office reviews to ascertain if the invention is new, useful, and nonobvious and, if appropriate, grants a patent-usually two to five years later. Not all patents are necessarily valuable or insusceptible to challenge.

G. Invention

An invention is a novel and useful idea relating to processes, machines, manufactures, and compositions of matter. It may cover such things as new or improved devices, systems, circuits, chemical compounds, mixtures, etc.

It is probable that an invention has been made when something new and useful has been conceived or developed, or when unusual, unexpected, or nonobvious results have been obtained and can be exploited.

An invention can be made solely or jointly with others as coinventors. To be recognized legally, a coinventor must have conceived of an essential element of an invention or contributed substantially to the general concept.
H. Patentability

Not all inventions are patentable. Questions relating to patentability are often complex and usually require professional assistance.

1. General criteria for patentability.
An important criterion of patentability is that an invention must not be obvious to a worker with ordinary skill in that particular field. It also must not have been publicly known or used by others in this country or patented or described in a printed publication anywhere prior to the date of invention.

2. Loss of patentability.
Inventions that are patentable initially may become unpatentable for a variety of reasons. An invention becomes unpatentable in the United States unless a formal application is filed with the U.S. Patent Office within 12 months of disclosure in a publication, public lecture, or of any other action which results in the details of the invention becoming generally available.

3. Circumstantial impairment of patentability.
Many other circumstances may impair patentability, such as lack of "diligence." For example, unless there is a record of continuous activity in attempting to complete and perfect an invention, it may be determined that the invention has been abandoned by the initial inventor, and priority given to a later inventor who showed "due diligence."

4. International variation of patentability regulations.
Regulations covering the patentability of inventions and application filing procedures vary considerably from country to country and are subject to change. It is important to note that an invention is unpatentable in most foreign countries unless a patent application is filed before public disclosure.

VI. SPECIAL NOTES

A. The basic purposes of the College always take precedence over patent and copyright considerations. While the College recognized the benefits of patent and copyright development, it is most important that the direction of College research should not be established or unduly influenced by patent and copyright development considerations.

B. Agencies sponsoring research at Reed usually require reports of all inventions, whether or not they are considered patentable.

C. The College in all events shall have the right to perform its obligations with respect to patentable and copyrightable works, data, prototypes and other intellectual property under any contract, grant or other arrangement with third parties, including sponsored research agreements, license agreements and the like.

D. College resources are to be used solely for College purposes and not for personal gain or personal commercial advantage, nor for any other non-College purposes.

VIII. D. RESEARCH MISCONDUCT POLICY

(Source: Approved by the Reed Faculty, April 13, 2015)

Research Misconduct Policy
1. Preamble
Reed College’s Mission statement describes the College as committed to “the intrinsic value of intellectual pursuit and governed by the highest standards of scholarly practice, critical thought, and creativity.” Consistent with this commitment, the College holds its faculty, research staff and students to the highest ethical standards in the conduct of research. Reed College investigates allegations of research misconduct with due care for the rights of those accused, those making the allegations and the College itself. This policy is intended to fulfill the responsibilities laid upon the College by Public Health Service Policies on Research Misconduct (including 42 CFR Part 93), as well as the applicable regulations on research misconduct of other federal agencies. The policy applies, however, to all faculty, research staff and students engaged in research at Reed College, and not just those engaged in federally funded research. This policy will be made available to members of the Reed community and the public on the Dean of Faculty’s website.

2. Scope and Definitions
This policy outlines the procedures to be followed in response to allegations of research misconduct brought against Reed faculty, research staff or students. In the case of students, if the work involved has been produced as part of a course, the procedures in Chapter VI of the Faculty Code should be followed. Research misconduct means (1) fabrication, falsification or plagiarism in proposing, performing, or reviewing research, or in reporting research results, or (2) material failure to comply with federal requirements for the protection of human or animal research subjects. The following do not constitute research misconduct:

- Honest error.
- Differences of opinion.
- Conduct that does not significantly depart from accepted practices within the relevant research community.
- A material failure to comply with federal requirements for the protection of human or animal research subjects that is not intentional or grossly negligent.

False allegations of research misconduct that are capricious or malicious and are made from within the College are subject to the appropriate grievance procedures. When made from outside the College, they will be reported to the relevant institutional authorities.

3. Procedure
Formal allegations of research misconduct should be brought to the Dean of Faculty in accordance with sections F, G and H of the College’s Rules of Procedure, and will be addressed in accordance with those Rules of Procedure, with the following modifications, specifications or additions:

- Persons who are not Reed College students, staff or faculty may submit a formal signed allegation of research misconduct to the College through the Dean of Faculty. The Dean of Faculty or a designee will pursue the allegation through sections F, G and H of the College’s Rules of Procedure where appropriate.
- In conjunction with the procedures for investigating research misconduct, the Dean of the Faculty is responsible for complying with applicable federal regulations, including notifying sponsoring agencies, when required, at the appropriate time.
• If at any time, it appears that there is the possibility that the alleged misconduct violated federal, state or local criminal statute, College Counsel must be consulted immediately to determine further action.
• Allegations of research misconduct on the part of the Dean of the Faculty should be submitted to the College through the Chair of the Grievance Review Panel.

VIII. E. CONFLICT OF INTEREST POLICY AND PROCEDURES

(Source: Approved by the Board of Trustees on February 9, 2008; amended February 6, 2016)

TRUSTEES AND OFFICERS.

The Trustees and Officers of The Reed Institute d/b/a Reed College (the “College”) are elected to serve the College, and are expected to carry out their duties in a manner that inspires and assures the confidence of the College and the broader community. All actions by Trustees and Officers with respect to the College and its property must be taken solely on the basis of a desire to advance the best interests of the College. Trustees and Officers shall not use their positions as such, or knowledge gained therefrom, so that a conflict might arise between the interests of the College and the individual interests of the Trustees or Officers.

It is understood that the College’s Trustees and Officers will be involved in the affairs of other institutions, organizations and businesses. These relationships and affiliations may raise questions from time to time about perceived conflicts of interest. Although many such potential conflicts are and will be deemed inconsequential, each Trustee and Officer has the responsibility to ensure that the Board is made aware of situations that involve personal, familial or business relationships that could be troublesome.

Thus, the Board requires each Trustee and Officer to (a) confirm that he or she is familiar with this policy, (b) disclose to the Board Chair any possible personal, familial or business relationships that might give rise to a conflict of interest or the appearance of a conflict of interest involving the College, and (c) agree to serve only in accordance with the letter and spirit of this policy. A form for this purpose is attached, and shall be completed by each Trustee and Officer at least annually.

A “business relationship” is one in which a Trustee or a member of his or her family serves as an officer, director, employee, partner, member, trustee or significant stockholder of an organization that does business with the College.

A “family member” is a spouse, parent, sibling or child of a Trustee or Officer, or any other relative living in the Trustee’s or Officer’s household.

If a Trustee or Officer is uncertain whether to disclose a particular relationship, the Board Chair should be consulted. The Chair may elect to seek the judgment of the Executive Committee in determining whether a relationship gives rise to a conflict of interest or should otherwise be disclosed to the Board. The Chair and the Executive Committee shall keep any consultation confidential unless and until they determine that the best interests of the College require disclosure.
A Trustee or Officer who has a conflict of interest shall not participate in any consideration by the Board of, or otherwise be involved in decision-making with respect to, a matter relating to the conflict.

The foregoing policy is intended to supplement but not replace (a) any federal or state laws governing conflicts of interest applicable to the College, or (b) the provisions of the College’s constitution and bylaws relating to conflicts of interest.

FACULTY

Background and General Policy

(Source: Approved by the Board of Trustees on April 22, 1995)

It is the policy of the College to ascertain and deal with situations in which the personal or financial interests of individual faculty members may be in conflict with the interests of the College. It is also the policy of the College to adopt and implement policies and procedures required by governmental and other agencies that fund research or educational activities through the College.

In order to ascertain potential conflict of interest situations, the College requires disclosure of financial information from faculty members when an actual or potential conflict of interest situation may be presented. It is not possible to catalog all of the potential conflict of interest situations that may occur. Generally speaking, a conflict may exist in any situation in which the resources of the College, whether cash, physical facilities, equipment, or human resources, including grant funding from public agencies, is being used by a faculty member on a project in which the faculty member (including immediate family) has a separate personal interest, usually financial in nature. Some of the more likely situations to occur are enumerated in subsection b. below.

Faculty members should not hesitate to ask for guidance from the Dean of the Faculty in situations not specifically described in this policy and procedure statement. Faculty members can be subject to the ordinary disciplinary process of the College if they fail fully and truthfully to disclose conflict of interest situations, and could be subject to criminal sanctions or civil liability under federal or state law as well.

Once disclosed, it is the policy of the College to deal with the conflict in an appropriate manner. Any review of a potential conflict of interest will be undertaken in the light of four general propositions. First, conflicts of interest per se are inevitable, and do not represent any impropriety by faculty members if disclosed in advance. Second, the failure to disclose a conflict of interest for administrative review and response would be a serious mistake for any faculty member. Third, there is a presumption in favor of allowing faculty members to act in dual roles once the conflict of interest has been disclosed. Fourth, conflicts of interest may be so profound under some circumstances that it would be best for all concerned if the faculty member did not participate in a particular transaction.

Occasions Requiring Filing of Disclosure Forms. Although other situations may arise which could also require filing disclosure forms, the following circumstances require prompt filing of disclosure forms upon occurrence of the applicable circumstance:

- If you become aware of a conflict between your personal financial interests and those of the College in the course of your ongoing work;
- If you wish to use College facilities, equipment or personnel for your outside consulting or business activities;
• If you wish to employ or use students, residents, or fellows in any research work related to or supported by an outside firm in which you have an interest;
• If you are asked to represent or assist the College in important business decisions dealing with outside entities;
• If you are an "investigator" (as defined in NSF Grant Policy Manual, Section 310) or in another capacity responsible for the design and conduct, or reporting of research or educational activities funded or proposed for funding by NSF or other governmental agency; or
• If you have filed a conflict of interest disclosure form during the previous year that showed the occurrence or continued existence of circumstances that required the filing of a conflict of interest disclosure form.

What to File. If you are required to file, you should use the form attached to this policy statement (download). In responding to the questions on the form, please refer to the guidelines contained in the attachment to the form entitled "Scope of the Particular Questions."

Where to File. If you are required to file a form under subsection b above, you should file with the Dean of the Faculty.

Reviewing Authority. Each disclosure form filed will be reviewed by the Dean of the Faculty (the "Reviewing Authority"). The Reviewing Authority shall determine whether any conditions or restrictions need be imposed to manage, reduce or eliminate actual or potential conflicts of interest. Such conditions and restrictions might include, without limitation, the following:

- public disclosure of significant financial interests;
- monitoring of research by independent reviewers;
- modification of the research plan;
- disqualification from participation in the portion of an NSF-funded project that would be affected by significant financial interests of the participant;
- divestiture of significant financial interests; or
- severance of relationships that create actual or potential conflicts.

If the Reviewing Authority determines that imposing conditions or restrictions would be either ineffective or inequitable, and that the potential negative impacts that may arise from a significant financial interest are outweighed by interests of scientific progress, technology transfer, or the public health and welfare, then the Reviewing Authority may allow the research to go forward without imposing such conditions or restrictions.

Appeal. Any decision by the Reviewing Authority may be appealed in writing by the faculty member or other affected person to the Appeals and Review Committee. The written appeal must be received within 30 calendar days of the decision. The Appeals and Review Committee shall recommend action to the President, whose decision shall be final.

Actions. Actions may be taken by the Dean of the Faculty for failure to comply with any conditions or restrictions imposed by a final decision of the Reviewing Authority or, in the event of appeal, by the President. Appropriate actions may include, without limitation, any of the following:

- removal from any committee or other group, participation in which gives rise to the potential or actual conflict of interest;
• discontinuance of the research or other activity, participation in which gives rise to the potential or actual conflict of interest;
• notification to NSF or other funding agency for a project, participation in which is the cause of the potential or actual conflict of interest;
• request to NSF or other funding source to discontinue funding of a project, participation in which has given rise to the potential or actual conflict of interest;
• termination of use of any College facilities, equipment, personnel and other resources for continuation of any project, participation in which has given rise to the potential or actual conflict of interest; and/or
• forfeiture of any funding controlled by the College from and after the date of failure to comply with any conditions or restrictions imposed by the Reviewing Authority or, upon appeal, the President.

Retention of Records. The College will maintain in the office of the Dean of the Faculty all conflict of interest questionnaires, report forms and related files, and all actions taken to resolve actual or potential conflicts of interest, for a period of three years from the date of resolution of such particular conflict of interest matter. In the case of conflict of interest matters pertaining to NSF grants or grants by other agencies, the records shall be retained until at least three years after the later of (a) the termination or completion of the award to which they relate, or (b) the resolution of any action involving those records, or (c) such longer period as the applicable agency shall require.

NONACADEMIC PERSONNEL.

The policies in this section are applicable to College personnel other than directors, officers and faculty. The College recognizes that the good judgment of its staff is essential, and that no list of rules or guidelines can provide direction for all the varied circumstances that may arise.

Guidelines.

Each staff member has a duty to act in the best interests of the College.

Staff members who have, directly or through family or business connections, an interest in suppliers of goods or services, or in contractors or potential contractors with the College, should not undertake to act for the College in any transaction involving that interest. No staff member shall participate in the selection, award or administration of a contract with any party with whom he or she is negotiating respecting potential employment or has any arrangement concerning potential employment.

Staff members shall avoid outside employment or business activity involving obligations which may in any way conflict, or appear to conflict, with the College’s interests, including its interest in the full- or part-time, as the case may be, services of its staff members. Directorships or consultation arrangements for which the staff member will receive compensation should be cleared with the staff member’s responsible vice-president who shall consult in each instance with the Vice-President/Treasurer of the College.

Each staff member shall provide full disclosure of any business or financial enterprise or activity in which he or she is involved which might influence, or might appear to have the capacity to influence, his or her official decisions or actions on College matters. Disclosure shall be in writing tendered to the staff member’s vice-president who shall consult in each instance with the Vice-President/Treasurer of the College.
Staff members shall refrain from personal activities, including but not limited to the purchase or sale of securities, real property or other goods or services, in which they could use, or might appear to have the opportunity to use, for personal gain, confidential information or special knowledge gained as a result of their relationship with the College.

Each staff member shall refrain from unauthorized disclosure of nonpublic information concerning the College's intentions, its investments, its property development, sale or acquisition, its purchasing or its contracting activities.

No staff member shall make unauthorized use of College resources for his or her personal benefit or for the benefit of any other person.

It is sound practice to discourage personal gifts and favors from people with whom the College has a business relationship. Personal gifts of more than nominal value should be tactfully declined or returned, to avoid any appearance or suggestion of improper influence. Those staff members involved in the awarding or administration of contracts using federal or other governmental funds should keep in mind that they are prohibited by law from soliciting or accepting gratuities, favors or anything of monetary value from contractors or potential contractors.

No staff member shall act in any College matter involving a member of his or her immediate family including but not limited to matters affecting such family member's employment, evaluation or advancement in the College, without first making full disclosure in the manner described in subparagraph iv above. Such disclosure shall include the nature of the familial relationship and the impact or potential impact of the staff member's action on such family member.

In any case in which a staff member believes that his or her conduct or activities may conflict with these guidelines, may appear to conflict with these guidelines or may otherwise create a conflict of interest or the appearance of a conflict of interest, the staff member should disclose the details of his or her situation in the manner described in subparagraph iv above.

VIII. F. USE OF CAMPUS FACILITIES

(Source: Varies)

Sports Center:

Students who are currently registered have free access to all Sports Center facilities. Students on official leaves of absence must obtain a card for the Sports Center from the Director or Associate Director of Physical Education. This card will allow them access to the Sports Center whenever the facilities are open. They may take a PE class provided they register as an audit and pay the audit class fee. A student is only considered on leave for one year; at the end of that year they must obtain an alumni card and use the Sports Center during the posted alumni hours.

Library:

Currently registered students have free access to Library facilities.
Alumni of the College are granted borrowing privileges. Alumni simply show their alumni card to the person at the front desk and may check books out for 28 days. They cannot use any other services such as interlibrary loan. Students on official leaves of absence are allowed to borrow books.

Ski Cabin:

The Ski Cabin is not governed by an official policy. It is available to anyone connected to the Reed community including current students, alumni, and their friends.

Computer Usage:

(Source: Computing and Information Services, 2007)

Faculty and staff at Reed have free access to all public computing resources.

Students who are currently registered at Reed have free access to all public computing resources except laser printing. Students receive an annual allotment of free printing: $40 for seniors, $20 for all others. Additional printing is billed to students' accounts.

Students who are on official leave lose their computing privileges (except for Reed email addresses from which they can forward email to off-campus accounts). Students on leave who wish to retain computing privileges may request an exception from the Dean of Students.

Alumni may use the campus network and computer labs. They must request access in person at the Help Desk and sign a Computer User Agreement. Alumni computing privileges lapse after 180 days but are renewable. Alumni have no printing privileges and must defer to current students in the use of computer lab facilities.

Guests may have limited access to online library resources, the web, and campus information kiosks as permitted by college policies.

Alumni, guests, and others may be granted additional computing privileges in special circumstances by Computing & Information Services (CIS). The College reserves the right to deny computing access to anyone in violation of college computing policies.

Additional information about access to computing facilities is available online at: http://www.reed.edu/cis/help/index.html.

Conference and Events Planning Office (CEP):

(Source: CEP July 2005)

The use of campus facilities and grounds by College and outside organization is handled on a priority basis:

1. First Priority
   Regularly scheduled classes and activities carrying academic credit

2. Second Priority
   Meetings, programs and events created, funded and scheduled by Reed College-recognized student organizations and departments, for Reed College students, faculty, or staff for internal college organization functions.

3. Third Priority
   Outside organizations if the following conditions are met:
1. The facility requested is not anticipated to be needed for a regularly scheduled college function;
2. The event is sponsored by: a faculty or staff department; a student organization with recognized college status; an academic organization by arrangement through the faculty advisor; a group of students, provided a petition signed by five percent of the student body is presented to the CEP.

4. Fourth Priority
If not required for the three priorities listed above, college facilities may also be available to non-college organizations for a rental fee on a case-by-case basis. As a general rule, facilities will not be rented during the academic year except during academic breaks.

Use of college facilities will not be authorized for activities raising money, including political fund raising, except when authorized in conjunction with an event.

Commons:

The Commons is "open," meaning that anyone connected to the Reed community is allowed access to the Commons dining area during meals.

Kaul Auditorium and Gray Center Foyer and Lounge

(Source: Office of the Dean of the Faculty, 2/20/98)

The College wants and encourages members of the Reed community, including student groups and organizations, to make use of the new Kaul Auditorium and the Gray Center Foyer and Lounge. It is a wonderful new space on campus from which we hope the entire community benefits. Normally, the auditorium is booked months in advance for most weekend nights and many weeknights. Groups wishing to use the auditorium will need to plan well in advance. The following guidelines will be used for all events.

1. This is a non-smoking facility and all groups or organizations using the auditorium are required to have a means in place for enforcing this policy.
2. Alcohol can be distributed and consumed during events only when the distribution is licensed according to Oregon Liquor Control Commission (OLCC) guidelines and Bon Appetit is the distributor. The distribution and consumption must take place in a clearly separated part of the building to which access is given only to those of legal age.
3. All events held in the auditorium must end by 12:30 a.m.
4. The auditorium will be staffed at all times by a college employee(s) whose salary will be paid by the sponsoring group or organization.
5. The individual, group, or organization sponsoring the event is financially responsible for any special set up, security, clean up, damage or theft which occurs.
6. No food or drink will be permitted in the auditorium at any time, unless it involves an event explicitly designated with such use in mind.
7. All student reservations for using the auditorium or lounge should be initiated through the office of the Director of Student Engagement at least two weeks in advance of the event.
8. The auditorium will only be reserved for groups needing this size and type of space. Other needs will be met through other College facilities.
9. The following specific policies govern the use of the auditorium for music performance by Reed students and faculty:

1. Performers who teach in Reed's applied music program may be permitted to schedule recitals in the auditorium if they can demonstrate strong reasons (e.g. seating capacity, acoustics, etc.) for using the auditorium instead of some other on-campus facility and if such recitals fit into the overall schedule for the hall. Based on these general considerations, the Director of Conference and Events Planning will be responsible for deciding whether or not such recitals can take place in the auditorium.

2. Performers who teach in Reed's applied music program and who are permitted to schedule recitals in the auditorium may be exempt from rental fees, at the discretion of the Director of Conference and Events Planning.

3. No student recitals will be held in the auditorium, except for serious piano students who would clearly benefit from using the concert grand piano.

10. As a rule, Kaul Auditorium will be governed by the standard College policy that facilities are not rented to external groups during the academic year. But the Director of Conference and Events Planning may consider, and bring to the President, exceptions to this policy.

11. No fees shall be charged for admission to events, except by prior arrangement with the Director of Conference and Events Planning. If such an event is approved, normal rental fees will apply.

12. Technical support to the audio-visual and/or lighting systems in the auditorium must be coordinated by Reed's Audio Visual Services Department.

13. Points 1-10 above are guidelines. In all cases, final decisions regarding the use of the auditorium will be made by the President or by the President's designee.

VIII. G. SMOKING

Reed College Smoking Policy
Approved by the Community Affairs Committee and by the Student Senate February 28, 2014.
Approved by the Faculty March 3, 2014.
Revised Policy Approved by the Student Senate February 26, 2016.
Approved by the Faculty March 7, 2016.
Effective August 29, 2016

Preamble
We, as a community, believe in the right of all members of the Reed College community and all visitors to campus to be able to conduct their affairs without unwillingly being exposed to second-hand smoke. The purpose of this policy is to express the need to protect this right while recognizing the individual freedom of those who choose to smoke. This policy does not replace the Honor Principle; rather, it articulates a community norm that requires each individual to recognize a certain right and to act accordingly.

For purposes of this policy, the term “smoking” means inhaling, exhaling, burning, carrying or possessing any lighted tobacco or marijuana product, or the use of smoking devices or equipment that includes, but is not limited to cigarettes, cigars, hookahs, pipes, and inhalant delivery systems (e.g. e-cigs, vaping equipment).

Primary policy

1. Smoking is prohibited within 10 feet of the architectural footprint of all campus buildings. For the purposes of this policy, all entrances, exits, operable windows, air intakes, porches, covered walkways and overhangs of a building are included in its footprint.

2. Smoking is prohibited on all campus bridges, and within 20 feet of the Health and Counseling Center and the Growing Seeds Childcare Facility.

3. Smoking is prohibited on all campus walkways and footpaths, including those in the canyon, between the hours of 7 a.m. and 7 p.m. To ensure every community member’s right to breathe smoke-free air while using pathways during these hours, community members who smoke should consciously observe a reasonable distance away from pathways that respects the designation of pathways as smoke-free. Between 7 p.m. and 7 a.m., community members who choose to smoke on pathways should avoid the unwilling exposure to secondhand smoke of others who may be sharing those pathways. At all times, community members who choose to smoke in parking lots, on roads, and on residence hall patios, should avoid the unwilling exposure to secondhand smoke of others who may be sharing that space.

A. Smoking is prohibited between the hours of 7 a.m. and 7 p.m. in the GCC quad except within a provided weather shelter. In the event that there is insufficient space within the shelter, smoking will be permitted in the immediate vicinity, but no more than five feet beyond the perimeter of the shelter when possible.

4. Community members who smoke shall dispose of the remnants of their smoking in appropriate receptacles.

A. Receptacles will be made available in close proximity to spaces where smoking is permitted by this policy.

5. All members of the community have the right to engage any person observed to be in violation of this policy. However, the obligation to adhere to the policy rests upon the person smoking regardless of whether anyone requests that they move or dispose of the remnants of their smoking appropriately.

Any person in violation of this policy who refuses to adjust their behavior after engagement by a community member, including Community Safety Officers (CSOs), may have their information recorded by CSOs for the purposes of tracking repeat offenders or identifying geographical areas with high concentrations of violations.

A. Staff: The Office of Community Safety may forward information about violations of this policy by staff to the Director of Human Resources (or designee) who may forward this information to the staff’s direct supervisor.

B. Faculty: The Office of Community Safety may forward information about violations of this policy by faculty to the Dean of the Faculty (or designee).

C. Students: The Office of Community Safety may forward information about violations of this policy by students to the Dean of Students (or designee).

i. Students who repeatedly or egregiously violate this policy may be asked to speak with the Dean of Student Services (or designee) to discuss the consequences of violating this policy in such a manner. Ramifications may include but are not limited to mediation coordinated and facilitated by the Office of Student Services or a behavioral contract that outlines clear expectations and any possible corresponding consequences for the violation of those expectations. Violations of this policy that occur in Reed’s residential facilities may also result in consequences outlined in the housing contract.

ii. If an individual staff member or group of staff members representing the Office of Student Services in the enforcement of this policy is unable to reach resolution as outlined in 5.C.i or believes that a violation of the Honor Principle has occurred, they may initiate any aspect of Reed’s Honor Process deemed appropriate in the relevant community and judicial documents.

D. Community members found by CSOs to repeatedly violate this policy may receive a notification from Community Safety that includes the incident report(s) and a copy of this policy.

6. In its restrictions on smoking, this policy may exceed, but will in no way negate, any aspect of the relevant local, state or federal smoking laws.

Shelters

The college will provide weather shelters for smoking that will be placed in areas in which community members may smoke without causing unwanted second-hand exposure to smoking byproducts.

Members of the community may propose additional locations for shelters to the Physical Plant Committee, who will make recommendations to the President. The President will have final authority in designating and decommissioning weather shelter locations.

Dissemination

At the beginning of each academic year, all students, faculty, and staff will receive a copy of this policy governing smoking on campus. The college should make available to all community members information regarding smoking cessation programs and resources.

VIII. H. ANIMALS

Animal policy

Passed by the Student Senate April 28, 2014 and accepted by the Faculty May 16, 2014

Amended policy passed by the Student Senate November 21, 2014 and accepted by the Faculty December 1, 2014

I. Introduction

All members of the Reed College community are responsible for the conduct and condition of the animal(s) they own. All members of the Reed College community and all visitors to the campus are bound by this policy and the applicable Multnomah County Code (Chapter 13: Animal Services).

The purpose of this policy is to provide a set of reasonable guidelines for acceptable behavior of any animal that visits the Reed College campus and to outline repercussions that may follow any deviations from these guidelines. It is also intended to serve as a clarification of the obligations of animal owners to the Reed community and the animals they are responsible for.

This policy pertains to the internal governance of the Reed College community and to the governance of non-human animals on Reed property. Its provisions shall be considered binding for all community members, which includes staff, faculty, and students of the College, as well as visitors to campus.

Reed College is committed to compliance with state, federal and local laws regarding individuals with disabilities and making reasonable modifications to its rules, policies and practices as required by law to afford persons with disabilities equal opportunity access to its programs, services and activities. This policy should not be construed to abridge or supersede any rights or responsibilities put forth in any local, state, or federal laws, including but not limited to the Americans with Disabilities Act, Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act, or the Fair Housing Act. This policy is intended to supplement processes and procedures developed by Disability Support Services, Human Resources and Community Safety for the purpose of implementing and coordinating the reasonable accommodation process for students, faculty, staff and visitors to the Reed campus.

Students who seek reasonable accommodation for a disability, including bringing Service or Support Animals to campus or College housing should contact Disability Support Services at disability-services@reed.edu or 503/517-7921 for additional information or to report concerns about disability discrimination or harassment.

Faculty or staff who seek reasonable accommodation for a disability, including bringing Service or Support Animals to campus should contact Human Resources at HR@reed.edu or 503/777-7775 for additional information or to report concerns.

Visitors bringing Service or Support Animals to campus may contact the Office of Community Safety at 503/517-5355 for additional information or to report concerns.

Further, this policy shall annul and supersede any other animal policies currently in existence at Reed College, with the exception of any applicable Reed College Housing Contract, with which the provisions of this policy are intended to be consistent. Finally, this policy is not intended to govern the use of animals in research or teaching.

II. Definitions

a. Handler: A handler is a person that assumes responsibility for an animal. This includes but is not limited to a pet-sitter or dog walker.

b. Owner: The person ultimately responsible for the licensing, behavior, actions, medical care, shelter, and general health of their animal.

c. Service Animal: A service animal is defined by the American with Disabilities Act to be limited to certain species, and individually trained to do work or perform tasks for the benefit of an individual with a disability, including, but not limited to, guiding individuals with impaired vision, alerting individuals with impaired hearing to intruders or sounds, providing minimal protection or rescue work, pulling a wheelchair, or fetching dropped items. For the purposes of this policy, the definition of a service animal shall remain consistent with the ADA definition, as published on the ADA website (http://www.ada.gov/service_animals_2010.htm). In addition, “Service Animal” shall also mean trained animals used by government agencies in police and rescue work (Multnomah County Code, 13.002 Definitions).
Service Animals are permitted to accompany persons with disabilities in all areas of Reed’s facilities, including in college Housing, where students, members of the public and other participants in services, programs and activities are allowed. Service Animals should be controlled with a leash, harness, voice, signals or other effective means.

d. Support Animal: Support Animals include emotional support animals or therapy animals that mitigate one or more identified symptoms or effects associated with a handler’s or owner’s disability by providing emotional support, well-being or comfort. Unlike Service Animals, a Support Animal does NOT need to be trained to perform disability-specific work or tasks, and may include species other than dogs. Support Animals may be qualified by a letter from a licensed health care provider.

Support Animals are generally not permitted to accompany persons with disabilities in all public areas but may reside in College housing when necessary to afford a student with a disability an equal opportunity to use and enjoy College housing. Further, Support Animals are generally not allowed in other areas where animals are prohibited but persons with disabilities may request approval from Disability Services or Human Resources to have their Support Animal accompany them in areas otherwise restricted from animals. Those requests will be made on a case-by-case, individualized basis consistent with applicable laws.

e. Wildlife: Wildlife is any undomesticated, free-ranging vertebrate. This includes native and non-native animals, as well as any unlicensed feral domestic cats.

f. Pet: Any animal owned and/or handled by a person that is not specifically designated as a Service or Support Animal, and is not considered Wildlife. For purposes of this policy, the term “pet” is considered synonymous with Companion Animal.

III. Policy

1. All animals must be restrained by a leash or other means appropriate to the animal, and supervised and controlled by a handler or owner at all times while on the Reed College campus, with the following exceptions:

   A. Off-Leash Area(s): The Director of Community Safety and the Director of Facilities (or designee(s)) may jointly designate one or more outdoor areas of campus where dogs may be allowed off-leash.

   B. Private offices and defined non-public work spaces are designated as Off-Leash Areas, provided the animal is either physically restrained from leaving the defined space, or remains within the defined space by virtue of training.

   C. Animals may be secured outdoors without supervision for short reasonable periods of time (i.e. less than 20 minutes) given that they are not placed at risk, and are not disturbing, threatening, or hindering any community member or function. This permission does not extend to indoor atriums/entryways such as the GCC atrium or the inner ETC entryway.

2. Except as listed in 1a and 1b of this policy, animals are generally not permitted to be off-leash or otherwise unrestrained within any common use area of any Reed College facility. Examples include, but are not limited to, building lobbies, hallways, atriums, auditoriums, and similar areas used as common spaces or designed as transit paths through facilities.

3. All animals, except those designated as Service Animals and in some cases Support Animals, are prohibited in certain locations on campus:
A. Areas designated for food service (e.g., Commons, Cafes, conference rooms when food is served, tents and other defined outdoor areas when food is served, etc.)
B. IRCs
C. Library (excluding the Library Lobby)
D. Sports Center
E. Health & Counseling Center
F. Kaul Auditorium
G. Theaters, Dance Studios, and other interior performance spaces. Animals participating in performances may be permitted in these spaces at the discretion of the senior administrator overseeing the area.
H. Unless explicit permission is obtained from the presiding professor, Companion Animals are assumed not permitted in classrooms during class.
I. Any other area of campus where the senior administrator overseeing the area determines that the presence of animals should be prohibited. In those cases, the relevant senior administrator is responsible for communicating the prohibition of animals to the community.

4. The Student Union committee shall set a specific animal policy for the Student Union Bylaws consistent with the guidelines set in this policy.

5. No dogs in heat are permitted on the Reed Campus. Owners are highly encouraged to spay/neuter their animals; altered pets are eligible for reduced license fees in Multnomah County (Resolution 2010-098).

6. Animals, when applicable, must be registered with Multnomah County and display the appropriate license tag while on campus. Multnomah County requires all dogs and cats to be vaccinated for Rabies in order to be licensed.

7. No animal may threaten or attack any member of the Reed community or any other person while on the Reed Campus.

8. Animals are not permitted to damage the property of Reed College or the property of any member of the Reed community. Any damage to Reed College property may be charged to the animal owner’s business account. The owner is liable for all damage incurred by their animal regardless of the handler at the time. If the owner does not have a business account, the owner will be notified of damages. The animal may be excluded from campus until the damages are paid or a mutually agreeable resolution is reached.

9. Animals must not prevent any individual from accessing resources on the Reed campus.

10. Animal handlers are responsible for cleaning up after animals in their charge.

11. Any animal living in on-campus housing is subject to the guidelines put forth in this policy as well as by Residence Life’s Housing Contract.

12. Owners responsible for animals that show signs of active neglect, abandonment, or abuse may be in violation of this policy by virtue of their animal’s condition. This includes the guidelines set by Multnomah County Code 13.300 for animals confined in motor vehicles.

13. Community members must not abuse, poison, hunt, or otherwise intentionally harm (except in self-defense) wildlife, licensed, or unlicensed animals on the Reed College campus regardless of whether or not the animal(s) in question were found on campus. Similarly, animals found on the Reed College campus are extended this protection even if removed from the physical campus. This excludes any humane pest-control measures deemed absolutely necessary by the Director of Facilities (or designee).

IV. Annual Notification

At the beginning of each academic year, the Office of Community Safety will distribute a copy of this policy, and any associated implementation guidelines, to all students, faculty, and staff.

The Director of Community Safety (or designee) is responsible for overseeing implementation of all provisions of this policy and may develop and implement guidelines necessary to ensure effective application of the policy. Implementation guidelines shall be reviewed and approved by the Vice President/Treasurer or designee in their role supervising all facilities and grounds. Failure to comply with the approved implementation guidelines constitutes a violation of this policy.

V. Off-Leash Areas

1. Pursuant to the Animal Policy, 1.a, Reed community members may have animals off-leash in designated off-leash areas. The Director of Community Safety and the Director of Facilities (or designee(s)) may determine appropriate areas at the beginning of each academic year and make the location of these areas available to the community.

2. The following are guidelines for Off-Leash Areas:
   A. Animals off leash are not permitted immediately adjacent to any facility and should be kept off of sidewalks, parking areas, and other improved or hardscape surfaces.
   B. Animals may not dig or otherwise cause damage to the area.
   C. Animals may not aggressively chase or otherwise disturb other animals.
   D. Handlers are responsible for removing any animal waste.
   E. Off-leash areas will be designated with proper signage.
   F. Off-leash areas may be temporarily suspended for special events (such as a performance, lecture, etc.). The community must be notified ten (10) working days prior to the scheduled event.

VI. Response to Violations

Sanctions typically will be progressive and are intended to protect the community and the animal while preserving the ability of people to bring animals to campus. The Office of Community Safety shall maintain a list of possible sanctions for violations of this policy within the approved implementation guidelines outlined below. The Director of Community Safety (or designee) will routinely address violations of this policy, which may result in sanctions for the animal’s owner, as well as restrictions for the animal in question.

The Director of Community Safety (or designee) may also enforce sanctions imposed upon the animal owner by the Judicial Board, Human Resources, or other relevant bodies. If a violation is particularly grave or repetitive, the Director of Community Safety (or designee) may choose to apply more severe sanctions and/or involve local animal control authorities, law enforcement, or any other appropriate body. The Director of Community Safety (or designee) may opt to pursue resolution through the Honor Process if a policy violation may also be an Honor Principle violation, or refer the matter to Human Resources, when appropriate. Likewise, if any community member feels that this policy was violated directly or indirectly, they may individually pursue resolution through the Honor Process, by contacting Human Resources in the case of faculty or staff owners/handlers, or through local law enforcement.

1. Sanctioning Guidelines

The following are guidelines for imposing sanctions based on the number and nature of confirmed complaints that do NOT involve an immediate threat (i.e. attack or injury) posed by the animal to another animal or person. The Director of Community Safety (or designee) may also opt to involve Multnomah County Animal Control regardless of the number of complaints. The notification of sanctions will include a copy of this policy and an explanation of the likely escalation of sanctions for future violations.

• First complaint: written warning from the Director of Community Safety to animal owner.

• Second complaint: written Final Warning from the Director of Community Safety to the animal owner, with a copy also sent to the Vice President/Treasurer and the Vice President who oversees the community member (if applicable).

• Third Complaint: based on the nature of the incident, sanctions may be imposed immediately upon the animal in question, including requiring that the animal be on-leash, excluding the animal from specific areas, or excluding the animal from campus for a defined period of time from the date the investigation is complete. The length of exclusion will typically range from 30 days to 12 months. Depending on the nature of the incident, the Director of Community Safety may also refer the animal owner to the Judicial Board, Human Resources, or other appropriate supervisory bodies.

• Fourth Complaint: a fourth complaint may result in a long-term exclusion (i.e., in excess of 12 months) or permanent exclusion of the animal from the Reed College campus and referral of the animal owner to the Judicial Board, Human Resources, or other appropriate supervisory body.

2. Immediate Threats to Safety

Any animal that poses an immediate threat to the safety of community members or other animals may be removed immediately from the Reed College campus without prior notification of the owner. The Office of Community Safety may enforce any such exclusion until the Vice President/Treasurer and/or an appropriate judicial body review the exclusion, or until the animal no longer poses a threat to members of the community. The owner may also be subject to sanctioning as outlined above in Section VI.

Additionally, the Office of Community Safety may take reasonable actions to address animals that show verifiable signs of neglect, or otherwise grave mistreatment. This may include taking control of the animal and contacting Animal Control. The animal owner may also be subject to sanctioning outlined above in Section VI.

If stray animals are found on campus, the Office of Community Safety shall notify the community to the best of its ability, giving a sufficient description in order to aid identification of the owner. If no owner is located after sufficient opportunity is given for identification of an owner, the animal will be surrendered to Animal Control.

No on-campus facilities are permitted to house or care for injured/orphaned wildlife longer than necessary to arrange transport. An attempt to permanently keep, care for, or nurse a wild animal (even with the intention of later release) constitutes a violation of this policy. Certified wildlife rehabilitation centers, such as the Audubon Society, are equipped to legally care for injured wildlife. Community members are urged to contact a similarly licensed Wildlife Rehabilitation facility or Multnomah County Animal Control for information on how to temporarily care for and transport an injured/orphaned wild animal.

3. Appeals of Sanctions

Anyone subject to sanctions imposed outside the Honor Process as described in section VI.1 may appeal the sanctions within five business days following notification of sanctions. Appeals should be submitted in writing to the Vice President/Treasurer. The Vice President/Treasurer may decline to hear an appeal, or may respond at his/her discretion. Students may also choose to solicit a hearing from the Judicial Board to appeal any sanction upheld by Vice President/Treasurer. Faculty members should submit an appeal in writing to the Dean of Faculty; the Dean of Faculty will then reconsider the case under Section F of the Rules of Procedure, as if a formal complaint has been lodged against the faculty member for violation of the Animal Policy.

VIII. I. SOLICITATION ON CAMPUS

(Source: Vice President/Treasurer, October 1990)

In the interest of every student's right to health, safety, and general privacy, Reed College prohibits solicitation and/or sales on college-owned property except with the specific written permission of the College.

In those instances in which permission is granted, sales are limited to the business hours of Reed College, and to designated areas established by the College as listed below. No solicitation or sales will be allowed in the Residence Halls at any time.

Sales representatives must obtain a sales permit from the Reed College Community Safety Office in the Greywood Building. Students wishing to sell merchandise must present a valid Reed College I.D. at the Community Safety Office to be issued a sales permit. This permit must be on display at the sales location.

Strangers or solicitors, without clearance, should be reported promptly to the Community Safety Office. The college reserves the right to refuse or rescind a sales permit if necessary.

Sales are permitted in the following locations during Reed College business hours of 8:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday, and during certain special events by previous arrangement:

- Commons Porch
- Student Union
- Front lawn during certain specified events (Renaissance Fayre, etc.)
- East parking lot (vans or trailer-booksellers).

VIII. J. INVESTMENT RESPONSIBILITY

(Source: Prepared and adopted by the Investment Committee, Board of Trustees, December 6, 1977; approved by the Board of Trustees, January 13, 1978)
I. Academic Freedom & Institutional Political Neutrality

Throughout its history, the College has been extraordinarily concerned with the defense of academic freedom and as an important adjunct to that defense has sought to limit the political role of the institution or the enlistment of the institution’s name in political causes by any of its constituents. Examples of such limitations are the following.

- Article IV of the Faculty Constitution and By Laws on "Academic Freedom and Responsibility," which provides "that each faculty member has individual freedom of inquiry and expression," also contains in Section 2 the statement that "when a faculty member speaking, writing or acting as a citizen shall be free from institutional censorship or discipline, and should undertake to avoid any implication of being an institutional spokesman."

- The Organization and Speaker Policy codified May 6, 1965 and presently in effect and described in the Student Handbook provides that campus organizations sponsoring speakers must clear their plans with the College Public Information Office, and announcements and publicity must make clear under whose auspices and "not Reed College as such" the person is appearing.

- In 1971, in response to a Board of Trustees directive to produce a statement of Operating Principles and Basic Procedures of Reed College the faculty voted on April 19, 1971 as one of its provisions:

  "- the college fosters and defends academic freedom and avoids taking positions on political issues that do not affect the college or higher education directly."

- The 1977-78 Catalogue of Reed College reflects that position when it states:

  "Reed is an educational, not a political, institution, and the college avoids taking institutional positions on political issues that do not directly affect higher education."

  It is clear the College has been at pains to recognize that academic freedom and institutional neutrality are related, and thus to limit the institutional role in order to give maximum protection to freedom of inquiry and expression for its individual constituents.

II. Investment Objectives - Primacy of financial objectives

The primary investment objective is a fiduciary one to produce a maximum total return with reasonable safety. The statement of endowment investment policy endorsed by the Board of Trustees May 19, 1973 includes the statement:

"The Trustees have determined that, to the extent permitted by the terms and conditions imposed in connection with various gifts to Reed, it is desirable that all funds that Reed holds for investment without obligation to pay income therefrom to a donor continue to be pooled and invested in such a way as to produce a maximum total return therefrom consistent with the reasonable safety of such funds and economy in the investment thereof."
The primacy of prudent financial investment objectives and the exercise of fiduciary responsibility are also required by tradition and by the governing law and statutes surrounding the College.

Citing the primacy of the College's financial objective is done not to displace the significance of moral, social and political issues in share ownership, but rather to emphasize that share ownership does not constitute College approval of all of the policies of any complex share-held corporation, or, for that matter, of all the policies of the dozens of corporations whose shares it may hold at any moment of time. To own is not necessarily entirely to endorse. The College recognizes that extensive resort to non-financial judgments in portfolio selection would weaken the position that ownership carries no presumption of approval on non-financial matters.

An educational institution, with the special obligation of protecting the widest possible expression of divergent viewpoints, and the special responsibility of protecting intellectually dissenting minorities, may of necessity be more abstaining on controversial social, political, and moral issues than individuals or groups who exercise ownership but do not have such special responsibilities.

Considering all of the foregoing points, the College does not buy securities for purposes that are not financial. They are not bought, for instance, to influence attitudes toward moral or social questions, or to achieve objectives that are non-financial.

As an independent college without major support from governments, the investment committee recognizes the importance of past and current private gifts and of a healthy and growing income from endowment as major forces for the survival and vitality of the College.

III. Recognition of College Investment Responsibility

In acting on non-economic questions the College recognizes that its traditions require it to act only where the issue at hand is of a compelling social or moral character and where the action taken reflects widely held, perhaps almost universally held social or moral positions. It should refrain from actions where significant divergence of opinion is perceptible among college constituencies or members.

In judging whether to act on non-economic behavior of large and complex companies the College would take into account

- whether a non-economic issue is of larger or smaller significance in the operations to the company, that is, to what extent the issue can be said to characterize the company.

- whether an issue is judged to be in the process of correction or improvement versus deterioration.

- whether company efforts toward correction are judged to be in process or are likely.

The College has not regularly deliberated and acted to vote its proxies in its own name in the past and where it has voted them it has virtually always been on matters of considerable moment affecting predominantly economic issues. The College name has thus rarely been attached to proxy votes.
IV. Administration of Investment Responsibility Policy

Administration of the Investment Responsibility Policy is carried out as a part of the investment responsibilities of the Board of Trustees, pursuant to the investment management provisions of the By Laws of the Reed Institute.

The Investment Committee of the Board, or its designee, authorizes all proxies, and the Investment Committee is the body which will, if so requested, consider matters of investment responsibility along with its other investment management functions.

The Investment Committee may take such information and advice from constituencies of the College as it deems advisable. Where members of the College community have strong concerns, these may be directed in writing to the Treasurer of the College who acts as the campus liaison with the Committee. The Treasurer will normally report such concerns to the Committee at its regular meetings, but may do so more frequently where the matter is of urgent concern.

The Investment Committee, by a majority vote of its membership, will decide such actions to be taken on non-economic issues as a part of its investment functions, and its decisions will normally be final.

If objection is made to such actions, an appeal may be registered in writing with the Treasurer of the College who will promptly transmit it to the Chairman of the Board of Trustees. The Chairman shall normally within one month appoint an ad hoc review committee of at least three members of the Board of Trustees who are not members of the Investment Committee, to review the decision of the Investment Committee, to have such hearings and to receive such further evidence and information as they deem necessary.

The ad hoc review committee shall proceed promptly to its review and to making its recommendations. As soon as they can be completed, they will be presented to the Board of Trustees at its next meeting.

The Board of Trustees as a whole shall then consider the recommendations in its meeting and dispose of the matter, either by a vote to uphold the recommendation of the review committee or by further action under its regular governing authority and rules of procedure.

VIII. K. VISITING SCHOLARS

(Source: Dean of the Faculty, September 28, 1998)

From time to time the College has provided facilities and services for colleagues identified as Visiting Scholars. In CAPP’s view, such arrangements should occur only when there is a clear benefit to the academic program. This might involve consultation with students and faculty, lectures on topics of professional interest, research assistance, and the like. It is understood that the appointment of Visiting Scholars will be occasioned only by specific needs and opportunities as identified by Reed faculty, should be recommended by a department, and will involve no salary or other remuneration. Visiting Scholars may receive privileges from the institution - e.g., mailing privileges, the use of letterhead, library and computer access, office and/or desk space, telephone access - as determined on a case-by-case basis. Such privileges will be subject to availability and to the approval of the President upon recommendation. of the Dean of Faculty. The Dean of Faculty will seek CAPP’s advice on complicated requests.

VIII. L. ENVIRONMENTAL POLICY STATEMENT

(Source: Approved by the Reed Faculty on December 4, 2006 and approved by the Board of Trustees on February 10, 2007)

Reed College is committed to responsible stewardship of its campus environment and is aware that our actions and decisions impact our city, our region, and our planet. As an institution of higher learning, Reed is dedicated to investigating, understanding, and promoting awareness of its present and future impact on the natural world. Through broad community involvement and education, Reed strives to incorporate ideals of sustainability into the operations of the College and the daily lives of individuals on campus. Sustainability is commonly accepted to mean meeting the resource needs of the present without compromising the ability of future generations to meet their needs. All Reed efforts in support of sustainability will strive to maintain and develop the College in a responsible manner and to minimize the College's impact on the environment.

Activities in support of the above policy statement include:

1. Promoting Awareness
   • Provide educational opportunities for community members to learn about the College’s commitment to sustainability.
   • Encourage all community members to incorporate environmentally sound practices into their campus activities.
   • Research and evaluate current practices and policies in light of new advances in technology.

2. Making a Commitment to our Campus Environment
   • Maintain and develop the campus landscape, including the Reed College canyon, using environmentally sound practices.
   • Use sustainable building practices in construction activities on the campus.
   • Develop, implement, and modify a campus master plan that respects the environment.

3. Making a Commitment to our Global Environment
   • Promote the efficient use of resources including water, fuels, electricity and other materials.
   • Limit waste through recycling and responsible purchasing of materials and services.
   • Understand best practice standards, requirements of environmental laws and regulations and have a process of continual environmental improvement.

The Environmental Sustainability Committee facilitates and coordinates the College’s activities in support of sustainability. This committee monitors the current environmental impact of the campus and reports its findings annually to the faculty and to the community. The committee encourages proposals and suggestions from the community for ways to improve current sustainability practices and helps to determine which practices to investigate and adopt.
VIII. M. BACKGROUND CHECKS

(Source: Approved by CAPP, August 29, 2014)

The College is committed to ensuring that criminal background checks are done on any Reed faculty member, staff member or student (including those doing research or outreach) who has unsupervised direct contact with individuals under 16 years of age for the purposes of Reed research, coursework, or Reed-sponsored activities.

- The College requires criminal background checks of all researchers who will have any unsupervised direct contact with children. This requirement may be waived when the work is being done at an external site that has its own process for conducting background checks (e.g., Portland Public Schools). The Institutional Review Board’s review process for research involving minors will include this requirement as part of the approval process.

- For other situations, such as students working in outreach projects, the project organizer (e.g. professor of the relevant class, outreach coordinator for the relevant project) will either ensure that the organization involved is itself committed to conduct such criminal background checks as part of its normal procedures (and keep records of such commitments), or oversee such checks themselves.

A third party (including the Dean of Faculty, and not including the relevant supervisor, faculty member, outreach coordinator, etc.) will vet the results of the background checks if criminal offenses are revealed. The following offenses will in most cases preclude work with children: offenses including violence, weapons, sex, or children (e.g., endangerment, neglect).

In addition, there are a small number of contexts for which drug and alcohol offenses would be problematic (e.g., working in a substance abuse treatment facility); for those cases, the course instructor/supervisor will make it clear through a special notation on the background check form that drug and alcohol offenses should also be considered.

Any questions will be discussed with the relevant supervisor, faculty member, outreach coordinator, etc., in general terms, without revealing the identity of any person involved.

Human Resources will organize the background checks performed by the College. Further information on these checks is available from Human Resources.

VIII. N. PRINCIPAL INVESTIGATOR ELIGIBILITY POLICY

(Source: Office of the Dean of the Faculty, September 24, 2015)

A principal investigator on a research project (a “PI”) bears responsibility for the conduct of the research project, including its completion, its ethical and intellectual conduct, compliance with relevant regulations, and the stewardship of the funds. In any externally sponsored research grant, however, Reed College also assumes certain legal and financial liabilities. For these reasons, PIs among the academic staff must either be in a faculty position or be supervised by a faculty sponsor.
PI or Co-PI status is automatically granted to current Reed faculty members in tenuretrack or tenured positions, or contract-renewable or visiting faculty positions. Automatic eligibility for PI and Co-PI status terminates upon separation from Reed College. At this time, a PI or Co-PI must initiate the grant transfer process.

PIs are asked to inform Diane Gumz and Jane Woodcock of their intention to apply for a grant three months prior to the deadline for application.

Postdoctoral Eligibility:

Reed will support postdocs’ applications for grants as time and resources permit, but, because of their particular status within the college, postdocs must comply with the following requirements:

1. Postdocs must have a faculty sponsor;
2. The faculty sponsor must be involved in the drafting of the grant;
3. The faculty sponsor must assume oversight of the budget;
4. In the case (such as NRSA grants) where the grant does not cover regular college benefits, the faculty sponsor must agree to cover the remaining benefits through departmental funds or other resources;
5. The approval of a grant does not confer a right to space at the college; if the faculty sponsor leaves the college, the postdoc needs to leave also.
6. Postdocs who want to apply to NIH NRSA must attend a one-hour scheduled application workshop, ideally with their faculty sponsor, at least 3 weeks prior to the deadline to which they wish to apply. The faculty grants manager and a faculty member will lead the session, with the former covering technical elements of the application, and the latter providing guidance on how to best present their research and training plan. We will try to be flexible in scheduling the session, to ensure that people can attend. A postdoc who is resubmitting a proposal does not need to attend this session. Postdocs who are in another lab, and applying to join a Reed lab will be asked to participate by conference call.

VIII. O. PHOTOGRAPHY AND VIDEOGRAPHY PROTOCOL

(Source: Office of Public Affairs - approved by CAPP on October 3, 2016)

When photographing in classrooms or Reed educational events not open to the public, we contact the instructor in advance, ask for their permission, and ask that they inform the class of our presence. In addition, during the class, we ask that those who wish to not be photographed either inform us at the time or later email the director of design.
