

Photosynthesis

→ Process used by plants + by other organisms to convert light energy from the sun into chemical energy.

It begins by the energy from the light being absorbed by proteins called reaction centres.

Notes are on unlined paper, and the handwriting is messy, making the notes difficult to read.