Assignments:
In addition to a take-home exam, there are six 1-page papers due approximately every other week. Since these papers are intended to enhance class discussion as well as to hone your writing and analysis skills, you will be asked to turn in the papers on the readings for the specific days and to post them to the class via email at english213@lists.reed.edu. Please see below for when your papers are due. You will be assigned a group the first day of class.

Three of the five short papers should consist of a close reading of one of the “In Depth Poems” for the day. This close reading should pay careful attention to the aspect of the poem discussed in the article or the Norton reading. (For example, during the week on tone, you should discuss tone, etc.) We will be discussing writing tips individually as well as in-class, but you should also read “Writing about Poetry” (Norton A3-A15, A26-46). Please skip the section entitled “Critical Approaches (A16-25) as this will be covered in Junior Seminar. You may find it helpful, however, to return to this section when you take that class.

Two of the five short papers should be a “Critical Article Synopsis.” These are on days indicated as “Critical Article Synopsis.” This review MUST include both a short paragraph summarizing the argument of the article and a long paragraph discussing the strengths and weaknesses of the argument. This is a crucial skill to learn in this course and you must complete this assignment. For examples of Synopses and more detailed instructions, please see the class webpage.

All Papers (excluding the first which you should bring to class on 8/31) are due AT LEAST 36 hours before dates given below (e.g. If you have been assigned to cover the readings for class on Thursday 9/14 your paper is due 10:30 pm Tuesday 9/12; If you have been assigned Tuesday 9/12 your paper is due 10:30 pm Sunday 9/10, etc.). All papers must be distributed to the class via the email english213@lists.reed.edu. DO NOT send the paper as an enclosure, but paste it into the body of the email. Late papers will not be accepted. Other members of the class should read at least two of the discussion papers before class begins. Please note: the following are not due dates, but the date your paper will be discussed in class and the readings it will cover.
Group One: 8/31, 9/5, 9/19, 10/3, 10/24 (Critical Article Synopsis), 11/21 (Critical Article Synopsis).
