Course Description
This course is an introduction to Islam as a prophetic religious tradition. It explores the different ways in which Muslims have interpreted and put into practice the prophetic message of Muhammad b. ‘Abd Allah through historical and phenomenological analyses of varying theological, philosophical, legal, political, mystical and literary writings. These analyses aim for course participants to develop a framework for explaining the sources and symbols through which historically specific experiences and understandings have been signified as Islamic. The course focuses in particular on the classical and modern periods of Islamic history.

Required Texts
Available on reserve and at the bookstore

Qutb, Sayyid. Milestones.

Course Requirements

-- Active participation in group discussions. This requires you to read all assigned texts carefully so as to be an informed and thoughtful participant in discussions. It also requires you to attend class regularly.

-- Participation in a debate on the status of drinking alcohol in Islamic law. In preparation for the debate, you are required to write a fatwā and post it on the course website. After the debate, you are required to write a reflection paper on the nature of Islamic law.

-- Site-visit paper. Six- to ten-page paper (double spaced) analyzing a visit to an Islamic center or a mosque. Due by April 23. A list of Portland mosques and guidelines for the paper is available on the course website. This requirement could be fulfilled anytime between February 11 and April 22.

-- Short paper. Two- to three-page paper (double spaced) on The Suns of Independence, using this novel to explore issues of local practice and diversity within Islam and the challenges these issues pose to defining or representing Islam. Due in class on Tuesday, February 16.

-- Take-home midterm exam. This is a comprehensive examination of your knowledge of key concepts, events, and persons in early Islamic history. It will also require you to offer a synthetic analysis of everything covered in the course up until the time of the examination. Fair warning: Students in the past have reported that it takes them an entire weekend to complete the exam satisfactorily. Due in my office by noon on Monday, March 29.

-- Take-home final exam. You will be asked to synthesize the content of the course by forming a thoughtful explanation of Islam and its role in the social and personal lives of Muslims. Part of the final exam will include a critical book review of Mohammed Ayoob’s The Many Faces of Political Islam. The final exam will be handed out on the last day of class and it will be due in my office by 5 p.m. on Thursday, May 13.

Policy on Extensions and Late Assignments. Deadlines for course assignments have been carefully selected because the assignments directly complement the content of the course. A fatwā turned in after our debate, for example, will not serve its pedagogical purpose and thus will receive no credit. For this reason you must fulfill each course requirement by its respective deadline in order to receive credit. Extensions will only be granted in case of serious illness or extreme emergency that is verified in writing by the Student Health Services (in case of illness) or the Dean of Students (in case of extreme emergency). Having too many papers due at the same time does not constitute an emergency.
