CURRENT REED STUDENTS - Course Audit Registration Form

This form is for current, full time, degree-seeking Reed College students seeking to audit an undergraduate course. Reed College students may not attend a course for which they are not registered. Complete and submit this form in order to register for a course as an auditing student. Return this completed form to the Registrar's office in Eliot 311 or via email to registrar@reed.edu. Contact registrar@reed.edu or (503-777-7793) with questions. Refer to the Academic Calendar for deadlines.

Community members who are not current, full time, degree-seeking Reed College students must submit an online application to audit through the Office of Admission before they can register for a course as an auditing student.

Course Auditing Information & Guidelines:

- No additional tuition is assessed to audit a course, however, additional course fees may apply.
- The ability to audit a course is available only at the instructor's discretion (with their written approval) and on a space available basis and may be revoked at any time.
- Certain courses at Reed are not eligible to audit. These include—but are not limited to—independent study, HUM 110, and thesis. Auditing MALS courses is restricted to MALS alumni.
- Audited courses carry no academic credit and are not recorded on a Reed College transcript. As such, they are not transferable to another institution.
- Expectations for participation vary by course. Consult with the relevant instructor regarding course requirements and expectations for participation.
- After the deadline to add a course (see the Academic Calendar) audits are irreversible, meaning they may not be changed to for-credit registration.
